DEDICATION

dr. robert lee flowers

One day in the spring of 1891, Dr. Crowell, then President of Trinity College, asked Robert Lee Flowers for his assistance. Trinity College was being moved from Randolph County to Durham, the work to be completed by fall, and the eager young man, scarcely out of his Naval Academy uniform, began his fifty-seven years of service to Duke University. As an instructor in electrical engineering and mathematics, Dr. Flowers combined conscientious enthusiasm with natural capability to keep close to the administration and student body as the University sought to establish itself in this new location.

The progressive measures of the expanding University brought with them added responsibilities, but with vigor and determination Dr. Flowers worked with the interests of his beloved institution at heart. Following the death of President William Preston Few in 1941, Dr. Flowers was installed as President, completing his fiftieth year of service.

Many societies have honored him with membership, among them, Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa. In addition, he is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, a social fraternity, and various civic, religious, and educational organizations.

Now, as Chancellor of the University, Dr. Flowers rounds out his years of service, close to the institution whose progress he helped insure.

To Dr. Robert Lee Flowers, M.A.; LL.D.; educator, administrator, and friend . . . this, the 1949 Chanticleer is respectfully dedicated.

FROM

the editor's notebook

1949 . . . a year of events important for their bearing on our lives as students and members of a nation. Presidents, new buildings, nipped waistlines, expanding prices, talk of rockets traveling faster than sound, and trips to Mars reach our overworked brains.

But too often these significant happenings pass us by, recognized only by a cynical shrug, as our daily life envelops us in an ivory-tower philosophy of life.

Our lives have been, in basic outline, a maze of blackboards and blue books, for until now school has been the core of our existence. Soon, we are to face a new kind of world, but will it change its initial appearance? Examinations won't stop with the acquisition of a diploma. They follow us through life, and although they come at unexpected times, their very continuity insures against error in results. We have an opportunity to correct our poorer efforts, but always at the risk of impairing our positive achievements. "Getting by" with a few lucky breaks may prove to be a more difficult proposition with our fellow men holding the grading power, nor can we fail with a few unlucky answers. Perhaps, in the final analysis, a serious and searching self-examination would be the best way to prepare ourselves for these constant examinations—a self-examination to which we subject ourselves to ascertain our weaknesses and capabilities before they are uncovered by others. This is the most important examination of all.

You cannot afford to fool yourself about yourself!

Bringing You Up To Date

THE rise of Duke University from the obscurity of its humble beginnings is a remarkable story, brought about by the untiring efforts of farsighted, conscientious individuals. It is difficult to conceive that our university of today resembles those first few wooden buildings of 1838 in Randolph County, North Carolina. For it was there that Duke University had its origin, and it was there over a hundred years ago that the standard of the highest educational development possible was set for our school.

When the people of Randolph County realized their need for an educational institution, they founded the school which was later supported by a group of Quakers and Methodists and named Union Institute Academy. The Academy, under the leadership of its principal, Braxton Craven, a great master-builder, was converted into a successful men's school which in 1856 became Trinity College when the North Carolina Methodist Conference acquired ownership of the institution. The college continued to serve the region successfully until 1892, when it was transferred from Randolph County to Durham. Washington Duke, tobacco millionaire, made the transfer possible by providing money for the erection of new buildings.

In 1896, the Duke family formed a one-hundred thousand dollar endowment fund with the stipulation that women be admitted to the school. James B. Duke, in his indenture, provided funds for the construction of Duke University in 1924, and it was named in honor of Washington Duke. Soon plans were drawn up for a new campus, consisting of eleven new buildings plus a chapel and a hospital. The men moved in 1934, and the old campus was then changed to a woman's college.

Since 1933, the school, its instructors, and the students themselves have made such outstanding progress and contributions in all fields that it seems worthwhile to mention some of them here. Mrs. Helen Bevington has written a book, and articles for the New York Times; Dr. Blackburn, Rhodes Scholar, is President of the College English Association; and Dr. N. I. White, whose recent death shocked the college community, was one of the world's foremost authorities on the prose and poetry of the Romantic Movement, and before his death, he was engaged in research for a book on William Godwin, English philosopher and poet. In other fields University professors have made valuable contributions in the line of research and publication. Dr. Hart recently received an award for his contribution to the field of sociology, and Dr. Kuder devised a psychology test, the Kuder Preference Record. Dr. Rankin is the founder and head of the Mathematics Teachers' Institute.

The new million dollar Engineering Building and Physics Building both demonstrate the forward advance in the field of science our school has made. The erection of the Engineering Building, the capacity of which is double that of the old buildings, marks the latest step in the rapid evolution of the Engineering Department at Duke. With its completion, the College of Engineering has easily become comparable with the best in the country.

The Physics Building near the Engineering Building will be completed this summer in time to open for classes in the fall. This building, being erected at a cost of nearly a million dollars, excluding all new equipment, will provide more rooms and better facilities for research than the old one.

The two libraries at Duke possess from nine-hundred thousand to one million volumes, and they are rapidly growing at a rate of nearly thirty thousand volumes per year. Construction is now underway for the enlargement of the library on West Campus. With its completion, the stacks will accommodate eight hundred thousand new volumes and provide seats for nine hundred readers. This addition will double the size of the original library.

On East Campus, one of the newer developments will be the expansion of the Parapsychology Laboratory from rooms in West Duke to a building formerly occupied by the College of Engineering. The decision to move was made this year, and necessary reconstruction will start in the near future. The Laboratory, under the direction of Dr. J. B. Rhine, is a growing branch that needs room to expand. New experimental lines have been introduced, and a broad program has been launched for the collection of spontaneous extra-sensory perception (ESP) experiences. No laboratory comparable to the Parapsychology Laboratory at Duke has ever been established.

The newly decorated Asbury Building marks a triumph for the Fine Arts Department in that they now have for the first time a building completely devoted to the study of art and music. Each room of the building has been redecorated and equipped in the most modern manner according to the art it will accommodate.

Among the prominent artists who have visited Duke are Miss Lily Pons, the First Piano Quartet, the London String Quartet, and the Ballet Russe. In the field of literature, Duke has been honored by such speakers as Cornelia Otis Skinner, John Mason Brown, and Max Shulman.

But these advancements mentioned mark only a few of the great attributes which have given Duke the high-rank among universities it holds today. They are only stepping stones which our school has made in the huge pattern of advancement since those first few wooden buildings in Randolph County. With its successful past and the noteworthy contributions being made today in every field, we cannot help but be optimistic when we look into the future of Duke University.

The most recent addition to the University plant is the Physics building, shown here in the final stages of construction. The latest evidence of Duke's expansion of facilities, it provides more room for research and instruction in Physics, including nuclear physics and atomic fission.

the forces of progressive education and the ideals of our society have been skillfully applied by our steering body to bring us a greater understanding and more complete realization of the possibilities which lie before us.

IT IS THE administration which helps us mold our aims in the best possible channels. It not only holds the goal of the sheepskin before us; it also takes active measures to help us attain that goal. It has secured for the students a faculty which is the envy of other southern schools; it has aided in the collection of one of the finest university libraries in the United States, and at the same time it has kept the cost of tuition remarkably low.

On November 19, 1948, Arthur Hollis Edens became the third president of Duke University. Dr. Edens is one of the South's most distinguished educators. After studying at Emory, Harvard, and the University of Chicago, he taught in the public schools of Clay County in his native state of Tennessee. Subsequently, Dr. Edens was named director of the Cumberland Mountain School, and in 1937 was elected President of the Valdosta Junior College of Emory University. Five years later Dr. Edens, a political scientist, became Associate Dean of the Undergraduate Division of Emory. By 1947 he was both Dean of Administration of Emory and Vice-Chancellor of the University System of Georgia. In 1948 he was chosen Associate Director of the Rockefeller Foundation's General Education Board.

The board of trustees which chose Dr. Edens for the presidency also named Dr. Robert Lee Flowers the first chancellor of Duke University, and made Dr. William H. Wannamaker, dean and vice-president, the vice-chancellor.

Dr. Robert Lee Flowers, former president and present chancellor of Duke University, has spent 57 years in the field of education. After graduation from the United States Naval Academy in 1891, Dr. Flowers came to Trinity College as a mathematics instructor. The next year he was appointed head of that department. Trinity College awarded him the honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1900. He has two honorary Doctorates of Law, conferred in 1927 and 1942 by Davidson College and the University of North Carolina, respectively. Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa, are other organizations of which Dr. Flowers is a member. He capably filled the office of president of the University from 1941 until 1948, when he resigned to take the post of chancellor.

Herbert James Herring, a native of North Carolina and Vice-president of Duke University since 1946, received his A.B. degree from Duke in 1922, his A.M. degree from Columbia in 1929 and his Doctor of Laws at Juniata College in 1948. He came to Duke in 1924 as Assistant Dean, later becoming Dean of Trinity College. In addition to his administrative duties, he is active in organizations such as the Rotary Club, and is in much demand as a public speaker.

Charles B. Markham, Treasurer of Duke, is a native of Durham and a graduate of Trinity College. He received his A.B. degree in 1906 and his M.A. degree in 1907, after which he did graduate work at Columbia University. He came to Duke in 1908 as Assistant Professor of Engineering, was Professor of Mathematics from 1909 to 1929, was Assistant Treasurer from 1911 to 1941, and has been Treasurer since 1941.

The Dean of Freshman of Trinity College is Alan Krebs Manchester. He received his A.B. degree at Vanderbi't University in Tennessee and did graduate work at Columbia University, acquiring his M.A. there. He completed his work at Duke, where he received his Ph.D. Dean Manchester was an instructor at several schools in the United States before he joined the faculty of Duke University in 1929. Among these were Trinity Park School, the University of Oklahoma, and Wallace University School. He also taught in several South American universities. Dean Manchester has traveled quite extensively in foreign countries, being familiar with those of Europe and South America.

Charles Edward Jordan is Vice-president in the Division of Public Relations and Secretary of the University. A North Carolinian, he received his A.B. degree from Trinity College in 1923 and in 1925 was graduated from the Duke Law School. In the latter year he came to Duke as Assistant Secretary, and was appointed Secretary in 1941. Mr. Jordan was made Vice-President in 1946. The ex-chairman of the Duke University Church Board, Mr. Jordan has been a member and chairman of the Publications Board, faculty adviser of the CHANTICLEER for twenty years, and chairman of the Y.M.C.A. Board. In 1945 he was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by Elon College.

Vice-president and Dean of Duke University is Dr. William Hane Wannamaker. Dr. Wannamaker received his A.B. degree from Wofford College and was there awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature. He received his M.A. at Trinity College. After study at Harvard, and at German Universities, he came to Duke in 1902 as a Professor of German. 1917 saw his appointment as Dean of Trinity College. He was elected Vice-President of Duke in 1926 and continued in this position until 1948 when he resigned to become Vice-Chancellor.

WILLIAM H. WANNAMAKER, Vice-Chancellor

Robert B. Cox, Assistant Dean of Trinity College, was graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1923. He received his A.M. degree at Peabody in 1929, after which he did graduate work at the University of North Carolina and at Duke. For several years he taught in the Johnson County High School in Tennessee and in East Tennessee State College. He came to Duke in 1945 and became Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Men in 1947.

The Assistant Dean of Trinity College is James M. Slay. Mr. Slay has held his present position since the fall of 1947. He is an alumnus of Duke and received his A.B. degree and his M.A. here. Previous to his arrival at Duke and his acceptance of the position of Assistant Dean of Trinity College, he was an instructor of Romance Languages at the Randolph-Macon Military Academy. Following this he served in the United States Marine Corps for four years and then did graduate work at Harvard.

woman's college

A NEW woman to our campus last year, Dean Roberta Florence Brinkley has not only proved herself to be an excellent administrator, but has also earned the admiration and respect both of students and faculty.

Dean Brinkley is a native of Georgia and a graduate of Agnes Scott College. She received her M.A. from George Peabody College for Teachers and her Ph.D. from Yale.

Before coming to Duke last year Dean Brinkley spent fourteen months in England doing research while on sabbatical leave from Goucher College.

A few of the many books to her credit are Nathan Field, The Actor Playwright, The Arthurian Epic in the 17th Century, and her latest, Seventeenth Century as Interpreted by Coleridge. She is also editor of English Poetry of the Seventeenth Century.

The Dean of Undergraduate Women is Mrs. Hazen Smith. A native of La Grange, Ga., Mrs. Smith holds her B.A. from Agnes Smith College, and her M.A. from Columbia. Visits to schools in the Orient, Russia, and England, and work with the Y.W.C.A. and personnel work in college helped prepare her for the position she now holds.

The first dean with whom freshmen become acquainted is Mrs. W. S. Persons, Director of the Committee on Admissions. Mrs. Persons is well qualified for this position, having graduated from Duke herself in 1922 and having received both her B.A. and M.A. degrees from this University.

The main objective of Miss Mary Grace Wilson, Dean of Residence, is that of seeing that the students combine a well-balanced program of extra-curricular activities with their academic interests. Born in South Carolina and graduated from Winthrop College, Miss Wilson has done graduate work at Columbia and has taught in several public schools.

An adviser and friend to freshmen women is Miss Ellen Huckabee, Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Instruction. Miss Huckabee is herself an alumna of Duke University, having received both her A.B. and M.A. degrees here. Once a member of Dean's staff at New Jersey College for Women, she has recently returned to Duke after having served on the training program for the Navy.

Maintainer of Duke records since 1925 is Mrs. Louise Seabolt, recorder of the Women's College. She was graduated from Duke in 1925 and received her M.A. from Columbia in 1929. Keeping attendance, academic and statistical records, and evaluating credits, are the duties of Mrs. Seabolt and her staff.

In 1930 Dr. Clarence F. Korstian first came to Duke University as a professor, later being made Dean of the School of Forestry after its establishment in 1938. He received both his B.S.F. and his M.F. degrees at the University of Nebraska, his M.A. at Southeastern Christian College, and his Ph.D. at Yale. Dr. Korstian is active in community life in Durham, being a member of the Rotary Club, a Mason, and a member of the Durham Executive Council. In the few spare hours of his busy life, he has found time to write a series of authoritative works in the field of silviculture. In 1926 he was co-editor of the Naturalist's Guide to the Americas. The 7,000 acre Duke Forest, used for research as well as for recreational purposes, is also under Dr. Korstian's careful supervision.

Forestry is being taught at Duke on the graduate level. Since the war the school has increased its enrollment considerably and is putting strong emphasis on the importance of the preservation of our natural forests.

There are very few universities in the country boasting a graduate forestry school. Duke University has its tremendous forest available as a giant "laboratory," covering great portions of Durham and Orange counties. The land, naturally highly productive, offers advantages in silviculture and forest mensuration seldom found in one forest. Thus Duke University is able to offer, through its Forestry School, graduate courses leading to master's degrees and doctorates in forestry.

Students whose research is concerned with the study of trees in the Duke forest during the growing season, frequently remain at the University all summer.

college of engineering

W. H. Hall, Dean

DUKE'S College of Engineering completed this year the occupation of its gleaming new 1,200,000 foot home, and thus the latest step in the rapid growth in importance of engineering on the campus since the College's organization in 1939. For the first time engineers pursue their work in a building especially designed to meet their specific needs. Its completion culminates one phase of the University's efforts to meet the demands placed upon modern education by the increasing complexities of technological training.

Classes were first held in the building in January, 1948, and the movement from East Campus was finished last fall with the installation of mechanical engineering laboratory equipment. The new bui'ding, which, it can be safely claimed, is not excelled in the entire United States, contains over twice as much space as all the former engineering buildings combined.

Features of the building include the first scientific interior decoration in this part of the country and a complete fluorescent lighting system. The entire building, classrooms, labs, the library, the auditorium, and even the corridors, are painted in a variety of colors expertly chosen for functional potentialities as well as for interior beauty. The colors are designed to reduce eye-strain, reduce accidents (particularly where moving machinery is concerned), and to increase production or efficiency The fluorescent light behind enlarged honey-comb reflectors are of the correct intensity for the highest mental and mechanical efficiency.

In the new building, the latest equipment is available for study in the four-year courses offered in electrical, mechanical and civil engineering. The curriculum is designed to graduate men who are not only qualified as technicians, but who are prepared, as well, to advance as leaders in industry. The arrangement of courses provides a graduate engineer with a firm foundation in his chosen field, but at the same time allows him ample opportunity to develop a broad outlook and a well-rounded personality.

medical school

Dr. W. C. Davison, Dean

DR. WILBURT C. Davison has been a professor of pediatrics and Dean of the Duke University Medical School since 1927. He received his A.B. degree from Princeton. From Oxford he received his A.B. in 1915, a B.Sc. in 1916, and an M.A. in 1919. After returning from his studies abroad, he received his M.D. from Johns Hopkins University and acted as instructor, associate professor, and acting head of the Department of Pediatrics there. He later became Assistant Dean of the Johns Hopkins University Medical School, serving in this position until 1927.

The Duke University School of Medicine, rated Class A by the American Medical Association, offers facilities for the degree of Doctor of Medicine, and for other degrees as well.

school of nursing

MISS FLORENCE K. WILSON, Dean of the School of Nursing, received her A.B. degree from the University of Michigan. Further nursing instruction was gained at Vassar Training Camp for Nurses, and from the City Hospital School of Nursing in New York City. In 1928 she acquired her M.A. from Western Reserve University.

Since her arrival at Duke, Dean Wilson has contributed much to the planning of educational activities for graduate nurses here. She has actively prepared programs by which these graduate nurses may attend classes in the education department on East Campus and has arranged that they may use Duke Hospital as a practice field.

Last year Dean Wilson, by resuming classes in nurse's aid training, reintroduced a program designed for East Campus women interested in nursing.

school of law

DR. HAROLD SHEPHERD, Dean of the School of Law, first came to Duke in 1939 as a Professor of Contracts. He was elected to his present position by the Board of Trustees in March, 1946. Dr. Shepherd has previously held positions at Stanford, the University of Chicago, Columbia, the University of Minnesota, the University of Washington, and the University of Cincinnati. While at Duke, in 1941, Dr. Shepherd was elected President of the Association of American Law Schools.

He has done outstanding work in the field of writing, being the editor of a casebook on contracts used in his course at Duke, as well as the author of many articles which appear in legal periodicals. Dr. Shepherd has also made a survey of bar examination procedures, in order that the courses offered by the Duke Law School will be more effective in helping the student in his preparation for taking the examinations in the various states.

HAROLD A. BOSLEY, Dean

DR. HAROLD A. BOSLEY, Dean of the Divinity School, is a native of Nebraska. He received his A.B. degree from Nebraska Wesleyan, his B.D. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. In 1942 he was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Nebraska Wesleyan. A preacher at heart, Dr. Bosley was confronted with a completely different type of work when he accepted the responsibility as Dean of the Divinity School at Duke in 1947. He now works with men planning to enter the Christian ministry, although he is much in demand as a preacher at the University Chapel services.

Dr. Bosley is eminent in the field of writing, having completed four books, the latest of which, Confronting Christiandom, was chosen as the Religious Book of the Month a year ago April. Since last year Dr. Bosley has also served on the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Church s.

alumni department

Miss Anne Garrard and Mr. C. A. Dukes

MR. CHARLES A. DUKES and his staff of the alumni Department are charged with the responsibility of keeping the 21,000 living Duke Alumni in touch with the University. The department does this through such publications as the Alumni Register, the Alumni News, a quarterly condensation of the Register and other specialized bulletins.

In addition to the all-important service of contacting the alumni, this department plans entertainment for them on such special occasions as Homecoming, Duke University Day, Alumni week-end during spring vacation, and Commencement. Other services to the University which they maintain include the Information Desk in the Union Lobby on West Campus; the mailing office, handling all permit mailings for the University in addition to its own; publications, catalogues, and special bulletins issued by the University; the University House, used for special meetings and receptions for students and alumni; and the Union facilities, the rooms on the second floor of the Union Building used for student and faculty meetings.

The value of these many services and responsibilities cannot be estimated. The Information Desk is the sole contact and terminus of incoming telephone, telegraph, and personal messages as well as being the center of the University's messenger and information services. While the University publishes numerous special bulletins bound and mailed by the Alumni Office, the mailing of thousands of general catalogues is the province of this department also. It is largely due to the Alumni Office that the Union has become the center of student and alumni affairs.

Mr. Dukes is well fitted for these responsibilities. While an undergraduate at Duke, he worked with the Alumni Office and after he received his A.B. in 1929, he was appointed Assistant Director of the Department. He continued in this position until 1944, when the Board of Trustees appointed him Director of the Alumni Department.

The department works on the practical assumption that the loyalty of Duke alumni depends greatly upon keeping a close contact between them and the University; providing them with friendly and helpful service when visiting; and informing them of the needs of the University through the Register, Loyalty Fund, and other media. The success of the Loyalty Fund is a good example of the efficiency of this organization in contacting alumni and presenting the needs of the University.

graduate school

ANY STUDENT who has received an A.B. or B.S. degree from a recognized institution, and whose record indicates that he has ability, may be admitted to the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences of Duke University.

Dr. Paul Magnus Gross, appointed Dean of the Graduate School in 1947, has often been honored in the field of science receiving the Harty Medal in 1945 as the most outstanding scientist of the South. He has also served since 1921 as Director of Tobacco Research and was Director of War Research during World War II.

Dr. Gross is also a member of many national scientific organizations, including the American Chemists Society, and the National Research Council. He has contributed to many scientific publications and was co-author of Elements of Physical Chemistry.

Before coming to Duke in 1919, Dr. Gross was an instructor in the College of the City of New York. In 1920 he was appointed head of the Divinity School, and held this position until he was appointed Dean of the Graduate School in 1947.

Dr. Gross holds degrees from the College of the City of New York and Columbia University and has done work at the University of Leipzig.

summer school

THE DUKE University Summer Session provides facilities for summer study for men and women students, with the requirements of those studying for the degree of Master of Arts particularly in mind. The summer school has a smaller enrollment than the regular session, but a larger representation of graduate students. Classes meet five days a week for a period of eighty-five minutes, making a total of three semester hours of credit per class.

Dr. A. M. Proctor is the Director of the Summer Session. He holds an A.B. degree from Trinity College and M.A. and Ph.D. degree from the Teachers College of Columbia University. He has acted as principal of the high school in Newnan, Georgia, and superintendent of Schools in Roanoke Rapids and Mount Olive, North Carolina. He came to Duke in 1923, and has taught in the summer sessions of the Universities of North Carolina, Texas, and Wisconsin since that time. In 1927 he was appointed associate director of the Duke Summer Session, becoming director in 1947.

Dr. Proctor is a member of the Horace Mann League, the National Education Association, and the American Association of University Professors.

THE Senior year is one of mixed emotions—happy thoughts because one has attained his real purpose in coming to college—a four year education, and he is ready to face the world, theoretically prepared by such an education for social and economic living on a comparatively high plane, and perhaps he has learned in this period of associations a closer understanding of friendship and service through membership in various organizations and contact with people who share his interests and ambitions. But mixed with this feeling of pride come recollections of various events. The future, about to take us from our Gothic architecture and set us rudely in a noisy subway or office building, is approaching, and perhaps it comes as a shock to think that the day so far off in the future is actually here.

This class was the first to start in a completely peacetime regime. Men became more plentiful, and the freshmen got the usual rush from West's suave, sophisticated inhabitants. The Sophomore year found us in the usual "slump," but Juniors returned with a bang and began to show promises of a great class. The "49ers" they called us—and we liked the name. We groaned and griped about all the usual things—food, weather, classes, but the later years brought a more mature outlook. Classes could become interesting with free electives—something we'd always wanted to study but just never could quite find the time became a reality, and the beautiful spring weather overshadowed the well-known rainfall. We're Seniors now—we can get first choice of the rooms in the section, sign up for classes first and fill up that Greek Lit. section before the administration can say "Horsefeathers!"

DEFINITELY ESTABLISHED, JUNIORS PREPARE TO ASSUME THE ROLE OF WISE AND DIGNIFIED SENIORS

AT the beginning of this new school year, the Juniors returned well assured that they had reached the half-way mark of their college career. Upon looking back over their freshman and sophomore years, they found that they had taken part in a great many activities which had enriched their college life.

They undertook their Junior year with added vigor and vitality stimulated by the fact that there was much at stake—their scholastic record. The dreams of all the Juniors began to take on a new aspect in the forms of Phi Beta Kappa, White Duchy, Phi Kappa Delta, and Omicron Delta Kappa. For others there was the everlastingly important item—a "C" average. Now that many had completed their required courses, they could concentrate on their majors.

All was not work for the Juniors participated in as many activities as they could work into their schedules. As upperclassmen, they took the lead in sponsoring sings, dances, and cabin parties. Many had an interesting place in recreational and social work, and they added zest to the broad social life and did much to unify the students of East and West Campuses.

One of the most pleasant memories of the Junior year was the Co-ed Ball which is a high spot on the social calendar. Also to be recorded as footprints on the sands of time are the many pin-ups, and marriages.

As another academic year comes to a close, the Juniors sense the responsibility that is handed down to them by the departing Seniors; a duty which includes the upholding of the prestige and traditions of Duke University.

They sincerely realize the great size of the tasks before them, but as they review their Junior year which has been filled with untold accomplishments, they feel sure that they can cope with next year's work when they return as Seniors.

SOPHOMORES . . . SETTLED AFTER ONE YEAR . . . GIVE FRIENDLY BUT PITYING GLANCES AT NEOPHYTES

THIS fall the campus was really bustling. The Sophomores greeted their last year's friends and also made the freshmen feel as much at home as possible and told them of the many restrictions which they had to obey. Yes, it was wonderful to be able to tell a freshman what to do instead of being the one ordered about.

During this second year the average sophomore knows Duke standards and traditions and thus begins to select his major fields of interest. On East Campus all the Sophomores tried to set an example for the freshmen on Goon Day and show the freshmen that so-called "Sophomore Superiority." The Rat court was the climax of Goon Day in which they tried to correct the erring freshmen.

The experiences gained in the Sophomore year prove that college life is even more enjoyable through the years and also that many lasting friendships are made. The Sophomore could do the rushing as contrasted by being rushed. There was the old familiar phase "Sophomore Slump" which had been suffered with no ill effects.

After first semester and the completion of necessary course requirements the utmost thought in every potential Junior was of the subjects and time that could be devoted to his chief interest. Even then visions of a cap and gown did not seem hazy and too far in the distant future; the possibilities for the coveted Phi Beta Kappa, White Duchy, and ODK were not just dreams but definite possibilities.

Now that summer vacation is nearing all the Sophomores anticipate it happily as a brief intermission before they again resume their studies to an ultimate end. Now the idea of four years of college seems to dwindle down to two, and that begins to seem very short.

THE FRESHMEN SWARM OVER THE CAMPUS . . . WIDE-EYED YET PREPARED TO BE COLLEGIATE AT ALL TIMES

SEPTEMBER again and from every corner of our country the freshman class once more assembles to become a powerful and important part of Duke University . . . for upon the shoulders of this class rest many responsibilities—offices to assume, knowledge to attain, and experiences to profit by. Much of Duke's future depends on them, and they are here to make a worthwhile contribution.

Freshman Week arrives and with it the perennial confusion of orientation . . . endless meetings, grueling placement exams, constant assemblies, and a bewildering haze of exciting and novel activities. Gradually they find themselves enlightened and prepared for the demands of university life.

Soon the upperclassmen return, and with their return come fall cabin parties, formal dances, rushing, Sunday night sings, and unforgettable football weekends. The beautiful and inspiring weekly chapel services . . . serenades, romantic and lovely . . . Goon Day, feared yet enjoyed . . . Carolina and the traditional rivalry . . . December with its glowing Christmas trees in dormitories and the Union . . . all this makes them realize that life at Duke is wholesome and complete.

February and the welcome rest from mid-year exams . . . freshman restrictions eased . . . now begin to find themselves a definite and inseparable part of college . . . they sense loyalty, oneness, and an everlasting pride.

The year has ended and somehow they realize more than ever before that a college education is broadening, necessary, and invaluable. It has brought priceless learning, deep friendships, and character-building experiences. It has brought work, play, and hopes fulfilled.

With summer vacation will come rest from studies, and healthful re'axation to prepare us for another year of college. Yet in September thoughts again turn to friends and classes . . . enthusiastically and with anticipation they return to Duke.

DUE TO the marked increase in interest developed in the College of Engineering this year, the sophomore, junior and senior classes functioned more efficiently than in recent years. Class meetings held once a month on scheduled days discussed problems of each class as a whole in all three departments of the College.

Each class contributed as a group to the furnishing of the lounge in the Engineering building. This room, set aside for informal relaxation between classes, has been furnished by the classes and the University with comfortable furniture and a Coca-Cola dispenser was installed by Student Activities.

Supervision of the conduct of engineering freshmen was handled jointly by the Order of St. Patrick and the sophomore class. These two groups sponsored an open house for engineering freshmen, supervised the construction of torches for the pep rallies and the wearing of white gloves by the first-year men. Freshmen also were charged with cranking the engineers' siren at football games.

Two members of the sophomore class were honored by Tau Beta Pi for their excellence in scholarship during the freshman year. The men, both of whom had an average of 2.25 or better, were presented with an award.

As a gift the Senior Class presented the College of Engineering with two permanent directories. Mounted on the walls of the lobby of the new Engineering Building, one lists the location of the various faculty offices and the other lists the dates and times of the meeting of the engineering organizations.

nurses student government

UNDER the able leadership of president Mary Eva Flake, secretary Peggy Chesson, and treasurer Mary Ruth Thornton, the Nurse's Student Government has been a smoothly running organization. Fifteen members of the student body are elected to form a student council. This council acts as a voice for the student body in faculty-student affairs. It evaluates new ideas and brings them before the student body in the monthly meetings for approval.

The Honor Council, a judiciary branch of the N.S.G.A., defines and upholds the Honor System under which the nurses work. All offenses which concern a breach of the honor code are handled by the executive branch of this council. Still a young group, the Nurse's Student Government Association was organized for the purpose of representing the students in a compact and efficient group. It is this body's aim to foster better relations between the student body, the Student Council, consisting of girls representing the entire body and the faculty.

THE COURSES of training for a student nurse is one of many satisfactions and daily lessons in both the science of medicine and the art of human relations. Nurses train for a period of three years. The program includes laboratory classes, lectures and clinical experiences.

The life of a student nurse is sometimes a little harassed. The arrangement of duty hours varies from day to day. Every student must spend a designated length of time on each of the medical services and when one service's techniques are mastered she must begin a new service.

The social life of the student is far from uninteresting. Some of the events on the social calendar for this year have been the S.G.A. dance at Christmas, and of course, the Junior-Senior dance. As for sports this year a freshman baseball team was organized. The basketball team, consisting of nurses from all classes, had a very successful year.

One project for the year was the organization of the freshman advisory council to aid in orienting new students. This has taken the place of the former big sister plan and has proven to foster a better relationship among the students.

A pleasant surprise came to the nurses this year in the form of a revision of the educational program. Senior students interested in obtaining a baccalaureate degree from the University were granted the privilege of taking electives in the undergraduate school for one semester.

From all these experiences the Nurses have gained the realization that their profession is the highest type of service to mankind. Every patient is a challenge to their ability and training, but they are well prepared to meet whatever problems present themselves. They emerge from their course of training with the conviction that life as a nurse is wonderful.

DUKE'S PIGSKIN PARADE FOR '48

WITH prospects for the coming season none too bright Duke's football charges buckled down early in September to try to field a commendable team. Worried by the loss of such stalwarts as Benny Cittadino, Buddy Mulligan, and Fletcher Wall, the Blue Devil coaches sought eagerly for able replacements.

Even though pre-season forecasts looked dim for the Blue and White, they managed to turn in creditable results weekend after weekend. The men, replacing missing starters of last year, showed brilliance. Although tied in their first two attempts, the Devils remained undefeated until meeting a powerful Georgia Tech eleven.

Many of the Blue Devils received places and honorable mentions on the All-American and All-Southern teams. Leading the way was Captain Al DeRogatis, named to players All-American, followed by Fred Folger, Bill Duncan, Lou Allen, Bill Davis, and Carl Perkinson.

The Blues started with a tie with State and Tennessee, emerged victorious over Navy, Maryland, and VPI. They then dropped two tough games to Georgia Tech and Navy. After bouncing back in the win column with a rout of George Washington the Devils concluded their season with a loss to bowl-bound North Carolina, in a renewal of one of the gridiron's oldest and greatest rivalries.

DUKE'S BLUE DEVILS opened their 1948 season in a splash of power on September 25, by brow-beating a stubborn State Eleven into a 0-0 tie. The contest saw the Devils and the Wolfpack taking their turns marching up and down the green turf of Raleigh's Riddick Stadium.

Both teams had ample scoring opportunities, but neither seemed to have the drive to turn the opportunity into success.

The lines played great ball, with Bill Davis and Lou Allen leading the Duke charges. Carl Perkinson's excellent defense play and the scampers of Jack Mounie were highlights of the game for the Duke fans.

Paul Stephanz, number twenty-five for Duke, swerves in his run, trying to stay clear of the State College tacklers that have nothing but his downfall in mind. This premier game of the 1948 football season for Duke ended in a scoreless deadlock in Raleigh.

OPENING their home season, Duke's Grid Giants played a strong Tennessee eleven to a 7-7 stalemate before a small crowd of 22,000 fans.

Duke moved like a house afire in the first few minutes of the ball game. After letting the Volunteers get the feel of the ball for about a minute, the Devils took possession of the ball and marched for their only score. The drive was climaxed when a Folger pass was caught by Ed Austin in pay territory. This was the second score for the Blue Devils in their last six games. Mike Souchak then converted to make the score 7-0.

But it just wasn't the day for the Blue Devils to keep moving. The visiting Vols took over but weren't able to score in the first quarter although they twice penetrated deep into Duke territory. A stout Duke line reared up and stopped both attacks of the visitors on the Devil twenty-two and thirty-two. Soon the Volunteers passing attack went into action, and a thirty-nine yard heave from Littleford to Tennessee captain Powell gave the Knoxville boys their only score. Powell then converted for the extra point and scoring for the afternoon was at an end.

Navy Beaten By Duke Football Team In 28-To-7 Game

THE BLUE DEVILS, led by Fred Folger and Bill Cox, unleashed a powerful ground attack to capsize a fighting Navy crew by a score of 28-7. After Folger intercepted a Middy pass and raced 36 yards to the Navy five, Paul Stephanz crashed off-tackle for a touchdown on Duke's first offensive play of the game. Mike Souchak added the first of four placements. The Devils led 7-0 after two minutes of play.

In the third period, Cox thrilled 25,000 fans with a sparkling sixty yard touchdown gallop. On third down, the young sophomore faked a punt and scampered sixty yards behind beautiful blocking of Davis and Allen for the score. Later in the same quarter, Navy's Baysinger attemped to kick from his six, but the boot was smothered and Bill Duncan pounced on the ball for another six points.

In the final quarter, Jack Friedlund ended the scoring on a twenty yard reverse play.

The aggressiveness of the Duke line was an outstanding factor in the triumph. Lou Allen, Bill Davis, and Duncan were continually dumping Navy backs behind the line of scrimmage.

ON OCTOBER 16, at Griffith Stadium in Washington, the resurgent Blue Devils outfought a previously undefeated and unscored upon Maryland eleven in a bitterly contested game to gain their second consecutive victory.

The battle was thrilling from start to finish. Duke hit pay-dirt first on a pass from Fred Folger to Tommy Hughes, who after gathering in the ball on the Maryland thirty-five, scampered the remaining distance for the score. Mike Souchak then converted successfully for what proved to be the winning point of the game. The Terps came right back for their first score, but missed the conversion. The game winning touchdown came in the third quarter. Billy Cox took the ball around right end, cut back to the middle of the field, and then outmaneuvered the last two Marylander defenders to travel 82 yards to put Duke in front for good, 13-12.

BLUE DEVILS BARELY NIP GOBBLERS 7 TO 0

THE BLUE DEVILS journeyed to Roanoke, Virginia, on October 23, to face the Gobblers of VPI. Although a heavy favorite, the Duke gridders had a hard time, but finally emerged victorious by the score of 7-0.

The Gobblers, surprising the dopesters, played heads up ball all the way, putting down one Duke threat after another. The only score of the game came on a great run by wingback Tommy Hughes on a reverse play which covered forty-five yards.

Two VPI threats were by pass interceptions. Fred Folger snagged the first in the first quarter to halt the Gobbler attack on the Duke twenty, and Carl Perkinson, playing his usual splendid ball behind the line, pulled one in on the Duke twenty-five late in the third quarter.

It looked as though Duke had another score in the fourth quarter when the Devils, led by Jack Mounie and Earle McKeown, plowed from their twenty-five down to the VPI seven. However, at that point their attack fizzled out.

4000 Alumni Expected This Weekend For Colorful Homecoming Festivities

BEFORE a homecoming crowd of 32,000 on October 30, Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets proved to be the stronger club in handing the Duke Blue Devils their first set-back of the season.

The Devils opened strongly as they had been doing all year. The half-time score stood at 7-6 for the Blue Devils. But in the second half, the two teams looked like different ball clubs. Tech moved the ball seventy-two yards for their second touchdown, and then added the extra point. In the fourth quarter, Tech added six more on a drive of fifty-five yards in thirteen plays. The final score was 19-7.

MIRACLES never cease! A Wade-coached team used the "T." Still the Blue Devils were unable to whip the Demon Deacons from Wake Forest. The Baptists walked away with a 27-20 win and their first triumph over the Methodists since 1942.

Wake Forest opened fast, and after a bad Duke punt, marched twenty-three yards to their first score.

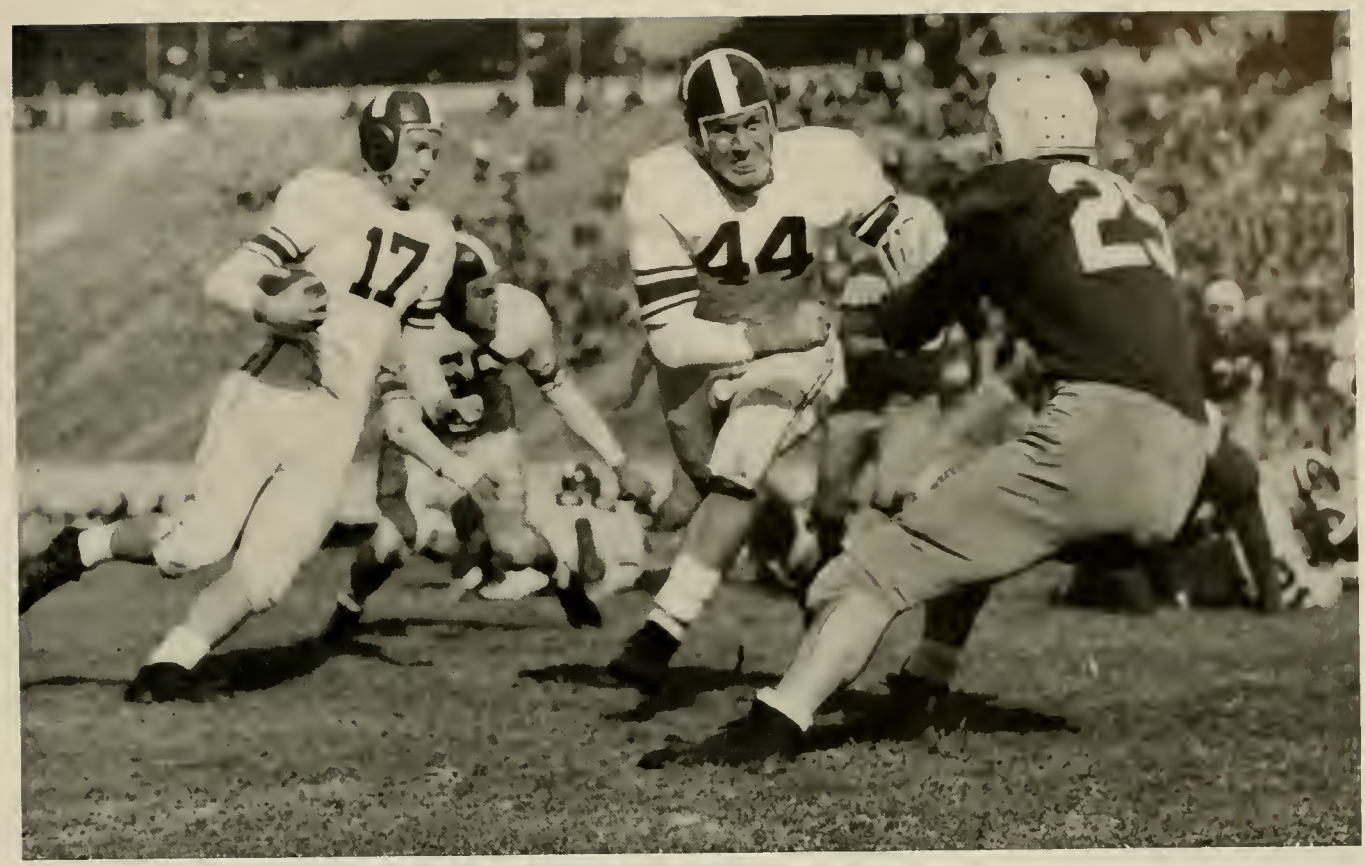
Duke tied the score after moving thirty-four yards, with Mounie going over from the one. Souchak's attempt for the extra point was wide and the score was 7-6. The Devils then went ahead after a fifty-two yard drive climaxed by a nineteen yard pass of Bill Cox to Tommy Hughes. Souchak's conversion was good, and the score was 13-7, Duke.

Shortly before the first half, the score was knotted on a long Blackerby pass. The attempt for the conversion was no good.

The next set of downs proved epochal for the Duke followers. It was for the first time a Wallace Wade coached team used any form of the "T" formation. But it proved successful. Bob Frye lateraled to Jack Friedlund who went eighty-two yards for the score.

On the first play in their next series of downs, Duke fumbled on their own two. It didn't take the Deacons long then, for on the second play they went over for what proved to be the winning margin.

Jack Mounie gets a hole and a clear field ahead with the help of Lou Allen and Paul Stephanz, as Bill Duncan accounts for two Deacon players on a return of the kickoff in the Duke-Wake Forest game, one of the most exciting games in Duke Stadium during the 1948 football season.



In their only shutout game of the year, the Blue Devils defeated the Colonials from George Washington, 62-0. In the picture, Billy Cox, with the ball, makes for the wide open spaces while Jack Eslick, with evident determination, discourages an opposing player from any further action.

SHOWING their best offensive display of the season, Duke's Blue Devils closed their home season with a 62-0 over the George Washington Colonials. The Devils amassed their highest point total since the 1945 season.

Friedlund intercepted an Andy Davis pass on the G.W. 31. The Duke boys then rolled over the Colonial line for their first score with Mounie carrying it over for the Devils.

Duke then took over and was led by speedster Jim Brown for 52 yards for their second score with Stephanz going over from the one yard line. Souchak missed the conversion.

The Devils again rolled to a score after Bill Cox returned a G.W. punt to their nineteen. Mounie scored for the second time.

Featured by a Folger to Friedlund pass for 29 yards, the Duke boys went seventy-eight yards for a score.

Early in the second half, Friedlund intercepted a pass on the G.W. thirty-five and drove from there for their fifth score.

Roland Hodges then scored number six for Duke after leading Duke for forty yards.

Cox returned a punt from his thirty-nine to the G.W. 11. Folger after a few unsuccessful efforts scored on a twenty-two yard run.

Bill Duncan intercepted a flat-pass and ran eighty-four yards for the final score. Bill Davis great block of the last G.W. man on the ten was a high-light of a sparkling run.

CAROLINA BEDEVILS GAME DUKE, 20-0

THE BATTLEWORN Devils travelled to Kenan Stadium in Chapel Hill to close out their 1948 season with a 20-0 loss to the bowl-bound Tarheels. The Dukesters fought the Tarheels fruitlessly through the first half. The booming punts of Fred Folger kept Carolina deep in their own territory, while the Duke line balked the Tarheel ground play.

In the third period, however, Carolina's two-team system proved too much for the tired Blue Devils.

BLUE IMPS—EMBRYO BLUE DEVILS

ALTHOUGH the Freshman gridders did not win any games, they gave their followers an exciting type of ball. Breaks sometimes hurt the boys, but they were always fighting, and from them you can expect to see the Duke stars of tomorrow.

The Blue Imps opened against Wake Forest, losing by the score of 32-7. The Dukesters scored in the second quarter on a pass from George Grune to Blaine Earon. Gino Conti converted for the extra point.

Tired by the trip, the Imps lost a heartbreaking 52-0 game to the Navy Plebes at Annapolis. Duke's lone score in their 19-7 loss to William and Mary was the result of a punt blocked by John Minnick, who picked up the ball and romped for the score.

Although outplaying the State eleven, the Blue Imps came out on the short end of a 14-13 score. Glenn Wild, little passing star of the Imps, passed the State boys crazy. He completed two for touchdowns.

But Wild was terrific in the Carolina game, when he completed twenty-two out of thirty-five passes. John Crumley scored three times for the Imps, with Gibson adding the remaining score and converting after the touchdowns.

The Junior Varsity Gridders this year were, for the most part, on the inactive list for their football games were usually confined to pre-game warm-up scrimmages with the Duke varsity squad. Throughout the season men from coach Bob Cox's White Squad were advanced to the regular varsity squad where they proved invaluable in many ways, adding much to Duke's hopes when the games were close and the going tough.

Coach Cox had as assistants two excellent coaches—Francis Harrison as mentor of the hard-charging forward wall, and Carmen Falcone as backfield coach.

. . . MIDWINTER SPORTS KING . . .

LOSING only one starting man from last year's team, Capt. Doug Ausbon, Coach Jerry Gerard worked hard to have his boys in shape for the first game with Hanes Hosiery. Two newcomers, "Shag" Hibbitts and Nard Pergrem, both Kentucky Junior College transfers, helped the situation greatly but the Devils still lost their first game to Hanes 58-57.

The Devils won their next game 70-51 against the McCrary Eagles at Ramseur, N. C. All the Blue Devils played well with Hilliard Nance looking good for the semi-pros. Returning home for their first game, the Gerardmen met undefeated Hampden-Sydney and won 58-50. The Devils next beat the U. of Virginia 47-37, with Collins and Ceep Youmans scoring 17 points each.

In a slow game against the McCrary Eagles, the Devils won their fourth straight 51-36 with "Curly" Gordon scoring 13 points.

Playing their first conference game of the year against Davidson at Charlotte, the Devils sparked by Ben Collins who pumped 27 points through the nets, won 58-41. Pergrem, playing in his first game, looked good along with Whit Cobb, steady Davidson guard.

Keeping their winning ways intact, the Gerardmen got revenge on Hanes Hosiery with a 54-42 with all the boys playing a steady game.

straight win, the Gerardmen were led by Collins, Youmans and Hughes, who incidentally played the entire game. Playing their first intersectional game of the season, the Dukesters lost to Temple 59-45. Sparked by Nelson Bobb who made 11 out of 22 shots from the floor and a total of 28 points, the Owls broke the Devil's win streak. Ben Collins, holding Borsavage to four points, racked up 16 himself.

The Devils lost their first conference game to V.P.I., 56-46 at Blacksburg. Returning home to meet State, the Duke five lost a thriller, 53-52. Although Youmans was high for Duke, all the boys played well with Hughes and Youmans going the distance along with Dickey of State. The game was very rough and four players fouled out.

Sparked by Youmans, who made the first 12 points of the game, the Devils got revenge on V.P.I. with a 65-52 win. Ceep made 21 the entire game and along with Sapp and Hughes played fine ball.

Definitely off form, the Devils lost to an inspired Wake Forest team led by Najeway and Geary, 52-50 over at Baptist Hollow. There were a total of 53 fouls called, Duke making 26 foul shots which was what kept them in the game.

The Gerardmen returned home to meet and defeat the Davidson Wildcats 57-51. The Wildcats the night before beat Carolina 10 points, but led by Ben Collins' 20 points, the Devils won a hard fought game. Whit Cobb and Mike Williams with 12 points apiece, sparked the Wildcat attack.

Carl Sapp, playing the best game of his career, was the big factor in the Devils' 55-42 win over Navy. Carl couldn't miss and at one time made five straight shots from the slot position—19 points in all.

On Friday night N. Y. U. made its first appearance at Duke and although heavily favored, lost 73-44. The Blue Devils put on an exhibition of basketball that long will live in the memory of the fans who saw the game. Making 37 per cent of their shots the Devils were led by Youmans in the first half and Sapp and Hughes in the second. All the boys played great ball: Martin, Scarborough, York. In the last 15 seconds, Tom Wallingford and Buck Cheek both dumped in field goals to give the Devils their highest total of the season. Jensen, Dohlon, and Kaufman led the Violets attack, which netted only 3 field goals in the second half.

Showing the effects of a heavy schedule, the Gerardmen lost the next night to Carolina 64-34. The Phantoms, hitting on 41 per cent of their shots, played their best game of the season and were too much for the Duke quintet. Sapp led the loser's attack, getting 9 points.

The next week proved costly to the Devils, who lost two important games in the Southern Conference. Losing to George Washington 51-49 in Washington, the Devils were led by Ben Collins but never seemed to find themselves. Maynard Haithcock, a North Carolina boy, was high for the winners.

Then the Wolfpack of State eked out a 47-44 win in Raleigh. Both teams were definitely off and the game was really a rough house. Sam Ranzino led the State attack with 17 points while the Duke scoring was evenly divided. Duke made 26 out of 34 free throws which kept them in the game.

On the next night, the Devils beat one of the Southeastern's better teams, Georgia Tech, 53-42. Dave Scarborough, playing his best game of the year, led Duke to a wide first half margin and then the Devils seemed to coast to victory over the Yellow Jackets, sparked by Anderson.

ON THE GROUND AND IN THE AIR—THE CINDER CIRCUIT

THE 1948 Blue Devil Track Team brought its season to a close with a third place standing in the Southern Conference. The Devils boasted several of the best trackmen in the South. The team got off to a slow start; however, it showed marked improvement as the season progressed. The team was ably coached by Coaches R. L. Chambers, H. M. Lewis, and R. U. Montfort.

The Blue Devils were captained by Loren Young, star middle distance runner. Young has been particularly outstanding in the 440 yd. run but has performed well in the 220 yd. dash and on the champion mile relay team. Rodger Neighborgall was the high point man for the year with Jim O'Leary in second place. Letter winners for the year were: D. Ausbon, B. Baehr, B. Bowles, J. Colvin, B. Davis, D. Dunham, B. Grisso, C. James, R. Neighborgall, J. O'Leary, B. Scupine, L. Young, and B. Yon (manager).

The Blue Devils opened their outdoor season with a trip to the University of Florida to participate in the Florida Relays. This meet saw some of the best track teams in the country competing. The Devils sprint medly team placed second in that relay event and Jackson tied for third place in the pole vault.

In the U. N. C. Relays at Chapel Hill the sprint medly team placed first and the mile relay copped second place. Duke's vaulter Colvin took a second place in both the pole vault and high jump. Don Dunham took a third place in the javelin as did O'Leary in the shot put.

Taking 10 first places out of 14 events, the Blue Devils defeated the University of Virginia trackmen at Charlottesville by a score of 67½-58½ on April 12. Double wins by Loren Young in the 220 and 440 yard dashes and Roger Neighborgall in half mile and mile runs helped turn back the Cavaliers despite their clean sweep in the 100 yard dash. All places in the pole vault and a winning 48 foot shot put heave by Jim O'Leary helped to clinch the meet.

At the 54th annual running of the Penn Relays, the Duke cindermen took second place in the Class B college mile relay. The Duke relay team tied Princeton for this position, while Morgan State captured top honors in the event.

Despite outstanding performances by the stars Neighborgall, Scupine, Colvin, and O'Leary, Duke lost the day to George Tech by a score of 78 to 53 on May 1. The most spectacular event on the Atlanta track that day was the thrilling mile relay. Each lap of the race ended in almost a dead heat, but Neighborgall edged ahead of his opponent to break the tape in a blanket finish.

A margin of only 6 points defeated Duke in its dual meet with North Carolina State College. First places by Neighborgall in the half mile and mile runs, by Scupine in the 100 yard dash, Young in the 440 dash, Dunham in the javelin throw, Bowles in the pole vault, and Ausbon in the broad jump were impressive but could not overcome the 66-60 defeat at the hands of the Wolfpack.

At their home track on May 7, the Duke tracksters took a heartbreaking 67 5-6 to 63 1-6 defeat by the Navy track squad. Excellent performance in the field events plus wins in the mile relay and 220 yard low hurdles kept Duke within striking range of a victory throughout the meet. Bill Scupine, who improved greatly as the season progressed, was clocked in the 220 yard low hurdles at 23.5, tying the University record set in 1938 and equalling the Southern Conference record. Sophomore vaulter, John Colvin, cleared the bar at 13 feet, taking first place in this event.

Jim O'Leary shared high point honors with two rival stars, having captured firsts in the shot put and discus.

Doug Ausbon, Blue Devil broad jumper, making his mark at the dual meet with North Carolina State College. Duke lost 66-60.

At the thrill-packed Southern Conference track and field meet at Chapel Hill, N. C., Duke finished in third place behind heavily favored North Carolina and Maryland. Duke trackmen captured three first places to share with North Carolina the lead in victories. Jim O'Leary's toss of 50 ft., 7 inches not only won the shot put event but also set a new mark in the Southern Conference record book. A throw of 189 feet, one and one-half inches gave top honors in the javelin throw to Don Dunham. Defending its title earned the previous year, the Blue Devil team, composed of Buddy

The end of a close race during the Duke-Navy meet finds the speedy sailors at the tape on the finish line with two Duke runners hot on his heels. The meet, held in Duke Stadium, was won by Navy with a score of 67 5-6 to 63 1-6, although Duke excelled in the field events.

Doug Ausbon, all-around performer, throws himself into his work as he clears the high bar during a field meet in the Duke Stadium.

Grisso, Brandon Davis, Loren Young, and Roger Neighborgall, triumphed again in the mile relay event. Second places were taken by Neighborgall in the 880 yard run, O'Leary in the discus throw, and Bowles in the pole vault.

In the final meet of the season Duke's cindermen bowed to a powerful U. N. C. track team 81-50.

Roger Neighborgall, Doug Ausbon and Bill Scupine ended their track careers with the termination of the 1948 track season. Their leaving is a great loss to the Blue Devils.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the mile relay team. It was a consistent winner throughout the season, a certainty to contribute badly needed points to the team.

OVER THE RIVER AND THROUGH THE WOODS

THE 1948 cross-country team, under the training of Coach Lewis, finished the season with 4 wins and 3 losses. John Ellsworth was captain of the team and Chuck Gray was manager. Their teammates were Bill Griffith, "Muddy" Spach, Henry Bullock, "Buddy" Grisso, "Al" Stone, and Lawson Crowe.

They opened their season October 8 against Navy, losing 32-25 (low score wins). In the next meet with Maryland at College Park, Md., October 16, the Dukesters lost by a score of 43-15. The third meet found them soundly trouncing Davidson 17-40. Spach and Griffith tied for first place. They racked up an impressive 16-43 victory over N. C. State next with Griffith, Spach, Ellsworth, and Bullock tying for first. (15 is a perfect score.)

The Duke Harriers then defeated Georgia Tech, winning a hard fought meet by a score of 26-29. Smith of Tech, first in the race, was followed closely by Griffith, Spach, Bullock, Ellsworth, and Grisso, in that order. U. N. C. reversed the Tech score on Duke and defeated the Duke team 29-26 on their home grounds as Dubois of Carolina set a new track record.

In a good closer Duke defeated Virginia here by a score of 20-35. Virginia's Evans was first, setting a new record of 20:55. However, Duke took second by placing Ellsworth, Griffith, Spach, Bullock, and Grisso in a five way tie.

BLUE DEVIL COURT-MEN HAVE BEST SEASON SINCE '34

THE 1948 edition of the Duke tennis team enjoyed its most successful season since 1934, winning twelve out of fifteen matches.

During its fine season, the Dukesters were victorious over Williams College, the University of Michigan, Yale, Richmond, George Washington, Wake Forest, North Carolina State, Presbyterian, Navy, U.M.I., Georgia, Georgia Tech, and William and Mary. Defeats were suffered only at the hands of U.N.C. and Davidson. On May 15, the Southern Conference tournament opened, and all Duke representatives showed very well in the competition.

THE DEVILFISH AND COOL, CLEAR WATER IN "PERSON"

ALTHOUGH prospects did not look too good for the Devilfish at the beginning of the season, the Duke swimming team, at the time the annual went to press, won three and lost two meets.

The "Fish" opened their season by appearing in an invitational meet at Carolina on Thanksgiving Day.

In the first regular meet, the Dukesters bowed to Carolina by 58-17. Winners for Duke were Johnny Conner in the fancy diving, who set a pool record—the third time he has bettered his own pool record, and Bill Brackney in the 100 yard freestyle.

Duke outswam a good William and Mary team by the score of 54-21. Duke won every match, with Conner again leading the way.

Freestylist Bill Adams led the Devilfish over the swimmers of VPI by pulling in ten points for firsts in the 220 and 440 yard freestyles. Johnny Conner remained undefeated as did Bill Brackney.

The Middies of the Naval Academy proved too much for the Duke boys, 46-29. Conner again was superb in his speciality. Bill Brackney made it three straight, and Adams again came through with a win in the 440 yard freestyle. The 440 yard relay team of Brackney, Linaweaver, Overdorff, and Miller won by a forfeit.

The freshmen and seconds of the Duke tank team won a meet with the Norfolk Division of William and Mary by the score 42-33. Linaweaver was the big gun with two firsts and was on the winning relay team.

Matches still remained with Emory, Georgia Tech, VMI, Virginia and North Carolina State.

BLUE DEVIL DIAMOND CUTTERS

ON RECORD the 1948 edition of the Duke Baseball team was not as impressive as in years gone by. However, Duke has always provided the best brand of college baseball to be found in the country, and this year was no exception.

The season began with a two game series at Gastonia, N. C., against a hard-hitting Rex Mills outfit. The Spinners won out in the first game when they combed five Duke pitchers for a total of ten hits and eleven runs. The Blue Devils were able to garner only two runs on seven hits off Rex's pitching, but turned the tables somewhat on the following day by rapping out an unimpressvie 19-10 victory that featured homeruns by D'Alonzo and Sires and a total of thirteen errors by both teams.

The road trip continued with a two-game excursion to Clemson, and the Dukesters managed to take both contests by scores of 5-3 and 3-2. Bud Ayres received credit for the first win, and Paul Karukstis the second, aided by some nifty relief work on the part of Dick Strauch. Freshman shortstop Billy Bergeron and second-baseman Jerry Frye continued their heavy stickwork.

Duke wound up its Southern swing by splitting a two-game series with South Carolina, 9-6 and 6-10. Faley and Davis were the winning and losing pitchers respectively.

Due to unforeseen action on the part of the administration in shifting the spring vacation, Duke opened its home season before an uninspiring crowd of groundkeepers. The Dukesters took this opportunity to hand Coach Jack Coombs his 300th victory over a 19-year span by defeating a powerladen Pennsylvania outfit 11-10 in ten innings. Freshmen Hancock and Bergeron continued to impress both afield and at bat.

It took four pitchers and four homeruns for Duke to defeat a scrappy Cornell nine 18-15 in its second home game against touring Northern teams. Johnny Falwell punched out two round trippers while Fred Folger and Stu Erickson got one apiece. Big, brawny, freshman pitcher, Al Curtis showed promise of future usefulness that was to come later in the season.

A semblance of baseball returned in the next two games with Ohio University, the Blue Devils gaining a split with the Buckeyes, 6-5 and 5-4. In the first game Leroy Sires replaced George Clark at bat and Fred Miller, catching during practice.

Captain Ed McCarthy behind the plate and displayed some impressive stickwork while Jerry Shevick and Dick Strauch combined their slants to limit the Ohio boys to ten hits. On the following day Bud Ayres became the first Duke pitcher to go the route when he chucked a four-hitter at the Buckeyes, but lost out due to the ineptness of his mates and his own wildness.

The Quantico Marines, All-Navy Champions of 1947, then handed Duke their fourth loss of the young season by an 8-5 score. This game marked the appearance of Ed Perini as a starting outfielder, and he was to lend invaluable service with the bat for the remainder of the season.

Looking for their eighth triumph, the Blue Devils found a willing victim in a touring Yale nine, defeating them 10-1. Paul Karukstis completely baffled the Eli as his mates hopped on two Yale pitchers for 14 hits and 10 runs.

On the 11th of April, Duke put its Big Four Championship on the block for the first time and came away on the short end of an 18-14 count as N. C. State blasted 6 Duke pitchers for 24 hits in the wildest game of the season.

A few days later Duke's Big Four graph

continued downward as Wake Forest defeated Duke 7-4, to become the first Deacon varsity athletic team to beat a Duke Team in two years.

It was in the next game that Al Curtis proved himself to be the only really reliable pitcher on the Duke staff, as he pitched Duke to its first Big Four win—a 5-1 victory over N. C. State. It was here too that Stu Erickson gained the position of foremost slugger on the Duke squad as he lashed out his 3rd home run of the year.

Carolina then plunged Duke to the bottom of the Big Four in a tight, exciting game in which Duke used four pitchers. Vinnie DeLorenzo, ace of the Carolina staff had to be brought in to check a Blue Devil rally in the 7th, a rally that fell short as DeLorenzo spoiled any other attempts by Duke for a victory, with the Tar Heels winning 6-5.

Wake Forest spilled the Blue Devils for the second time in the next Big Four Tilt, as Duke again used four pitchers to no avail. The Devils continued to hit well, however, with Jerry Frye, John Falwell, and Red Lucas pacing the attack, Falwell's contribution being a 420-foot round tripper.

Little Davidson hadn't beaten a Duke baseball team since 1934, but they too liked the offerings of the Duke pitchers and banged out a 9-5 victory over the Blue Devils to bring the Duke record to an even 9 wins-9 losses.

On April 28 Duke's baseball fortunes reached the lowest ebb of the season as Wake Forest defeated the Coombsmen for the third time 12-9.

From this point on, however, the Duke graph began to swing upwards. South Carolina moved in for a two-game series, and the Gamecocks dropped both games, 6-3 and 8-7. Al Curtis turned the trick in the first encounter, handcuffing the South Carolinians until 2 were out in the ninth when Dick Strauch relieved. A six run seventh inning uprising put the Dukesters on top in the second game to give Jerry Shevic a well-deserved win.

Duke continued its winning ways on May 4 at Chapel Hill when they nosed out Carolina 6-4 in one of the most exciting games of the year. A five-run rally in the ninth featured by Al D'Alonzo's booming triple and a brilliantly executed triple play to retire the Tar Heels in the last of the ninth gave the Coombsmen a spectacular victory.

Wake Forest was the next opponent, and Coach Coombs, seeking at least one win over the Deacons, sent Al Curtis to the mound. The big boy was equal to the task as he limited the Deacs to six hits and one run, winning 2-1.

It was Curtis again on the following Wednesday when he pitched masterful four hit-one run ball in beating State, 8-1 to move Duke into a tie for second place in the Big Four race. Stu Erickson accounted for four of the eight runs when he laced a 380-foot grand slam home-run high and far over the left field hedge.

With only two days rest, Curtis took the mound again on Saturday to face the Carolina Tar Heels. The husky freshman staggered through to a 3-2 win, when Jerry Frye singled home for Stu Erickson with the winning run in the ninth.

Curtis was then assigned the arduous task of starting his third game in a week when he faced the N. C. State team and lost out 9-4, thereby clinching the Big Four title for U.N.C.

On May 22nd, Duke closed out the season by losing to Carolina 10-8. Stu Erickson, however, provided the highlight of the game when he laced out his second grand slam home-run of the season.

Over the year the Duke record was 15 wins, 12 losses. In the Southern Conference 10 wins and 9 losses, and in the Big Four, Duke finished third with five wins and seven losses.

Ed Perini led the team in hitting with a .347 average. Stu Erickson was the top slugger with six home runs, twenty-eight runs batted in, and a .317 batting average. Freshman Jack Hancock sported a .314 average and played errorless ball, not a small accomplishment for a first-sacker. Bill Bergeron hit .333 and played brilliantly at shortstop. The most effective pitcher was Al Curtis, chalking up a 6-2 record. Jerry Shevic also had a good record, 4 wins, no losses.

Four men were lost by graduation—Henry Smith, Ed Perini, George Clark, and Captain Ed McCarthy. It is no secret, however, that Coach Coombs will have a wealth of material this year and Duke should be the team to beat in the Southern Conference.

the first time such a trip to Florida had been taken. With a schedule of thirty-one games, the longest and most difficult they have ever had, the team looked forward to a first class season with the outfield, infield and catching duties in the hands of experienced men.

Stopping first at Mercer College in Macon, Georgia, the team planned to play eleven games in three southern states. After Mercer, they went to Winter Park, Florida for a three day stand against Rollins College. Last season most of the load of the job of pitcher fell on big, strong-armed freshman, Al Curtis, one of the finest mound prospects in the South, but this season should see such aspirants as Paul Karukstis, Bud Ayers, Brandon Davis and Dick Strauch helping out.

Last year's regular infield returned intact. Jack Hancock who played errorless ball for the entire 1948 season, handled first base duties. Jerry Frey, at second, Bill Bergeron, at shortstop, and John Falwell, at third, round out the group with Al D'Alonzo and Bill Williams ready to move into regular positions.

Stu Erickson, home run king of the Big Four league, paced the returning outfielders with Lucas and Folger.

STICKMEN GET A NATIONAL RATING AND AN ALL-AMERICAN

DUKE'S '48 STICK TEN racked up a six win—three loss record in gaining the number five spot in national rating. Falling before Coach Person's boys were Virginia, 6-5; Washington & Lee, 10-6; Yale, 11-6; Navy, 14-8; Delaware, 16-4; and William & Mary, 15-1. Maryland, Army, and Hopkins took the measure of the Devils, all after tight battles.

Outstanding performances came from Charley Gilfillan who was selected to the All-American first team; Bert Nuttle who held Virginia's great Billy Hooper scoreless; the Micky Mouse midfield with its sensational teamwork; and from Rod Boyce who was the year's high scorer.

The outlook for '49 has been tabbed as good, for the complete starting aggregation from '48 is returning. Duke has the toughest nine-game schedule in the country.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE CHAMPS AND TOP NATIONAL HONORS

THE 1948 aggregation of Blue Devil golfers took top honors in sectional as well as national competition. Coach Hagler's linksmen finished a highly successful season in which they won a total of eleven matches as against only two defeats. Two of the top-notch intersectional teams, Florida and Michigan, were included in the list of the Devil's victims.

Wake Forest edged the Big Blue, 15-12, to end an eleven-year winning streak on the Hope Valley home course. Previously Duke had on this course taken the measure of thirty-three opponents without defeat.

North Carolina State also upset the Haglermen, but the defeat was avenged by a smashing victory in the return match at the Hope Valley course.

The Tarheels of North Carolina, boasting one of the nation's top collegiate golfers in Harvie Ward, fell victim to the Blue Devil onslaught by the score of 25-2. Little Jimmy McNair, performing brilliantly under pressure, defeated Ward four and three.

In tournament play the Dukesters were also highly successful. In the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament, the Devils lost by two strokes to a great team from Louisiana State University. A measure of consolation from the Wake Forest defeat was gained in the Southern Conference tournament at Pinehurst as the Methodists copped the championship finishing twelve strokes ahead of the second-place Deacons. In the national tournament, the Duke entry placed fourth, sorely feeling the loss of freshman-stars Souchak and McLennan due to the regulation allowing no freshman participants.

GERARDMEN KICK THEIR WAY TO A HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL SEASON

WHEN THE call for candidates for the soccer team was issued by Coach K. C., "Jerry," Gerard the outlook was none too bright. Returning from last year's good squad were seven lettermen and several squad members, but most of the squad was inexperienced. They traveled to Lexington, Va. to play Washington and Lee "Generals" in their initial game. Duke's two goals in the first half by last year's leading scorer, "Rod" Rigione and one by "Chico" Cranitois in the third quarter were enough to sustain Washington and Lee's last quarter spurt, and to win 3-1. Next the Duke soccermen journeyed to Richmond to play the Richmond Professional Institute. The RPI lads had spirit, but the tricky Blue Devils were too much and won easily 13-1. At High Point, "Rod" kicked two goals and "Chico" one. A 3-1 victory was obtained. The toughest competition of the season faced the "Booters" at U.N.C. Throughout four regular quarters and two five-minute overtime periods neither was able to score. At Charlottesville the two classy Latin-Americans booted the Blue Devils back into the win column with a 3-1 victory over the "Cavaliers." The U.N.C. game at home was the poorest game played by the soccermen all season. A quick goal by U.N.C. was never overcome. High Point invaded Duke for the last game of the season and promptly scored two quick goals; it seemed the Blue Devils were destined for another defeat. In the third quarter Duke's tricky ball controlling game started to click. Two fast goals by D'Alonzo and a sensational twenty-five yard goal by "Rod" thirty seconds after the kickoff following the last goal put Duke ahead to stay 3-2. The Blue Devils had triumphed for the most successful season in Duke soccer history.

THE GRUNT AND GROAN "FALL" GUYS

ALTHOUGH having lost several key men from the strong 1948 wrestling team, Coach Carmen Falcone's '48 squad showed promise in its early meets of developing into a top contender for the Southern Conference championship.

The Devil grapplers opened the season by stopping Virginia Tech 19-8 in Durham. Joe Orzano, who pinned his opponent in the first period, and J. C. Gallagher turned in outstanding performances.

North Carolina State's Wolfpack were next for the Bib Blue matmen, and the West Raleigh groaners succumbed 24-6. Orzano pinned his man for the second straight week as Duke ralled to an easy victory. Dan Moser won his match with a fall, while Stork, Gallagher, Harrison, and McMaster kept their seasonal records unblemished by turning in wins. Britt's loss to Musser was one of the match's most exciting bouts.

Maryland played host to the Dukes, January 15, and topped the invaders 20½-7½. Wins by Bill Britt and John McMaster and Alex Stork's draw accounted for the Duke scoring.

Returning to their home mats the Falconemen whipped Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets, 16-11. Moser, Gallagher, Stork, and Harrison turned in triumphs for the Blue and White.

. . MORE SPORTS . . . MORE PLAYERS . . . MORE PARTICIPATION FOR '49

THIS YEAR the Intramural Athletics program seemed to be reaching its long sought goal, a prominent place on the Duke University campus. Never before, since the beginning of the organized program in 1934, was the participation on the part of individuals and organizations so enthusiastic. This success is due mainly to the hard work of the managers, the directors, and the Intramural Board. No small credit must be given to the Chronicle for its increased interest in publicizing the program. In comparison with other universities of the same enrollment, Duke has a greater variety of sports and a greater number of participants.

Under the direction of John McConnell, Senior Intramural Manager, and Coach K. C. Gerard, Director of Intramural Athletics, and ably assisted by Coaches J. W. Coombs, J. A. Baley, H. M. Lewis, C. M. Falcone, and W. S. Persons, facilities were provided and tournaments set up for tennis, handball, cross country, touch football, wrestling, basketball, swimming, volleyball, badminton, softball, track and field events, and horseshoes.

Trophies, cups and medals were awarded the outstanding teams and players in every contest. All-Intramural awards were given to individuals for excellency in football, basketball, and softball. A permanent trophy was awarded to the individual getting the most points. The organization's High Point Trophy was permanently retired to the trophy case in the indoor stadium. The Senhauser Award, which was donated in 1946, by the mother of the late William Senhauser, '42, who lost his life in the Pacific theatre of war, also was given. This is an annual award presented to the sophomore or Junior in Trinity College or the College of Probably the greatest event of the 1947-48 season was the introduction of Big Four Play Day. This is to be an annual competition between Duke University, the University of North Carolina, North Carolina State College, and Wake Forest College in non-collegiate Sports. Duke almost made a clean sweep of victories in winning four out of the six sports. The teams took first place in softball, volleyball, badminton, and table tennis; second place in horseshoes; and third in handball. U.N.C. was second. Other sports will probably be added to the agenda in the future.

Once again Kappa Alpha fraternity was not to be outdone in touch football. Their "A," "B," "C," and "D" teams won all four of the fraternity and independent divisions, and House J won the Freshman division. A strong, well-organized KA "C" team walked off with the University Championship by defeating the rugged KA "A" team.

A freshman took first place in cross country. Art Laub, (Sigma Chi) running for House L, came in far ahead of the field in completing the two-mile course in eleven minutes and six seconds. However, Miller finished in second place and paced Alpha Tau Omega to the team championship.

final match from Clardy and Taylor, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, for the fall Handball doubles championship. Lipton and Lott trounced Tsai and Birge for the honors.

For the first time in many years a freshman house won the wrestling match. House N placed two winners to claim the trophy. The individual winners were McCraw (Pi Kappa Phi), Phillips (House N), Gallagher (Sigma Nu), Gordon (House N), Wamsley (Phi Delta Theta), Britt (Alpha Tau Omega), Jeske (Kappa Sigma), and Sherrill.

In the 1948 spring sports, Sigma Chi took the University Championship in track; Beta Theta Pi won the softball Championship; the Kappa Alpha Clowns triumphed in basketball; Sigma Chi defeated all contestants in the Volleyball Tournament; Sigma Alpha Epsilon won a close race in swimming; Alpha Tau Omega took the first gymnastics contest; and Kappa Alpha walked off with the golf honors. In the individual sports, Wamsley, Phi Delta Theta, won the badminton singles, while Taylor and Kirchofer took the doubles. Sullivan, Kappa Alpha, and the team of Massey and Villanueva, Pi Kappa Phi, fought hard to win the doubles cups. Taylor, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, could not be touched as he placed first in handball singles. Cherry and Weiss made a comeback to win the handball doubles.

Bob Taylor was the envy of all competitors when he succeeded in walking off with the Senhauser Award for the second year in a row. Taylor at all times exemplified the qualities set by the committee for this highest honor.

A wide enough variety of activities is offered to enable every student to compete in the sports of his own choice, and competition is carefully graded so as to assure every participant of meeting opposition on his own level of ability. Moreover, a carefully selected and well-trained staff of officials is always on hand to supervise all contests. It cannot be recommended too strongly that every student participate.

After football season is over, the IM office begins the basketball games. Pictured is an exciting moment in KA-Phi Delt game.

. . . LEARNING THE SKILLS OF SPORTS PARTICIPATION

PHYSICAL education for women at Duke University is a story of development from a one-room gym in Southgate to the three story building and its excellent facilities which are used today. Miss Julia Grout came to Duke twenty-five years ago as the only director of athletics, and the staff now includes nine efficient teachers. When East Campus was occupied by the men, athletic facilities for women were very limited. When the men moved to the other campus, the girls had full use of the gymnasium. Now tennis courts, a swimming pool, a cotton ball golf course, a hockey field and baseball diamond, bowling alleys, and the best in equipment and instruction are available to East Campus. Girls are required to take three years of physical education and one rhythm, team sport, and individual sport must be included. Freshmen are required to take body mechanics and an orientation and social hygiene course first semester. At the beginning of the year as a part of their orientation, freshmen are given tests in motor ability, rhythm, swimming, and health knowledge, after which they receive guidance in selecting those courses which will be of value.

Four years ago, physical education was introduced as a major subject for those who wish to qualify as full-time or part-time teachers of health and physical education; and the department is very proud of their majors at present. Physical education majors are offered such subjects as recreational leadership, the history and principles of physical education, organization and administration, and methods and materials. These girls teach, assist, and observe in several classes here, and teach in some of the Durham schools.

And then there's golf—that very rugged sport! The classes practice on Haynes Field, under the supervision of Mrs. Swazey, and then journey to Hillandale golf course to apply their skills. "Ben Hogan" Stewart lines up her shot wishing this were the 19th hole instead of Golf 132.

The Athletic Department often brings to Duke prominent people in the field of sports to give exhibitions and help the students. This year, John Hendrix gave an exhibition tennis match in the spring and in the fall.

The W.A.A., Women's Athletic Association, sponsors varied activities throughout the school year. Freshman week a picnic was held outside the gymnasium for all girls on East Campus at that time. The Board gave clever skits illustrating the sports open to freshmen and told them about the Board which is the governing body of the Association. An open house was held for the freshmen on East and West in October, and early in November W.A.A. gave a "Meet the Co-ed Dance" with music provided by the Duke Ambassadors. Everyone went stag to both of these affairs.

On February 12, Greensboro was the scene of a W.A.A. convention for the purpose of organizing and reporting on the various state activities of the Athletic Federation of College Women. This convention sent a delegate to the National Convention which met at the University of Wisconsin.

Kite Day, sponsored by W.A.A., is an event anticipated by all, and the date is kept secret until the morning of the appointed day. Then all aspiring "kite-flyers" gather on the quadrangle, and the dorm with the best-looking and best-flying kite receives a prize. The kites are usually made by a committee of freshmen in each dormitory.

Each year Nereidian sponsors an aquacade in the gymnasium which is always an important and beautiful event. Nereidian also sponsored the annual intramural swimming meet. The Modern Dance Club, a popular W.A.A. group, also presents a dance recital. Members compose the dances, and the recital is given in coöperation with the music department, the speech department, and the art department. Another important group of the W.A.A. is the Speed Club which participates in the National Telegraphic Swimming Meet every year. Among the tournaments sponsored by W.A.A. are the following: tennis tournaments, inter-dorm and inter-sorority volleyball and basketball tournaments, inter-dorm swimming and bowling meets, and various competitive meets in archery, badminton, bowling, and golf, including National Telegraphic Meets in archery and bowling.

The Woman's Athletic Association plans a program of well-rounded recreational sports. With a well organized Association and the best in equipment available for use, the W.A.A. Board has realized broad developments in this field.

Swimming classes are among the more popular courses offered by the Physical Education department, as they are the only gym classes that do not require a final exam. The East Campus pool is also used by the Nereidian Club and is open for mixed swims on Wednesday evenings.

"Girls, this is a basketball." Miss Lewis, of the Phys. Ed. Dept., explains the more technical points of the game to her famous team which stars Marty Lunger, the only Duke Co-ed who can sleep while attending a gym class, and Margaret Bailey, well-known three-footed guard.

In the East Campus pool, this young lady is pulling out of a jack knife, although she has not obtained enough height for good form.

Jo Reynolds, an active participant in Modern Dance activities, executes a flying leap with perfect form in a class demonstration.

omicron delta kappa

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA is a national honorary leadership fraternity for undergraduate men. It was founded in 1914 to give men recognition for their leadership and to bring the leaders of various phases of college life together so that they might work for the betterment of the university in unity and spirit. It is a secret organization whose new members are elected by ODK itself. Tapping into ODK takes place in the fall and spring when the newly selected members' names are placed on the giant key in front of the Chapel.

THE FLOWER-strewn shield—this is the proud symbol of Phi Kappa Delta, the local honorary which recognizes senior women who are prominent for their leadership, scholarship, and service on campus. The purpose of this group is to inspire lower classmen to develop those qualities which make a student outstanding on the college campus and in society after she leaves school. A goal toward which the honorary has been working is affiliation with Mortar Board, the national honorary. This spring the group will publish the Song Book on which they have been working very hard for some time. The officers this year were: Dolly Brim, president; Mary Brinkman, vice-president; Miss Mary Grace Wilson, secretary; and Nan Hedden, treasurer.

SANTA FILOMENA, Duke School of Nursing Honorary Society, has for its goals the betterment of interclass relationships and the promotion of higher nursing standards. To be tapped to Santa Filomena is the highest honor awarded to student nurses.

The candidates for membership must show recognized qualities of leadership, demonstrate superior nursing ability, and must have maintained a high scholastic record. The candidates are chosen from the rising Senior Class and remain secret until a public candlelight ceremony when the members "tap" the candidates by pinning a small white satin bow on their uniforms and presenting them with a small Nightingale lamp. Members may wear a small pin, the only jewelry which adorns a student's uniform. It is a proud and thrilling moment when this tiny emblem of the highest ideals in nursing is given to a nurse.

alpha kappa psi

INACTIVE during the war, Alpha Kappa Psi was reinstalled in the Spring of 1948 at an initiation ceremony led by Richard A. Hills, Grand President; and Julius M. Lennard, Jr., District Councilor.

The fraternity was founded in 1904, in the School of Commerce, Accounts, and Finance at New York University. Since that time, sixty-five chapters have been installed in the leading universities throughout the country. There are also alumni chapters in all the larger cities.

The Beta Eta chapter was organized at Duke in 1929. Pursuants of a degree in Business Administration, who have shown ability in the field and have proved the right to recognition through business activities on campus are eligible for membership.

Alpha Kappa Psi aims to further the individual welfare of its members; to foster scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance; to educate the public to appreciate and demand higher ideals; and to promote and advance in institutions of college rank, courses leading to degrees in business administration.

Speakers on economics, business, and other educational subjects are present at their meetings. They also have varied activities such as industrial tours, research projects, smokers, banquets, and dances.

In the middle of October, Robert French was sent as a delegate to the Southeastern District Convention at the University of Florida.

The Diary of Alpha Kappa Psi is an official periodical devoted to fraternity, commerce, and other college interests. This magazine contains many educational articles concerning current business problems written by both active and alumni members.

The officers of this national business fraternity for the last year were: Neil C. Taylor, president; Emmett F. Short, vice-president; W. Carl Murphy, secretary; Alwyn L. Featherstone, treasurer, and Professor John H. Shields, Deputy Councilor.

pi tau sigma

PI IOTA, the Duke chapter of the National Honorary Mechanical Engineering Fraternity, Pi Tau Sigma, was organized under the Leadership of Assistant Professor William A. Hinton. The local charter was officially granted on May 13, 1944, the original membership being composed entirely of Navy men. The success of the chapter during the war years was due to the untiring efforts of Professor Ralph S. Wilbur, a charter honorary member, who has helped the chapter fulfill the objects of the organization: to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession, to stimulate interest in coördinate departmental activities, and to promote the mutual professional welfare of its members.

This year at the National Convention, which was held at the University of Wisconsin, the Duke chapter was represented by Jack Freeze, a member of the National Committee on Expansion.

Entrance into Pi Tau Sigma is based upon scholarship, but the final selection rests on the character, citizenship, personality, and professional interest of the candidate. Tapping was done during the fall semester at the Engineers' Ball by the names of the candidates on a giant replica of the Pi Tau Sigma key. After the tapping, the candidates were required to take the National entrance examination as well as construct and wear for one week a wooden, hand-made, Pi Tau Sigma key approximately eight inches tall. Formal initiation was held on December 7, 1948, followed by a banquet in the Union.

The Duke Chapter of Pi Tau Sigma, with its membership consisting of top students in mechanical engineering and with its strong professional interest and determination of its members, attempts to promote the high ideals of Duke University.

tau beta pi

NORTH CAROLINA Gamma Chapter of Tau Beta Pi finishes its first full year on the Duke campus. Instituted here in January, 1947, the local chapter was the culmination of ten years of planning and work by leaders of the College of Engineering.

Founded at Lehigh University in 1885, Tau Beta Pi was organized to "mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering."

This chapter was formed by members of Delta Epsilon Sigma, a local honorary engineering society formed in 1930 to petition the Tau Beta Pi Association.

In January, 1947, DES president E. H. Gautier and counselor Otto Meier, Jr., presented the case of Duke at a national convention and the chapter was unanimously granted a charter.

Charter members included many past presidents and the current members of DES. Three student elections have been held since that date, and by last fall, the number of undergraduate members was twenty-six. Last fall three more alumni were elected, including Edwin L. Jones, Frederick R. Jackson, Jr., and Blake W. Van Leer.

Tau Beta Pi took an active interest in the affairs of the College of Engineering. Plans for the year included the recognition of outstanding engineering freshmen. The chapter also proposed to sponsor a student poll for the rating of members of the engineering faculty.

. . . POTENTIAL LEADERS ON WEST

BETA OMEGA SIGMA ranks among the outstanding student organizations at Duke University. The officers of BOS for this year are Donald S. Huber, president; John Blackburn, vice-president; Dan Blaylock, secretary; and Robert Shackelford, treasurer. Dean Alan K. Manchester is the adviser.

Any freshman who has earned a minimum of twenty-four activity points and who has displayed leadership, school spirit, service, and character is eligible for membership. These activity points are based on the importance of the student activity, the length of service in this activity and the amount of leadership required to successfully complete the work. Emphasis is placed on scholarship as well as service and leadership. The main purpose of Beta Omega Sigma is to foster wholesome student participation in campus activities, as well as to develop school spirit and traditions at Duke.

This year BOS in coöperation with the Sandals presented the Annual Ball of 1948. The two organizations also planned Homecoming Day, assisting with the alumni barbecue luncheon and conducting the Homecoming decoration contests both in Durham and on the campuses. Printing several hundred sheets of cheers and songs, BOS was in charge of all pep rallies and the Carolina game bonfire. The colorful half-time card tricks at football games were planned, organized, and executed under the leadership of this sophomore honorary.

The twenty-four members of BOS finished their activities of the year in the initiation of twenty new freshman on February fifteenth.

"THERE'D be some extra work to do if Sandals went away."

Last spring, twenty brand new, enthusiastic Sandals sang a parody to the tune Mañana and jestingly added the line above. A few months later those same twenty girls decided that there was a lot of truth in that line. They, however, enjoyed working for Duke, and looked around for more jobs to do.

These Sandals had even greater ideas when they arrived at Duke this last fall. However, Freshman Week was the first scheduled event, and twenty girls were never more tired at the end of each day, or more glad that they had had the first chance to meet the freshmen and transfers. Twenty girls never worked harder at meeting and directing freshmen to the dormitories, proctoring and grading placement tests, mixing frosh men and women at the open houses and serving at the "Y" freshman exchange dinner.

After classes had been progressing for several weeks, the Sandals and their male counterparts, the BOS, began work on the first formal dance of the year. Decorations complied with the theme: "Sandals and Bow Ties."

Members of Sandals soon decided that they would cease official relations with BOS; the girls invited them to an informal get-acquainted party in the Ark. The two organizations found this meeting helpful around the first of the second semester when teamwork in producing the sing was important. "East Meets West" with obvious connotations was sung, acted, and danced to with a variety of talent that makes a sing worth seeing. "Buttons and Bows" with Duke's own words bound together the idea that Eastern girls and Western boys finally decided that cosmopolitan life was too attractive to forget.

A Sandal doesn't just happen. A freshman must have a "C" average her first semester, and must be recommended from her activities during her first year. Officers for 1948-49 are as follows: President, Dot Golden; Vice-President, Norma Feaster; Secretary, Jane Schrider; Treasurer, Perky Camm.

phi eta sigma . . . FOR SCHOLASTIC ACHIEVEMENT

TO HELP THE faltering freshman-this has been the note-worthy aim of Phi Eta Sigma during the past year. The Fraternity, which was founded at the University of Illinois in 1923, was first established at Duke in 1931. The group worked hand in hand with the Freshman Advisory Council to aid freshmen who were having difficulty in studying and in making grades. Whenever a freshman received very low or failing grades in a subject, he was reported to the Freshman Advisory Council. The F.A.C. submitted his name to Phi Eta Sigma and the freshman promptly received the tutoring necessary to improve his work.

Membership in Phi Eta Sigma is open to those freshmen who maintain a scholastic average of 2.25 for their first semester or a record of 2.5 for the entire freshman year. Originally the pledge became an active member at the end of the first semester of his sophomore year; however, last year, Phi Eta Sigma initiated all eligible men in the fall. This move placed more members in an active capacity, enabling the fraternity to be of more assistance to the freshmen.

The officers, under the capable leadership of Jack Stringer, were vice-president, Tom Morgan; secretary, Jack Blackburn; and treasurer, Dick Paulson. Dean Manchester was the fraternity's able adviser.

Organizations such as this one have played a large part in helping the freshman adapt himself to college life. Phi Eta Sigma has proved a leader among these organizations in the past and will continue its invaluable service in the future.

. . . ROOTED DEEP IN SCHOLARSHIP

THE FRESHMAN honorary society, Ivy, was founded by the first year women on East campus in 1937, for the purpose of promoting higher planes of scholarship and stimulating intellectual interests as well as encouraging the development of a well-rounded personality. Ivy gave its annual entertainment for all freshmen women having a "B" average at mid-semester in December, and held a gathering in their honor again in the spring. The members of Ivy also marshaled at the lectures sponsored by the Student Forum, at the Modern Dance recital this spring, and at the Nereidian Club's water pageant.

The membership requirement for Ivy is an average of 2.25 quality points for each semester hour carried or 2.5 for the entire year. Ivy taps its new members at a student government assembly in the spring and again the following fall.

Officers for the year were: Harriet Quillian, president; Mary Bailey, vice-president; Nancy Demarest, secretary; and Norma Martin, treasurer. Ivy's members were: Peggy Awtrey, Phoebe Bailey, Leslie Bell, Nancy Borden, Lorraine Bouton, Barbara Brown, Perky Camm, Jane Coggin, Ellen Garnett, Marilyn Goodman, Lillian Grainger, Jana Hanser, Betty Hauser, Janet Henchie, Mary Hooks, Elizabeth June Hurst, Jeanne Hutton, Ruthann Imler, Shasta Montgomery, Carolyn Morse, Janet Murdoch, Elinor Praeger, Sally Prosser, Diane Roesch, Jane Schrider, Elizabeth Strickland, Leta Wechsler, Marian Wieneke, and Lillian Willingham.

TAU PSI OMEGA celebrated its 10th anniversary in 1948. It was founded in 1938 as the result of the concerted action of M. and Mme. Neal Dow and a group of students who were interested in furthering the study of the French language, the country, the customs, and the people. Duke University, then, is the birthplace of the Alpha chapter.

Membership in the fraternity affords an excellent opportunity to hear and to speak the language. To become a member, therefore, one must have the ability to speak the language, as well as a "B" average for one year of college French or the equivalent. Membership is not restricted to French majors or to students currently enrolled in French classes, but to those having the basic qualifications of scholarship and a real interest in the dynamic study des choses francais. Initiations are held twice a year.

At the bi-monthly meetings, some of which are open houses held for those interested in and qualified for membership, the programs feature short French plays or skits, speakers, movies, and French songs. The fraternity has acquired during the past year a set of French records which should further improvement in French pronunciation.

Tau Psi Omega, usually presents a three-act play during the school year. The last one, Les Jours Heureux, which stimulated interest in the French classes here and at Chapel Hill, was judged highly successful.

The officers of the fraternity are Roger Upchurch, president; Pauline Ligon, vice-president; Mary Wimberly, secretary; John Lau, treasurer; and Carolyn Morse, historian.

. . . HABLAMOS ESPANOL COMO NATIVOS

SIGMA DELTA PI, national Spanish honorary fraternity, was founded in 1919 at the University of California, in Berkeley. The organization has constantly expanded until now there are fifty chapters, in every section of the United States. The Duke chapter, Alpha Theta, was chartered in 1936 to uphold the fraternity's three-fold aim: to cause a wider knowledge of and a greater love for the Hispanic contributions to modern culture; to foster friendly relations and a coöperative spirit between the nations of Hispanic and English speech; and to reward those who show special attainments and interests in such a field of study.

The membership requirements include a "B" average through the third year of college Spanish, as well as an over-all scholastic average of 1.5 quality points per semester hour. In addition to the active members, those students with an enthusiastic interest in Hispanic culture may be elected as affiliate members.

The year's activities consisted of open houses, an initiation banquet, a spring festival, and an average of one meeting each month. The officers for the year were Bill Swanson, president; Betty Bob Walters, vice-president; Nyle Brug, secretary; Joe Gorrell, treasurer, and Professor Juan R. Castellano, Faculty Sponsor.

. . . THE SHAMROCK AND THE SLIDE RULE

THE ORDER OF ST. PATRICK, a local honorary engineering leadership society, was first organized on the campus of Duke University in June, 1945, primarily through the efforts of Blake VanLeer and the Engineering Student Government. Patterned after organizations of a similar nature in other engineering colleges throughout the nation, the Order immediately achieved preëminence among the various societies in the College of Engineering. Organized as a service organization, the Order has excelled in this field.

Members are chosen from the junior and senior classes of the College of Engineering on the basis of their contributions to the College of Engineering as well as for their leadership abilities. Once knighted to the Order the student is encouraged to cultivate his leadership abilities to further the interests of the College. Membership is not merely a formality of recognition but is a plan which opens the door to greater achievement.

On September 13th, the Order sponsored an open house for the freshman engineering class. The program for the evening included a movie, "Progress through Engineering," a few words of encouragement and advice from Dean Hall, and a rather extensive tour of the building. A pamphlet, Engineering as a Career, was presented to each freshman, compliments of the Order of St. Patrick.

. . . THEY HAVE A NOBLE AIM

THE ZETA CHAPTER of Kappa Chi Fraternity was formed at Duke in 1943. Its membership is composed of undergraduate students who are preparing themselves for the Christian ministry.

The purpose of Kappa Chi is "to provide and promote a medium for the realization of true fraternity in order that its members may mutually share worship, fellowship, and service based on the high ideals of Jesus Christ." In order that this purpose may be accomplished, regular meetings are held each Monday evening in the York Chapel of the Divinity School, and morning watch services on Wednesday mornings. Social functions are held twice a semester.

Various service projects are undertaken during the school year. Members help conduct Thursday evening vesper services, and participate in the collection of the offering in Duke Chapel.

Two members of the local group have served as officers of the national fraternity. Dave Swain served as president during 1947-48, and Bob Byrd as vice-president during 1948-49.

This year's activities have been under the direction of Bob Byrd, president; Clark Cahow vice-president; John Christy, secretary; and Clint Harris, treasurer. Dr. Waldo Beach, a member of the Divinity School faculty, has served as adviser.

Twenty new members were added to the group during the first semester after completing the nine-week pledge period. This brought the total membership to approximately 50.

. . . A LOAF OF BREAD, A JUG OF INK AND TWO SHARP PENS

CHI DELTA PHI, honorary literary fraternity for women, was founded at the University of Tennessee in 1919. The Zeta chapter at Duke University was established in 1922. The purpose of this organization is to promote greater interest in literature and creative writing by bringing the aspiring young authors together in a friendly group to help each other with phases of their work. Members of Chi Delta Phi contribute material to the Archive, college literary magazine and other Duke publications.

Chi Delta Phi sponsors an annual prose and poetry contest for members of East Campus to encourage student effort in creative writing. The members judge the works submitted themselves, thus receiving practice in the criticism and the selection of literary works. This society sponsors lectures and readings for people interested in the field of letters. Among this year's speakers were Dr. William Blackburn, Mrs. Marie Anne White and Dr. Napoleone Orsini.

Marcia Norcross, president, was awarded a two weeks scholarship last summer to the University of Colorado, after competing in a national creative writing contest. Gillian Fothergill, class of 1948, has achieved success in the literary world as finalist in the Vogue Prix de Paris contest. This honor led to a position as a Vogue staff member.

Upperclassmen are eligible for Chi Delta Phi after showing superior work in literary composition.

Officers for 1948-1949 are Marcia Norcross, president; Gene Richardson, vice-president; Virginia Jones, secretary; and Mary Hendricks, treasurer. This year the adviser who aided the girls in their work was Miss Margaret Church.

theta alpha phi

. . . SAGES OF THE STAGE

THETA ALPHA PHI, national honorary dramatic society, was founded at the University of Chicago in 1919, and the Duke Alpha chapter, the only one in North Carolina, was established in 1925.

This organization endeavors to foster student interest in all branches of theater art. The entire country recognizes this national institution as a possible preliminary step to success in dramatics, as many contemporary celebrities of the stage are members of Theta Alpha Phi.

Invitation to membership is based on meritorious work in two major or four minor roles, or equivalent work in business, makeup, and direction. Members may gain individual knowledge by helping to direct one-act plays for the Duke Players.

This year Theta Alpha Phi has encouraged coöperation among the three dramatic organizations—Duke Players, Hoof and Horn Club, and French Plays, and has worked for the eventual revival of operettas at Duke University.

A worthwhile achievement of Theta Alpha Phi is the sponsorship of speakers. Mr. Samuel Selden of the Carolina Playmakers at Chapel Hill, Joseph Weatherby, professor of speech; Mrs. Marie Anne White, and Mrs. A. T. West have been of great assistance to this group. Mrs. West is the wife of the late founder of Duke Players, and the original adviser of Theta Alpha Phi.

This year the faculty adviser was Mr. Kenneth Reardon. Officers were Francis Milton Hunt, president; Marion Duncan, vice-president; Alda Heykoop, secretary; Dave Polinger, treasurer; and Henry McLeod, historian.

pi mu epsilon

. . . TOPS IN COEFFICIENTS AND SQUARE ROOTS

PI MU EPSILON, the national honorary mathematics fraternity was founded at Syracuse University in 1914. Eighteen years later, North Carolina Alpha, the first chapter to be founded in North Carolina, was installed at Duke University.

The purpose of Pi Mu Epsilon is to promote mathematical scholarship among students in academic institutions of university grade by electing members according to their mathematical and over-all proficiency. To be eligible for membership in this organization a student must have completed mathematics courses through integral calculas with an average of "B" or better, and also must have a "B" average in all other courses that have been taken.

A gold key, containing the Greek letters for Pi Mu Epsilon, distinguishes its wearer as a member of this national honorary mathematics fraternity.

One formal meeting per semester is held for the primary purpose of the initiation of new members, and is followed by a lecture on the practical applications of mathematics and a visit to Mr. W. W. Rankin's Mathematics laboratory; this meeting is climaxed by a social. Other meetings are held frequently throughout the semester. An annual banquet is held during the spring semester in honor of all the members initiated throughout the year.

The faculty adviser of this chapter is Dr. H. H. Elliott of the mathematics department. The student officers are: Norman R. Starks, president; Mary Jane Smith, vice-president; Nancy Bloom, secretary; and Lewis C. Doggett, treasurer.

. . . CHECK YOUR MIND, SIR?

FOUNDED only a year ago last October, Mu Sigma, the psychology society, has continued to provide for the presentation and the discussion of psychological problems most appropriate to the general interest of undergraduates. By activating and encouraging creative thinking, the organization aims to promote a better understanding of psychology and to provide a basis for further study. Last fall they started the year out by having an open meeting for all psychology majors. Dr. J. B. Rhine lectured on hypnosis and also gave a demonstration. Other programs throughout the year were lectures by Duke and U.N.C. psychology professors, round table discussions, and some interesting talks by Duke Hospital psychiatrists.

The organization, under the supervision of Dr. Reichenburg, Dr. MacHugh, and graduate William Cannon is open to all undergraduates with a "C" average who have completed three hours of work in the introductory psychology course. The membership consists of two orders: Fellowship (maximum of twenty-five members) which is elected by the associates as the working unit, and the unlimited associate membership.

Last spring the society was honored by the invitation to install a branch organization at the Richmond Professional Institute. The group hopes to organize other chapters in order to be able to share ideas as well as to stimulate more interest in psychology.

varsity "d" club

. . . LETTERMEN FROM ALL SPORTS

THE VARSITY "D" CLUB is an organization for all men who have won a letter in a major or minor sport at Duke. The club, under the faculty supervision of Mr. Dan Hill and Mr. H. M. Lewis, and under the student direction of John Ellsworth, president; Johnny Reese, vice-president; Lou McMasters, secretary; and Don Dunham, treasurer, has carried out many projects. Selecting co-ed sponsors for the Southern Conference Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament, participating in the activities of the Big Four Athletic Council, and handling the annual Duke-Durham Invitational Basketball Tournament were some of the group's activities. Members of the club have also worked through the F.A.C. in advising freshmen who are here on athletic scholarships.

One of the club's most important social plans for the year was the sponsoring of the homecoming dance for the alumni and members of the club, and for the staff and members of the Georgia Tech team.

delta phi rho alpha

. . . ATHLETIC LEADERS ON EAST

ORGANIZED in 1921, Delta Phi Rho Alpha encourages school spirit, class sportsmanship, leadership, and interest in campus athletics. A purely honorary organization, Delta Phi Rho Alpha recognizes those girls who are outstanding in athletics. Each year, the athletic society presents a cup to the sorority that wins the basketball tournament. Every commencement, the sorority awards a key to the senior who has been outstanding in the qualities which are the aim of the organization.

New members are determined from the athletic activity points kept by the W.A.A. Board; seven sophomores and two juniors are selected each year. On Initiation Day, the new members are easily spotted by their traditional costume, consisting of heavy black stockings, one white and black shoe, a middy blouse, and a short black skirt. Each girl is also required to carry a rolling pin, a paddle, a bucket, and other articles with the Greek letters of the sorority on them.

Lynn Weith headed Delta Phi Rho Alpha this year. Jo Dawes served as secretary, and Gene Eichman, treasurer. The members for 1948-49 were: Happy Allen, Marilyn Bailey, Joey Bird, Mary Brinkman, Jane Chivers, Jo Dawes, Sally Dodson, Gene Eichman, Doris Ferguson, Lois Hobbs, Liz Hoff, Sue Laseley, Peggy Merrill, Fay Reifsnyder, Nancy Schmidt, Mary Jane Smith, Lynn Weith, and Shirley Zittrouer.

LINKED with Duke's tradition of freedom is the proud record of Men's Student Government Association, representing all men. For example, the judicial committee, ruling on student discipline, has had in the past three years only four decisions modified by the administration. In Duke's first really post-war year, M.S.G.A. revived freshman traditions and scored touchdowns on the problems of telephones and parking lots. Leading this year's pioneering efforts, which included a constitutional convention, were Bob Welch as prexy; Al Sharpe, vice-president; Norman Forrest, secretary; and Fenton Guinee, treasurer.

. . . GUIDING HAND ON EAST

WE BELIEVE life at Duke to be based on the principles of honor, responsibility, and co-operation. . . ."

With these thoughts in mind the Women's Student Government Association has developed many new ideas and strengthened old ones during the past year.

The most important single activity has been the promotion of the Honor Code to cover all phases of student life. Other projects include revising the penalty system, sponsoring a Government Forum, organizing the Campus Chest Fund, altering the election system, and co-operating with the Men's Student Government Association in the organization of a steering board for all campus organizations.

men's freshman advisory council

. . . MAKING ADJUSTMENT EASIER

NO MATTER how trying a freshman's problems may seem he knows that he can depend on his FAC adviser for valuable help in solving them.

The purpose of the Freshman Advisory Council is to help each freshman feel at home on campus and build a firm foundation for his college work. This objective is carried out by 102 advisers, each assisting six freshmen in their scholastic and extra-curricular work, social life, and adjustment to rules and traditions.

Coördinating the work of the advisers is the executive council, composed of fifteen house captains with George Parkerson serving as president; Will Jackson as vice-president; and Dick Best as secretary-treasurer.

George Parkerson, President

Dolly Brim, President

HEADED BY Dolly Brim, the Women's Freshman Advisory Council successfully carried out an active program this year. The group, organized in 1931, gives individual assistance to freshman girls during orientation week and throughout the year. The advisers help each girl make those scholastic and social adjustments which will provide for a profitable college career.

One adviser usually guides eight freshmen; therefore, each newcomer receives individual attention and knows she may discuss her problems with an interested upperclassman. Members of this advisory group are appointed by the Dean of Freshmen on a selective basis.

THE Y.M.C.A., with its primary purpose to assist students in understanding the Christian way of life, was founded at Duke in 1887. It is composed of Duke students with Will Jackson as president; Bud Middlesworth, vice-president; Tom Driver, secretary; and John Ellsworth as treasurer. The eight members of the faculty and administration who form the governing body are chosen by all members in an annual election from a group selected by a nominating committee.

This year the Y.M.C.A. enlivened the campus by sponsoring the Freshman Orientation Week followed soon afterwards by Dad's Day and the Wheelbarrow Race. Major social functions were the annual Fall Dance and the spring Dungaree Jubilee. "Duke Doings," the "Duke Directory," and the Freshman Handbook gave final proof of the necessity of the Y.M.C.A. to Duke.

THIS PAST year, the Sophomore and Freshman "Y" Cabinets have coöperated with the Senior Cabinet to carry out the "Y's" social and religious campus functions. Members of both cabinets were handpicked by the executive YMCA committee.

The Freshman Cabinet is especially valuable because it is here that the fifteen members of this cabinet receive the training for their four years in the "Y." In addition, the Freshman Cabinet sponsored a ping-pong tournament and some educational movies for the entertainment of the students, and, for educational purposes, sponsored religious discussions in the freshman dormitories during the week prior to Religious Emphasis Week. Also, not to be forgotten is the fact that it was this group that decorated the Union lobby just before Christmas holidays.

The distribution of the weekly "Duke Doings" and of the new Duke University Directory was a function of the council; and during the past year the Sophomore Cabinet again ran the Lost and Found Department. This cabinet gave the campus some very good entertainment, which included a bridge team and lectures by Duke professors on topics of current interest. Running the Y.M.C.A. Dope Shop during examination time after the campus Dope Shop had closed rounded out the activities of this group.

Cabinet. Besides helping to carry out the over all "Y" objective, last year the Junior-Senior Commission, formerly the Junior Commission but broadened in 1947 to include seniors, conducted a clothing drive for Europe, a record drive for Edgemont Community Center, and published a "Y" handbook for upperclassmen. This year the Forum presented Cornelia Otis Skinner in a program of dramatic monologues, the French biographer and essayist Andre Maurois, and drama critic John Mason Brown, and the master of the bridge game, Ely Culbertson.

Acting as chairman this year was Nancy Mall. Secretary and treasurer were Betsy Buck and Bunny Millner. The faculty advisers were Mrs. Harriet Taylor and Dr. Clarence Schettler.

. . . AT HOME ON THE COURT AND IN THE PARLOR

Fay Reifsnyder, President

THE ORGANIZATION which provides an intramural program on East Campus and promotes good sportmanship is the Women's Athletic Association. It is supported by the entire student body, and all the students of the Woman's College are eligible for membership and participation in its program, which includes hockey, volleyball, swimming, tennis, archery, golf, softball, and a number of other sports.

The association holds Saturday night open houses and has sponsored this year a "Meet the Co-Ed" dance, a modern dance exhibition, and swimming and horseback riding pageants by members of the Nereidian Club and Pegasus. A W.A.A. picnic was part of the Freshman Week program.

The Women's Athletic Association has done much toward bringing the student body and faculty closer together.

modern dance club

. . . DEMONSTRATING EASY GRACE AND RHYTHM

IN ORDER to give co-eds at Duke an opportunity to develop their dancing ability and to use their creative talents, the Modern Dance Club was founded in 1934 by Miss Modena Lewis.

Tryouts are held every semester for girls who wish to participate in the activities of the group. Each year it presents a dance recital. Its members also participate in the "Hoof 'n' Horn" productions and the West Campus Arts Forum. The group has performed for East Carolina Teachers' College and has given lecture demonstrations at local civic clubs.

Serving as officers this year were Jo Reynolds president; Eugenie Eichman, vice-president; Carolyn Callihan, secretary; Jo Hendricks, treasurer; and Miss Modina Lewis, adviser. Miss Lewis and Jo Reynolds directed the Modern Dance Club's annual recital on March 3, in the Woman's College Auditorium. The chief composition of the recital was a dramatic number entitled "The Web." This number is the first made up of dance sequences, instead of a program of unrelated, individualized dances. Jocelyn Bird danced the solo part accompanied by a variety of musical and poetical backgrounds.

Eugenie Eichman executed a solo dance to the poem, "Go Down, Death," while Jo Reynolds also had an original role, dancing to original music. The Madrigal Singers collaborated with the entire dance group to present several choral numbers varying from folk dances to those of a religious nature.

. . . THE "SADDLE CLUB"

FOR THOSE interested in improving their riding and learning more about horsemanship, Pegasus is the organization. The essentials of exhibitionary horsemanship, the control and care of horses, as well as an incomparable opportunity to pursue a worthwhile hobby are the interests of the members of Pegasus.

Members are chosen by try-outs, which include walking, trotting, and cantering; a good position on horseback is the most important quality.

The annual horse show and riding exhibition are the big events of the year. During the show, the co-ed-equestrians skillfully executed military drill and a square dance. This drill, requiring a great deal of practice on the part of the members, was performed before an audience of newsmen, local horsemen, families, and students. The exhibition included intermediate and advanced class jumping contests. Wednesday afternoon rides through Duke Forest marked the activities of the first semester. Supper rides, moonlight rides, and paper chases were also in the plans of the president, Mary Claire Ivey. Miss Webster was the adviser.

nereidian club

. . . AQUATIC FORM AND BEAUTY

SINCE IT was organized in 1938 in order to provide an opportunity for those interested in swimming to develop and to display their skills, the Nereidian Club has done much to further interest in the aquatic sports on East Campus.

Large crowds of students, faculty, and townspeople were on hand for their big project of this year, the annual water pageant, which was held for three days in the spring. With unusual costuming and scenery, this show featured formation swimming and exhibition diving by members of the club.

Membership in Nereidian is based on try-outs held in the spring and the fall of the year. Good form in strokes, diving, and underwater swimming is emphasized, and the proficiency of all entrants is judged on the point system. Girls who try out must have completed their Senior Life-Saving course.

The officers this year were: June Glenn, president; Helen Neumeister, vice-president; Marjorie Tyler, secretary; and Jane Fuchs, treasurer. Miss Frances Holton served as faculty adviser.

pre-medical society

. . . MODERN MEDICINE MEN

THE PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY is an organization that has served the many hundred students who plan to expand their career and enter the field of medicine. By working with the men of the Medical School, it has promoted an interest and knowledge of the medical profession by explaining the many fields and therefore aiding the students in the selection of a specific branch of the profession.

Since 1937, when the society was organized, it has caused many young men and women to become aware of the responsibility that will be theirs. Besides the many interesting speakers there were various programs designed to promote the society's objective.

bench and bar

. . . DUKE'S LEGAL EAGLES

THE ATTORNEY for the defense rises to face the jury. Behind the effective presentation of his client's case lie long hours of research.

Washington? Raleigh? Durham? No, the Duke campus is the setting for Bench and Bar's mock trials, stimulating the thinking and interest of pre-legal undergraduates. Through these trials each member has a chance to take his part in the drama of the courtroom, as well as gaining experience in the technique of preparing and presenting a case. The trials are part of Bench and Bar's activities to develop among pre-legal students an ever-increasing sense of the responsibilities of all members of the legal profession.

Through eleven years of enthusiastic activity, Bench and Bar has become the center of undergraduate legal thought. Chartered in 1938, the organization has grown rapidly in size and importance. Leaders this year were Clyde Propst, president; Leonard Lloyd, vice-president; John D. Shaw, secretary; and Fred Henry, treasurer.

Distinguished speakers addressed the future lawyers on pre-legal curriculum and various aspects of specialized legal practice. The social side was not ignored, either. The annual banquet in the spring climaxed the year's activity.

hoof 'n' horn

. . . "THERE'S NO BUSINESS LIKE SHOW BUSINESS"

In the Ark a Hoof 'n' Horn chorus line, composed of eight lovely co-eds, practices a dance which was included in the show this spring.

LAST YEAR members of the Hoof 'n' Horn Club proclaimed that "There's Nuthin' Like It." At the time it was true—there never had been a show like it on Duke campus before. For the first time the production was presented again for an encore. This year, 1948-1949, the club put on "Lovintime."

The Hoof 'n' Horn Club was founded in 1936 on the Order of Harvard's Hasty Pudding Club and Princeton's Triangle Club to produce original musical comedies for the student body. The first years of the war were a period of dormancy because of lack of resources, but in 1942 it was revived in spite of the numerous difficulties brought on by the Navy Program at Duke. The organization really came into its own immediately after the war, giving many fine shows filled with the student musical and dramatic talent. Besides distinguishing itself as the first organization of its kind in the South, the Hoof 'n' Horn Club has easily become one of the foremost in the country.

All students at Duke who are interested in helping to produce a successful musical comedy may belong to the club and help in the production of the plays. Not only are those people talented in music, dramatics, and dancing encouraged to join, but also others interested in work on the business staff and in the stage management of the performances.

"Lovintime" was presented March 17 and 18 under the direction of Bill Whalen, director and dancing star of "Nuthin' Like It." Its success was made possible only by the hard work of all club members and especially of Dick Landis, president; Bill Whalen, director; Art Steuer, script writer; and the other committees headed by F. M. Hunt, technical director; Bill Ward, business manager; and Al "Lushwell" Sugarman, assistant director.

The audience will not soon forget the fine quality of the entire production of "Lovintime," Hoof 'n' Horn's history of "love in bloom through the ages." Especially remembered was the "lush," technically perfect Roman scene, the battle of Roman wits over the fair Cleopatra. In lighting, dancing, script, music, and the "fire-fly" special effects Hoof 'n' Horn did it again with "Lovintime."

The cast of "Nuthin Like It" wave their arms gaily at the finale. The stars, Peg Forehand and Bill Whalen and the cast were rewarded for their work; it was so popular extra performances were demanded. The songs, dances, and the script were created by talented students.

duke players

. . . "THE PLAY'S THE THING"

JOHN LOVES MARY. John wanted to marry Mary. But there was trouble ahead. Figuring significantly among his problems was the wife he had already acquired. She was to lead to difficulties that were to take a long, long time to remedy.

Enthusiastic Page Auditorium audiences roared through the three acts of the Duke Player's fall production of John Loves Mary, before seeing the problem untangled. The comedy began when Mary, played by Francine Pierce, went into a clinch with John (Fred Wagner) who had just returned from three years service overseas with the army. There were dark clouds hanging over this state of bliss, too, because John had obligingly married a young English girl, with whom his buddy had been deeply in love. He had done this simply to enable the girl to come to America, obtain a quick divorce, and marry Fred, John's crony.

This carefully formulated scheme was wrecked when Fred, in a mischievous moment, married still another woman. Before the problem was solved in the last act, a senator, an Army general, and Mary's wisecracking mother, had had a hand in muddling the picture. The confusion carried through until John, no longer able to hide the facts, confessed and made a bold front of his predicament. Mary gave him the much needed sympathy and the curtain fell on another clinch amid wild applause.

This play was only typical of the caliber of entertainment provided by the Players during the year. Later, comedy gave way to serious drama, when Shadow and Substance was produced. The Spring presentation of George

This year, for the first time, the Duke Players organized a very successful experimental laboratory theatre, presenting for their first production, Tartuffe, a comedy by the French writer, Moliere. The picture shows Collyer, Naylor, Skibinsky, and McCullen in one of the scenes.

Bernard Shaw's Pygmalion received an ovation from Page audiences.

The Duke Players, founded in 1931 by A. T. West, was created to supply an outlet for those students on the campus interested in dramatics, and to provide a new kind of entertainment for the Duke campus. The first of these objectives is fulfilled by an organization which encompasses every phase of stagecraft. There are committees for props, costumes, stage crew, lighting, and the business staff. The success of the second objective, entertainment, is shown by a creditable attendance record. By virtue of this, the club is supported entirely by ticket receipts.

student coordinate board

. . . THE MEDIUM BETWEEN STUDENTS AND FACULTY

THE STUDENT Coördinate Board, an auxiliary of the Woman's Student Government Association, was established in 1945 to act as an intermediary between the students and the administration. The Board is a progressive organization with few limitations to its range of activities, and acts on all suggestions received for the improvement of existing conditions on campus.

Under the leadership of Betty Bob Walters, the fourteen Board members accomplished numerous changes this year. These reforms ranged from the organizing of the University Steering Committee to the reorganizations of weak courses. By improving the service in the Dope Shop and arranging to have the shop open on Sundays, the Board secured its excellent campus-wide reputation. An investigation of the delay in completion of the long-awaited Duchess Room, as well as an attempt to have Bendix washers installed on campus, was conducted by the Board. A poll of one hundred colleges was taken in order to learn how other students handle problems similar to those that arise on East Campus.

Much of the Board's work receives little or no publicity. Securing interesting assembly speakers, helping freshmen register in the fall, and preparing reading lists for English courses so that students may secure their texts in advance are a few of the unheralded tasks of this active group.

The chairman of the Student Coördinate Board is a permanent member of the Curriculum Committee, so that student wishes may be voiced and faculty opinions understood. Occasionally, the advocated changes can not be instituted, and the Board then explains the reasons for existing situations to the students.

Officers for 1948-49 were Betty Bob Walters, Chairman; Jan Camphausen, secretary.

THE CHURCH of Duke University is unique in that it has been a church with no members, for only in the past year has the church received regular members. The church has an affiliate membership of thousands and a small regular membership from among members of the administration. Its government is executed by a board of forty-eight members chosen equally from among the administration and faculty and the student body.

The church board includes the preachers to the University, Drs. Clelland, Bosley, and Hickman; the coördinators of religious activities, Dr. Phillips and Miss Sampley; and its chairman Dean Robert Cox. Among the students, eight are chosen at large and sixteen from the student religious council of the executive officers of the denominational groups. The board is organized into committees for its activities.

The 1,500-1,800 students who filled the chapel on Sunday morning heard, in addition to the University preachers, such religious leaders as Reinhold Neibuhr; Robert McCracken; and Ralph Sockman. The fine mixed choir of 200 voices under J. Foster Barnes and the Gothic beauty of the chapel were a part of each student's life which he will never forget.

engineers' club

. . . FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS

IN A SWEEPING attempt to revitalize the spirit and organization of engineering students, a drastic transformation was made in the long-inactive Engineer's Club including the adoption of a radically new constitution.

Paramount among the provisions of the constitution is the formation of an Engineers Student Council to coördinate the activities of the college of Engineering. The council is composed of officers of each organization in the college.

The new constitution encourages scholastic and social activity. Among this year's events, we find the engineers winning a trophy for homecoming decorations, placing intramural teams, sponsoring a Sunday night sing and an Engineers Show, giving an elaborately-decorated Engineers Ball each semester, and picking a Slide-Rule Queen.

The engineers have coördinated their efforts to lead the campus in school spirit by building the only float at the Duke-Navy game, leading pep rallies with flaming batons and torches, and wearing characteristic hats. By this strong bid to bring spirit to a new level, membership in the club has increased to an all time record. Through this coördination, every organization in the College of Engineering has been made more effective, and the DukEngineer has increased its student circulation over 100 per cent.

. . . SHOOTING A MARK

THE AMERICAN Society of Civil Engineers is the leading national organization of professional civil engineers, and maintains chapters throughout the country. In addition to its regular sections, the Society has student chapters at leading colleges and universities. The main purposes of the Duke chapter are to interest the student in extra-classroom engineering, and at the same time, to interest them in each other socially.

Judging by the membership (99 per cent of all C. E. students) the chapter has been eminently successful in accomplishing these goals. This year the club has sponsored four field trips to engineering projects in and about the state, including the Bugg's Island Dam project and the Carolina Steel and Iron Works in Greensboro. In addition, we have enjoyed an outstanding program of professional and student speakers at the regular meetings, who presented such topics as Highway Engineering, Earth Dam Construction, and Engineering in Contracting. Something new has been added this year, too—a semiannual social "bust" that has done much to rejuvenate that "Engineers' Spirit" you've been hearing about.

In large measure the fine success of the Society this year has been due to the efforts of its retiring officers, who are: Ed Larner, President; Ed Torgerson, Vice-President; Gene Chesson, Secretary-Treasurer.

The new officers and members of the Society hope to improve on the fine record of these men, and to make next year's club one that no C. E. student can afford to miss.

THE DUKE University Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers not only presents facilities to its members for keeping abreast of current developments in the field of electrical engineering, but also affords opportunities for its members to develop any latent abilities in their chosen profession. Established in 1927 by Professor W. J. Seeley of the College of Engineering, the local branch is now under the able guidance of Professor Otto Meier, Jr., counselor.

The activities of the Duke Branch are not restricted to local meetings. Joint meetings are held each semester with the branch from North Carolina State College, and students are always welcome guests at the meetings of the North Carolina Section of the A.I.E.E. These latter meetings do much to foster the friendship existing between practicing engineers and students.

The main event of the recent year occurred this spring when a strong delegation attended the annual Southern District Conference of Student Branches held at Louisana State University.

The social activities of the Branch are sparked annually by a "lab" party where co-eds, et al, can discover for themselves what live-wires these EE's are!

. . . THEY BUILD A BETTER MOUSETRAP

THE DUKE Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers is accomplishing its purpose of advancing the standards of engineering by fostering engineering education, encouraging original research, and broadening the usefulness of the engineering profession with an energetic student participation.

The A.S.M.E. worked with the other engineering organizations on the homecoming decorations, Engineers' Ball, Engineers' Sing, and the Engineers' Show, encouraging and working with the rising engineering spirit. The social activity of this organization include an annual Prof Roast, and the annual baseball game of the A.S.M.E. vs Engineering faculty. Trips were made to Rocky Mount and to Winston-Salem for inspection of the Atlantic Coast Railroad Maintenance Shops, and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Plant.

Speakers were brought in from industry to discuss the practical aspects of Mechanical Engineering with the group at the bi-monthly meetings. Movies were shown at meetings to keep the students well informed on current topics, and those fields in which the students were interested. Technical papers were prepared and presented by the members to the student branch and the best paper was presented at the Annual Regional Meeting of the A.S.M.E. held at Birmingham, Alabama this year.

Under the guidance of "Prof" F. K. Boutwell, the Honorary Chairman, and the other members of the Mechanical Engineering faculty, and with the assistance of various members of the society who work for the program, social, membership and publicity committees, the officers have been able to lead the A.S.M.E. through a successful year.

In November the Shoe and Slipper Club presented Charlie Spivak and his mellow trumpet, featuring his renowned vocalist, Irene Day.

THE SHOE AND SLIPPER CLUB was founded in the spring of 1948 for the purpose of bringing to the campus a nationally famous band twice a year. In the fall of 1948 Shoe and Slipper presented Charlie Spivak for a week end of music including a concert, informal and formal dances.

The club is composed of representatives from each fraternity, freshman house presidents, and five independent representatives. Chuck White served as president the first part of the year, succeeded by Roger Kirchofer.

. . . MUSIC TO DANCE BY

BACK IN 1934 a group of talented young musicians led by Sonny Burke combined their talents and organized the Duke Ambassadors. From the very start, the band was a hit, and in the past few years, has come to be known as one of the best college dance bands in the land. Many famous musicians have gotten their start in the Ambassadors. Among them—Les Brown, Johnny Long, and Vince Courtney, who composed the present theme song "Dream Notes."

In 1937, the band went to Europe on a tour, and this year they played at the Shriner's Convention, Chapel Hill, Raleigh, and Greensboro. Maestro Tommy Farr has conducted the talented Ambassadors in the past year—a year full of fine, delightful music.

. . . HARMONY HOUSE

UNDER THE direction of J. Foster Barnes for the past 21 years, the Men's Glee Club has become one of the most outstanding campus organizations. This year approximately 150 men took part in the Glee Club's activities.

The Glee Club opened its 1948-49 season with a performance on Duke University Day and later with their annual concert here in February. The Glee Club planned two week-end trips to points in North Carolina, and during spring vacation, forty-two select men represented the Duke Glee Club in a concert tour to such major northern cities as Washington, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Norfolk and New York.

. . . WITH A SONG IN THEIR HEARTS

Mrs. J. F. Barnes, Director

LED BY ITS founder, Mrs. J. Foster Barnes, for twenty-four consecutive years, the Women's Glee Club is the proving ground for future choral workers and a prerequisite for the Duke University Chapel Choir. Opportunities are extended to this very active group to sing many choral and solo parts.

The Triple Trio, consisting of a group of nine girls from the choir, combined with the choir to give a Sunday night sing in the East Campus Auditorium, and an annual concert in the spring. In collaboration with the Men's Glee Club an informal dance was given.

The Duke University Choir, led by "Bishop" Barnes, has a membership of about two hundred singers. Composed of students, professors and others from the University community, it is a vital part of the weekly services and special religious holiday performances in the Chapel.

the choir

. . . LENDING THEIR VOICES TO THE GLORY OF OUR CHAPEL

Mrs. Mildred Hendrix, Chapel organist.

ORGANIZED IN 1932 by its present director, J. Foster Barnes, the Duke choir, of two hundred members, is now one of the largest mixed choirs in the country. To become a member, an undergraduate must have had experience in one of the glee clubs.

Besides singing in the chapel every Sunday morning to an audience of nearly two thousand, the choir presented Handel's Messiah at Christmas, and Good Friday broadcast over N.B.C. In the past, Brahm's Requiem, Gounod's Redemption, and numerous others have been presented.

Erdmuth McCuiston served as secretary, the only officer of the choir, and Nan Hedden as student director, did an outstanding job.

ALTHOUGH the Madrigal Chorus was organized just five years ago, its concerts always attract many Duke students and faculty members. The primary purpose of the group is to promote interest in choral and madrigal singing. Members are selected on a basis of their interest in choral work, vocal accomplishment, and ability to sight-read; the group does all its work without any accompaniment.

Annual trips are made to Southern Pines, Raleigh, and Chapel Hill for concert appearances. Local concerts are also on their calendar, with presentations during the Christmas season and in April attracting large audiences. This year several broadcasts were made over local stations for the people of Durham and nearby towns.

Lindell Davidson served as the president last year, with Margaret Jones acting as secretary and Pamela Cherry, Nancy Watkins, and Barbara George as librarians. Joseph Wells handled the publicity.

symphony orchestra

. . . A VIOLIN, A CELLO, AND BEETHOVEN

UNDER THE capable guidance of Allan H. Bone, the Symphony Orchestra has grown amazingly in the past few years. It is now a very active organization composed chiefly of students, augmented by some faculty members and townspeople.

Rehearsals are held once a week for two hours, during which time the group prepares music to be presented in its two annual winter and spring concerts. Sometimes original works written by students are played, thus offering opportunity to those who aspire to composition to hear their own work, and now and then students enrolled in the conducting class try their technique on the orchestra. Often the townspeople bring their children to the rehearsals and possibly these children are the future members of the organization.

Contrary to general belief, all their music is not of the "long-haired" variety. In addition to the familiar, and some not so familiar classics, they delve into the mysteries of the works of the more recent composers, including Gershwin and his contemporaries. All of these compositions are recorded and played over the local radio stations.

Officers for the year were: President, Barbara Beale; secretary, Jo Anne Jones; and treasurer, Bill Hogg.

EVERY Saturday afternoon during the football season, the Duke students get a chance to see the University Marching Band in action. What most students don't realize is the great amount of work which is done by the Marching Band and its director, Allan H. Bone, in order to put on a ten minute half-time show.

Not only must the Band practice the playing of many different marches, but it must also practice intricate formations which are made at the games. Credit for the great originality of the Duke Marching Band's formations must be given to Lee Henkel. One of the best formations planned by Lee was performed on the field during the half-time of the Duke-Navy game in Baltimore last year. The performance included the formation of an anchor and a special sequence which included firing an arrow into a large "N." After the arrow broke up the "N," a large "D" was formed and the Band played the Duke Alma Mater.

Besides performing at every football game during the last season, the Band also appeared on Friday nights in order to put a little more spark into the pep rallies.

The Marching Band has a great deal of musical talent within its ranks. At the bonfire before the game with Carolina one of the leaders thought that the song, Keep the Homefires Burning, would be appropriate. He merely shouted the name of the song and a key for playing, and the band played it straight through without ever seeing the music.

concert band

. . . EVERYTHING BUT BE-BOP

THE CONCERT BAND is one of Duke's newer musical organizations. Formed by Mr. Allan Hadley Bone only five years ago, it has grown into an excellent instrumental group. The prime objective of the Concert Band is to play marches, semi-classical, and classical compositions which have been especially arranged for the modern band.

The Concert Band has played such works as The Vanished Army March, Moussorgsky The Great Gate of Kiev, and many other numbers, including several novelty compositions.

The Concert Band, ever since its creation, has continually increased its activities. The first concert tour of the organization was made this year. This tour, of three days duration, took the band to many of the largest cities in North Carolina. A special concert was given in Charlotte, N. C., before many of the leading band and orchestra directors in the state.

Besides the Band's concert tour, a radio program series was performed every two weeks over one of the leading local stations.

An always important activity of the Band is the series of three concerts which are given each spring. Two of these concerts are performed on the East Campus lawn, and the third is performed on West Campus' main quadrangle. Always a success, these lawn concerts are greatly enjoyed by the students who like the music out-of-doors on a sunny afternoon.

chamber orchestra

. . . STRING AND BONE

THE PURPOSE of the Chamber Orchestra is to offer opportunity to qualified and interested students for work in the field of chamber music.

In the past two years the group, under the direction of Mr. Bone, has become much more active, and has made remarkable progress.

This year's concerts included a Christmas concert; a concert in the Duke Chapel presenting music for organ and orchestra, assisted by Mildred L. Hendrix, University organist; a spring concert which included a Bach Cantata (Thou Shepherd Israel,) a Boccherini cello concerto with Mr. William Klenz, soloist, and seven pieces for strings by Hindemith. All compositions performed by the Chamber Orchestra were recorded and presented on the weekly broadcast series, "Music from Duke," a newly initiated broadcast sponsored by the Department of Aesthetics, Art and Music.

. . . "SAY IT WITH MUSIC"

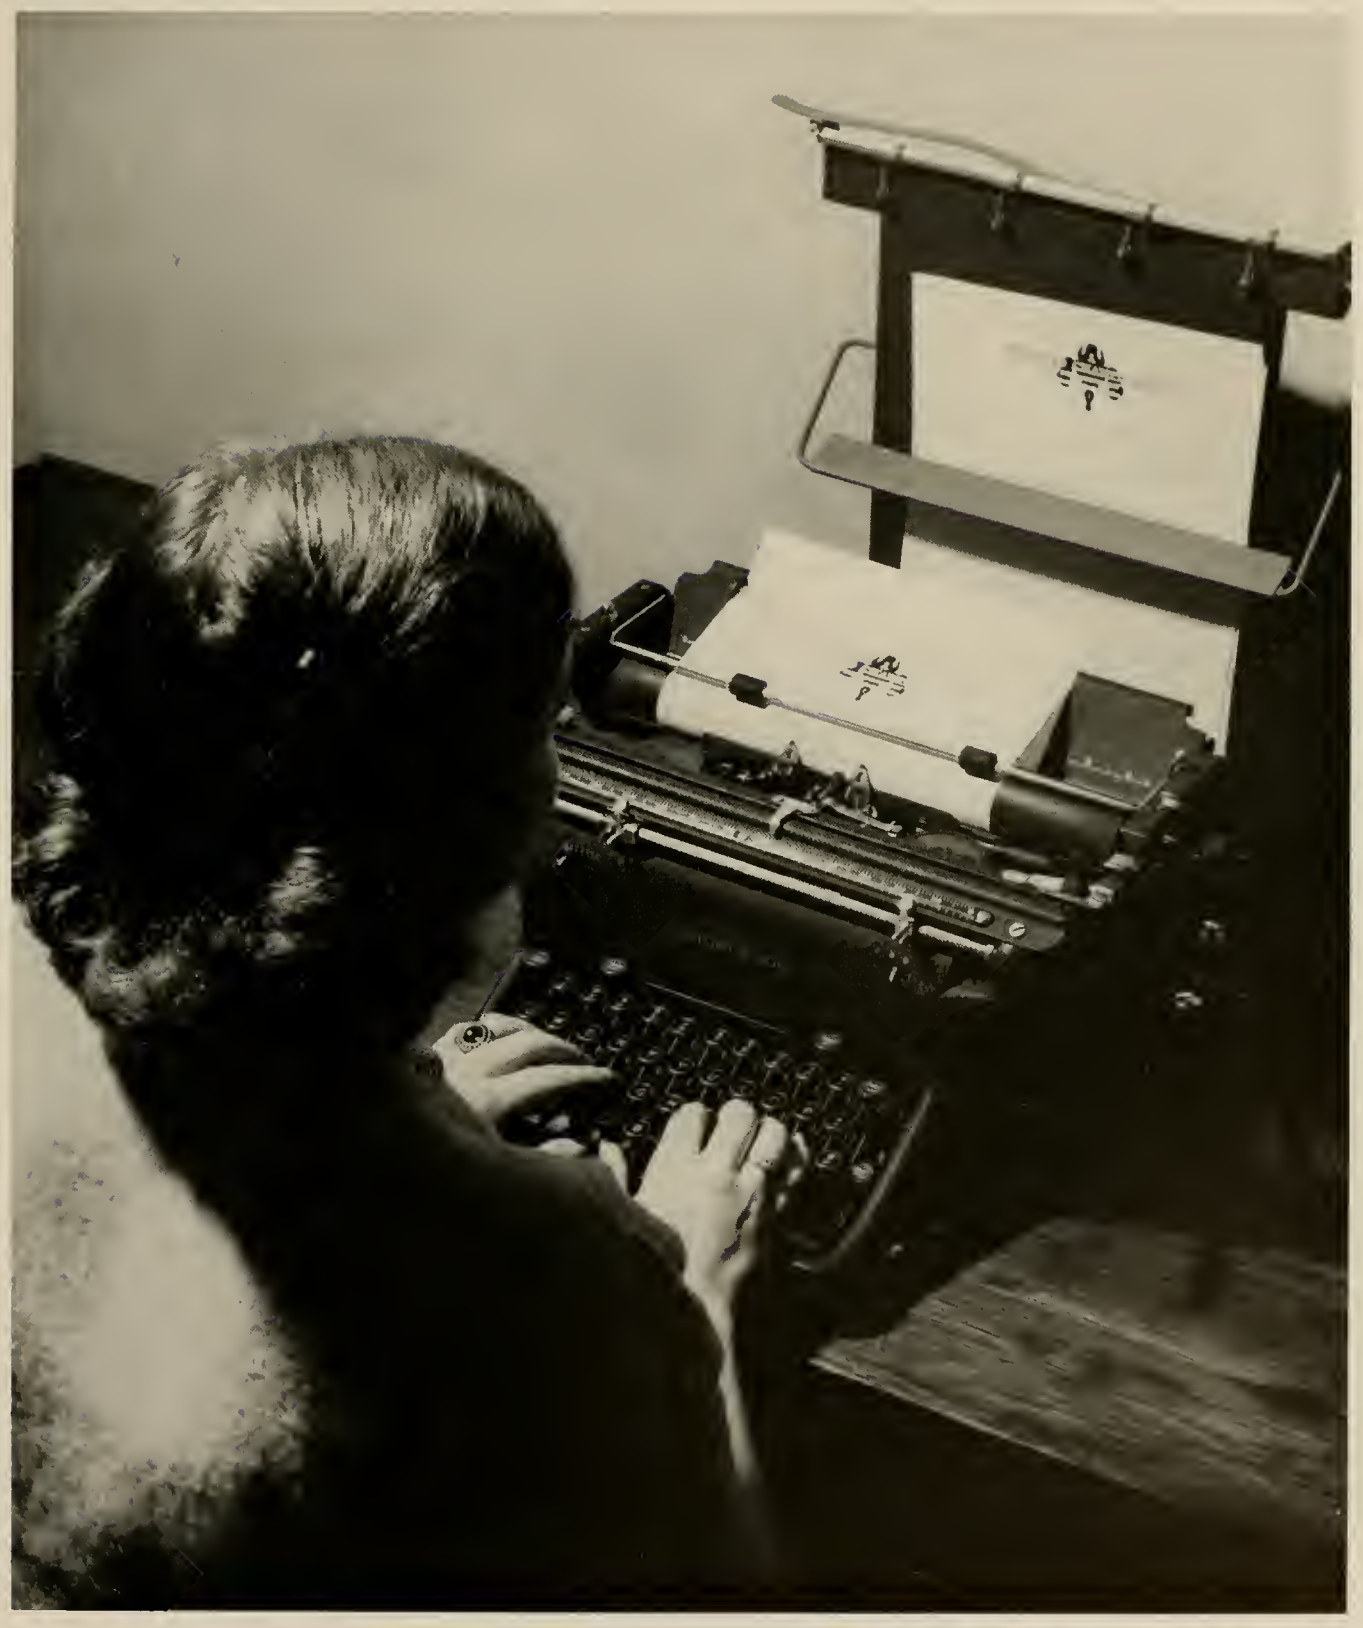
THE MUSIC STUDY CLUB was founded by Miss Evelyn Barnes and Mrs. J. Foster Barnes in 1933 for the purpose of gathering together Duke women who are talented or interested in music. New members, usually from the freshman class are chosen both in the spring and fall. An interest in music and a desire for self-improvement are the only requirements for membership. Along with the benefits gained by the members are the worthwhile programs of good music brought to the campus for the enjoyment of everyone.

Each year the club presents at least one recital in the Music Study Club room in East Duke Building by an outstanding Senior member. This year, for the first time, three such recitals were given. In the fall three vocalists presented the program in East Duke auditorium: Lydia Hutchins, Jayne Cosby, and Walter Ball. Again, the first spring recital successfully presented Tony Reed, Rosalie Prince, and Guy Spann, accompanist, who presented a portion of the recital. In May a chorus of six graduating seniors were featured in a program. Through these concerts, talented girls are given an opportunity to exhibit their special talents and gain valuable experience that will aid them in future public appearances.

The meetings consist of smaller recitals by a member or a visiting artist. Often there is a lecture on some pertinent phase of music. Through such programs as these, they are brought into closer contact with music. The members are kept well-informed as to new developments in the world of music and the importance of modern advancement in their field. They become familiar with the artists and works of the Classic and Romantic Periods.

Highlighting the social activities of the year is the annual Christmas Party for members and their dates and co-sponsoring the annual Glee Club-Music Study Club dance.

publications



publications board

. . . GOVERNING STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

THE PUBLICATIONS BOARD, under the chairmanship of Dean Herring, controls all student publications on the campus; it discusses and decides on problems of policy for these organizations. The Board was established in 1924 and reorganized in 1935 by the Executive Committee.

One of the important jobs of the Board is that of electing officers for the publications. Candidates for major offices in any publication must present a petition to Dean Herring's office. No student may be an editor or business manager longer than one year. This year elections were held earlier in order to make the newly-elected editors more familiar with their jobs.

The Board also arranges the division of profits among the editors, assistant editors, and business managers of the publications.

The following members compose the Board: six Juniors and Seniors elected by Trinity College; four Junior and Senior women elected by the Women's College; three appointed faculty members; and the five editors and business managers who are non-voting members.

In the turmoil of the CHANTICLEER office on a busy afternoon, the staff puts in plenty of hard work and some horse-play. Jean Hull, Sally Butz, and Bob Wilson scan pictures casually, while Kay Van Nortwick and Bob Mitchell type with the assistance of Billye Barr Herr.

THE 1948 CHANTICLEER, under the editorship of Pat Way, received the All-American award, highest rating of the National Scholastic Press Association. Since 1935, when Duke first entered the competition, it has won the coveted award eight times.

The judging carried on at the University of Minnesota for the past 27 years, takes into consideration theme, make-up, editing, finances, and mechanical details of every yearbook submitted. It classifies each book into one of five groups: All-American, First, Second, Third, and Fourth, ratings equivalent to superior, excellent, good, high average, and no honors.

Patricia Ann Way edited the 1948 book, assisted by Joan Richards, this year's editor-in-chief; it was managed by Ayles B. Shehee, Jr., assisted by Bob Welch and Kitty Cassels.

. . . CHANCELLORS OF THE EXCHEQUER

WHEN AN excellent CHANTICLEER comes off the press and is distributed, the people of the business staff have a right to swell with pride just as much as their "neighbors" on the editorial staff.

The business manager and his staff begin their work early in the fall with the taking of class pictures. This is a huge undertaking and keeps the staff very busy until the time for ad getting begins. The CHANTICLEER's advertising section requires much correspondence, accounting, banking, and "heeling," because of its large size and numerous details. Also, in the fall of the year the Beauty Queen contest and the correct handling of it require the attention of the manager and staff.

When the year-long advertising work is finished and the printed books are distributed to the students in the spring, there are still a few jobs to complete. The billing must be completed, letters must be written, and all the final details completed before the work is ended.

This year, John Barber was elected by the Publications Board to the position of Business Manager and he selected the following assistants: Co-ed Business Manager Pam Bedell, Assistant Business Manager Tom Cookerly, and Associate Business Manager Tom Bomar. Next year, however, all managers will be elected instead of being appointed. All students may become members of the staff.

Johnny Barber, Pam Bedell, Tom Cookerly and Tom Bomar discuss ways and means concerning the production of the 1949 CHANTICLEER

. . . THE EYES AND EARS OF THE CAMPUS

Art Polier, Editor-in-Chief

PUB ROW SAW something new this year—a campus newspaper whose editorial staff spoke its mind in a forthright manner. Under the direction of Clay Felker, editor, and Art Polier who took over this position in the middle of the year, the Chronicle brought news to the campus in a more complete and interesting way.

The masthead for the year read: Joe Wells, Associate Editor; Polly Povejsil, Co-ed Editor; Phil Treleaven, Managing Editor; George Bushnell, News Editor; and Bob Gibson, Sports Editor.

At Duke "free press" is a reality, with the discretion of the editors the only censorship imposed. As a result Chronicle editors from the first have carried on a tradition of restraint which has won praise from the students, the administration, and the alumni of the university.

In the office of the weekly "dreadline," Felker fondles the phone; staff, Smith, Hendricks, Bushnell, Wells, Richardson, Treleaven, and Peters work.

Working at the printers, selecting cuts for the next issue are Phil Treleaven, Polly Povejsil, and Art Polier.

. . . THE MEN BEHIND THE MEN BEHIND THE TYPE

FORTY-ONE hundred Chronicles a week was the busy aim of the campus newspaper. The headache of this booming Chronicle's advertising, financing, and distributing problems fell to an able and always efficient staff of students headed by Business Manager William Houck.

The effective advertising offered by the Chronicle found many customers to use its resources. The advertising copy was the charge of Charlie Dayton and Jerry Trippel, assisted by a squad of able salesmen.

Circulation of the tabloid during the year was high in copies distributed. This department of the staff, headed by Hal Warren and Jody Jones on East, served West Campus dormitories and offices, East Campus houses, finding a receptive student body each Friday night.

Jule Gwynn, Joan Kansteiner, Bill Houck, and Logan Bruce have come to the conclusion that courses in statistics and accounting and a few hundred dollars in endowments from generous alumni would come in handy for all business staffs, particularly the Chronicle this year.

EACH STUDENT LOVINGLY CLASPS HIS COPY OF DUKE 'N' DUCHESS

SMASHING precedents left and right, letting the heads fall where they may, world-famed Duke 'n' Duchess goes on its merry way.

Opening the year by formally introducing its readers to Durham's more exciting fat-back emporiums, D 'n' D kept such Duke institutions and great American customs as politics, East co-eds, the New Army, weekends, and clothes well satirized. Psychoquizzes proved to readers that both they and the editors were crazy.

D 'n' D is the only college magazine featuring a humorous photographic cover. It cold-shoulders the typical humor mag habit of filling half-empty columns with old jokes.

On the editorial staff of the D 'n' D, Polly Povejsil and Art Steuer are happy about the whole thing, but C. Brown doesn't care.

The humor of the D 'n' D runs over into the business staff as Charlie Tutan, Bill Ward, George Orr, and Duley Peters pay the bills.

. . . QUARTERLY DISPLAY OF LITERARY TALENT

R. D. Loomis, Editor

PUB ROW HAS seldom seen a periodical achieve such literary heights as the 1948-49 Archive, the Duke literary quarterly. Reorganizing along new lines, making radical editorial policy changes, and becoming a larger quarterly instead of a bi-monthly publication has been largely responsible.

Bob Loomis took over the editorship of the Archive with the idea in mind of modeling it along the lines of Theatre Arts. In many ways, both the Campus and Pub Row agreed that he exceeded the magazine which was his model. New two-column make-up sketches of national figures and campus literati, a series of articles on American Men of Letters and the musical column, "Leger Lines," were new features added to the student offerings of poetry, editorials, and articles.

Loring Walton headed the business staff. "The aesthetes . . . claimed that what Duke needs is a good literary magazine. It is worth noting that the prayer of the group has been answered; Robert D. Loomis and his fluid staff have distributed the year's Archive, a "literary quarterly" which more than smacks of a professional production.

"The Archive, during its long history as one of the oldest collegiate literary magazines in the country, has vacillated between being good, poor, and very poor. This year it reached nearer perfection than it ever had before, setting a new standard which will lend the publication new prestige."—Duke Chronicle.

. . . BED SIDE MANNER GOES TO PRESS

"GET THE voices of the Student Nurses." This is the permanent by-line of the publication of the Duke School of Nursing, Special Chart. It is the intention of the editorial staff of this news-magazine to get the opinion and comments of the nurses on important current affairs as well as to be an efficient periodical dealing with nurses' activities.

In the year 1948-1949 Special Chart ceased existence as a bi-monthly mimeographed periodical to produce full-fledged printed issues appearing four times during the school term. Including comments on national affairs, alumnae notes, new advances in nursing, Special Chart was under the supervision of Novita Burroughs and did not limit itself only to production of the magazine, for it sponsored a May Day dance. Each year's staff is chosen by the retiring editor and is then voted upon by the student body. Miss Ruth Hunter advises the publication.

THE DUKENGINEER is published quarterly by and for the students of the College of Engineering. It prints articles of a technical and semi-technical nature on electrical, civil, and mechanical engineering subjects. In order to provide added incentive to submit articles of outstanding merit, the DukEngineer offered its second annual technical writing contest.

This year, an attempt was made to broaden the perspective of the magazine so that it would appeal not only to the more advanced students, but also to the freshmen and the sophomores. To this end, such features as "Presscope," a digest of the latest developments in science and engineering, was added. Due to the phenomenal growth of spirit and activity among the engineers, there was plenty to report on the pages of the student news section. The last page in the magazine, but never the last to be read, is "Lub," a humorous portrayal of the life and trials of the Duke engineer.

SUMMERTIME 1948 found the Duke middies hoisting anchor for the West coast where they encountered the bright lights et al of San Francisco and embarkation plans for their ensuing cruises. Two of the Navy's finest ships were waiting for the boys from Duke, the carrier Boxer and the cruiser Pasadena. Fifty Duke sophomores boarded the Pasadena at Treasure Island, and twenty juniors joined the Boxer at Alameda. Underway on board the Boxer, the middies were given the free run of the ship for two days so that they might find their way about the labyrinth of passageways. At sea on 28 June, the weather was favorable and flight operations were announced for all midshipmen on a voluntary basis. Flying was off to a good pace and upon arrival in Pearl Harbor, 341 midshipmen had made TBM flights and fourteen had flown in the helicopters. A high point in air activities was a dawn strike on Oahu in which eleven midshipmen participated.

On the morning of 7 July the Task Force, including the Boxer, sortied from Pearl Harbor and proceeded to a target area off Oahu to observe and participate in the sinking of the former battleship New York. This was a most unusual event which provided plenty of excitement for all on board.

Those on board the cruiser had an exciting eight weeks since the underway phase of the cruise included the sinking of the former battleship Nevada, a dawn attack on Oahu employing carrier aircraft, submarines and surface ships, a refueling operation at sea, and salvage towing exercises. At Pearl Harbor a group of volunteer midshipmen made four dives at sea in a submarine.

On our return to Duke we found three new officers attached to the Unit. Captain Kowalzyk was relieved by Captain Ralph Earle, Jr., who prior to his Duke assignment commanded the cruiser Topeka. Commander Clyde J. Van Arsdall, Jr., relieved Commander A. B. Coxe. "Van" had previously served as destroyer skipper and as executive officer with the NROTC at the University of Oklahoma. Lieutenant Paul S. Eckhoff made a short shift following graduation from Duke Law School to our Unit.

regular and contract students with 106 regulars and 97 contracts.

Regular students receive their appointments from the Navy Department as the result of a nationwide college aptitude test which is given each year. These men are thus enabled to go through college on a Navy scholarship and on graduation are commissioned and serve for two years. The contract students are distinguished by the fact that they have no period of obligated service and pay their own way through college. Both the categories of students embark on essentially the same program. One three-hour Naval Science course is taken each semester along with two hours of drill. Regulars take three summer cruises, whereas contract students take one. Contract students may qualify for a commission in the Navy, Naval Reserve, Marine Corps, or Marine Corps Reserve. Members of the Unit attend classes and make their living arrangements as do other members of the University community. They are free to participate in all activities of the University and may choose their fields of study.

inter-fraternity council

LARRY LEE, President

THE INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL is composed of the president and one representative of each fraternity. The purpose of this council is to work with the fraternities for their advancement, and to work with other organizations for the improvement of Duke University as a whole.

The Council published a Freshman Handbook, enforced regulations concerning fraternities, revised the rushing rules, and sponsored Greek Week after spring rushing. The Duke IFC is associated with other college IFC's through a representative who is sent each year to the national convention. The council serves as a "boiling pot" for fraternity problems and makes decisions concerning these problems.

AIMING TO maintain high fraternity relations, Pan-Hellenic Council provides a forum to discuss fraternity problems.

After the two week rush period was over, Pan-Hel branched into other activities. It sponsored a social service program whereby members of each sorority spent time at various community institutions supplementing the work of the "Y." In December, Pan-Hel held a workshop with representatives from other colleges for a series of conferences. Problems such as rushing, pledge training, and social programs were discussed by national and local alumnae of all sororities. Spring semester brought forth the annual Pan-Hel Dance at which Whitey Davis was chosen the Arabian Knight. An open house and a scholarship award were also sponsored.

Alpha Tau Omega recognizes the value of a rounded, diversified college training. Its organization is directed toward a better understanding of the meaning of brotherhood and truth with the ultimate goal of the fraternity being a richer and fuller life for all its members.

THINGS HAVE really changed since ATO moved on the campus in 1872. It is now the oldest fraternity chapter on "the flats;" but even when things had progressed to the days when Brother Robert L. Flowers started as instructor in mathematics, there was no basis for predicting that we would be known as the "mobile unit." This year everyone came back on wheels—except Middlesworth. The wheels came back on him. He doesn't get in the Crosley; he just kinda puts it on. W-T Price has the Green Hornet . . . Pete Armstrong, the "It Runs."

Music has changed from the pre-ragtime to the pro-bop; Farr, Hutchins, Steele, and the rest of the Ambassadors being chief instigators. Proctor, Hofsomer, Kenaston, and Schmidt, convinced that an apple a day will never replace medicine, push toward Med school. "Father" Brackney defends chauvinistically his musketeer roommates, Conner and Clausen. Wagner gathers material for his book, The Price You Pay for Victory. Siler, Enander, Holyfield, and Chambers are pocket-sized "Four Horsemen." President Croft tries to shorten meetings, but not at the expense of an Arkansas drawl. Treasurer Landis tries to convince people, in explaining his expense account, that Idaho gasoline is 30c a gallon. Chuck White and the S and S gives Duke a hypo in reviving the ancient custom of big name bands at Duke. Ellsworth, "Jose" Carloss and the "Shack" try to put muscles on their muscles. Speir gets Friday's laundry back on Monday. And Roland still "done it wrong." Schoonmaker tries to do it right. There must be a hidden knack.

WALLY MCMAHON, President

Beta Theta Pi stresses the benefits of comradeship and high idealism derived from close association. We recognize the truth that it is not by books that men are made but that work is necessary to add to one's experience and to teach the vital lessons of cooperation.

AND SO THE Betas prepared for another year. Ellis worried about med school, and Gallant searched for an understanding woman. The "do-nothings," McMahon and Bowles, held open house every night, but Lynn wouldn't let Herriot attend. The Kuman brothers kept our clothes clean, but DiMona wouldn't cooperate. Jones and Withrow made the devils walk and talk, while Leitner and White turned into Homecoming mechanics. Bugg, Cooper, and Reyle set an example, but Rudisill dropped engineering instead. Highsmith ventured into politics, and Ray deserted us for his freshmen.

Bridge traded in his "Joseph's coat" on a later model, while Hodgson expounded on Aristotle, and Flynn just expounded. Wanzer and John Pierce relentlessly made A's, while Farno and Frank Newman vied for "crazy eight" supremacy. Tapley coördinated sex-life and tennis, as Griff set new track records. Lynch filled Fieldson's shoes while Livingston looked forward to his twelfth semester. Grose returned, and Mark (Look, I'm pinned!) Garber had hair in his eyes. Thigpen and Wilder kept the accent on youth, while Kent acted as our religious adviser. Woodworth played ball, but Colvin jumped for his exercise. Greenleaf and Simon learned to play the piano, but Tommy thought only of Dot. John and Frank ("some kind of great") Sherrill bolstered the Beta fleet, and Cook rushed via radio. Bob Newman considered marriage, but Nelson only lost his pin. Otis and Hayes left indelible marks on D. C. Guinee turned celebrity, and Sugg appeared again sans pin. So we depart with Klees screaming madly in the distance.

Delta Tau Delta is a constructive adjunct to the system of higher education. Her objective is to educate, contributing to the young man a moral, spiritual, and social development commensurate with the intellectual training supplied by the colleges and universities.

SHALL WE drop in at the Chapter room in House X? The card table is the scene of a hot pinochle game between "Renegle" Clowar, "Mr. Esquire" Biddison, "Happy Joe" Shipley, and "I" Garvine, expertly "kibitzed" by Bob McDonald. Lou Viau is explaining his latest money-making scheme to Prexy Jack Murray, while "Mole" Moehlenkamp and Bob Silkett, petting bags of sheckels, listen in. Clancy Warta and Tom deShazo display their newest creations in paper dolls to roommates Ray Adam and Harry Ford who are planning to vacation in Duke Hospital, Meyers Ward. Politician P. J. "Fatter than you are" Thomas is starting a campaign to re-name the East and West Campus road—"Lapp's Folly." Bill Nelson, Bill Hann, and Hal Culbreth discuss their new movement—"M.C.T.U." Delta Kappa's K.K.K. is still operating—Karukstis, Keevan, and Komlosi, that is. Jack Matlock is lecturing on political science to Harry Storey who cannot see how Dewey and Warren polled more votes than Veech and Boudreau. Fred Miller and Joe McDonald, the married men, left early. Solitaire is taking Frank Chamberlin. Speaking of cards, "Chooch" Farinella claims to have seen a deck of sixty-nine cards. Jim Allen and Bob "C'mon, will ya" Thomas are set for a little "Blue Ribbon drill" with Bobbie. "Bartells" Ollen and "Dickey" Reardin are lost now that their loving cup basket has been moved from in front of the mirror. Jack Underwood and Charlie Duttweiler never tire of John Littleton's "Tale of Miss '43." The arrival of "Mags" Moriarty and his lacrosse stick disperses the group through every exir.

Kappa Alpha believes that young college men are in the most important stage of life as regards the development of character. The fraternity, with its group of carefully chosen members, supplies the environment to aid the college student in obtaining this development.

WITH THE chapter room newly decorated and parties flourishing, the Seniors are reluctant to leave the Grand Old Gang. No card games in the chapter room brought tears to the eyes of Austin, "Eli" Smith, Laney, and "Chaz" Smith. The gang migrates to "Ziegfield" Baynes' production at his plantation estate. Loren Young uses track ability to jump from third floor after educational movie. Crusty was impressed. Exodus to D. C. found many of the boys enjoying the game (?). Summers, Turb, Shaf, and Millard got early start—to the game that is.

Fearless Freddie leads Big Blue along with Hughes, Stephanz, Knotts, Austin, Montgomery, Cox, Bob Frye, Hodges, Harris, and Hipps. Early games point to a successful season. Dunson, Coble, Dunham, Morris, Spearman, and Laney look good in intramural football. Coaches Shaffer of "A" team and Eirich of "B" team use super strategy.

Back with their "Southern Belles for life" are Rollo, Jerry Frye, Propst, and Foreman. Congrats. Basketball prospects look good with "Chipper" Martin, the "Blond Bomber," and "Fabulous" Hughes leading the way. Sapp's status questionable due to age-limit rule. "Pinky" strictly on the ball for social functions. Al Smith escorts usual beautiful date. Hillman, Armour, Ernest, Hauser, and Rogers at the Saddle Club. "Scoop" outstanding singer in men's lounge. "Padre" Jackson heads Y. Harrington, Higgins, and "Count" Cash camp on East. "Fish" voted cinema king. Hicks and "Cheeps" Chapman still making racket on the courts. It was one big swell year.

Kappa Sigma is a fraternity of jovial, conscientious men who combine studies, entertainment and athletics equally, producing a delightful concoction of friendship and everlasting brotherhood. These bonds were formed in good faith and shall never be forgotten.

"Bubbles" HOLCROFT, Chanticleer photographer, has quite a trade in "Party Pictures"—especially after the Washington week-end. Bowling, "chief giggyist," instructed the giggyettes and a bell hop while Murph retired to the fire escape. Cheek had an affection for glass doors while Barnett centered his on a Pennsy Maid. We see Prexy "Lover" Glover between trips to Roanoke. Lowe, "Steamer" and Smith also have many happy tales about that Virginia city. Earl Evans still has his nose in the "green book." Forrest and Meara are still at the "butcher-shop." Up in 209 Tom Evans burns the midnight oil awaiting the return of "Doc," Gibson, Stewman, and Gray from East. Kellam has a time listening to Winn's and Fulton's worries. "Wild Bill" Domingos and Maass are tiring of their line. "Slush pump" Goodwill is terror on cab drivers while Jeske and Johnson are lucky to find the door. Doescher and his Ford are as hard to find as Hall and Diamond. Small and Blankenchip are our "gruesome twosome." "High pockets" Boger is running coke fiends Mosier and Rose a good race. Fulweiler will hide Terpenning's harmonica before exams. Howes is knocking himself out while Gossett is knocking out "A's". Sledge and Mitchell are quiet but good Kappa Sigs. Southern Conference shot put champ O'Leary joins Cuz, Shark, and Christines in collecting intramural trophies while Davis, Bensinger, Sires, D'Alonzo and Erickson boost Duke's diamond hopes. Other star athletes—Scioscia, Fred Smith, Mounie, Anderson, Cavanaugh, Swalchick and Scarborough.

Lambda Chi Alpha set as its supreme goal the pre-eminence of truth and justice and the well being of human kind. Toward this end the fraternity believes that its members must pledge their loyalty to the Christian religion and the established moral code of the nation.

COME ON IN and meet the brothers of Gamma Theta Zeta. Like to introduce the boys before they finish tearing the place apart. Huffman! Put down that bottle of hair tonic! It belongs to Greenberger. "Percy," watch that kid, will 'ya? The meeting should be over any time now. Nelson's already yelling for a sing practice, and High Alpha Holland wants to head East. Renfrow is off to High Point. Hensel, Hogg, Schwarz, and Reynolds long for "Joisey."

Here's McAulduff, Aycock, and Jarvis, bona fide members of the MDNA (More Dates for Nurses Assoc.). Pat and Ernie are behind the bar. The Phi Bete twins are "You-owe-me-money" and Dave "When-I-was-at-Oxford" Scarrow.

The man in the center of the room is "Sick Man" McKittrick, yelling about the draft to the Peach Fuzz Twins, Bush and Jacobson, and Pub Row's chillun, Mitchell and Bushnell.

There goes "Red" Kastrinelis, DeCosier, "Murph," Hendrickson, and "Hector," looking for Pete's flag in time for their meeting in the phone booth. "Hubby" Bronson is guest speaker tonight. Cooke and Mouney won't make it. Their car broke down. Musser! Stop beatin' on the radio; Strandburg's still in there. Go out in the cardroom with Westlin and Caffey and the bridge team of Overdorff, Street, Simpson, and Gifford. Don't bother Melton. He's under the bar trying to study with Lunsford. Andrews, Fitch, Carswell, Copley, Huntsberry, Jones, Nickolson, and Whitehead all want to adjourn. Putnam sounds taps on his NROTC bugle as the chief arrives.

The Phis of North Carolina Alpha are proud to wear the sword and shield and prouder still of the brothers who wear it, striving constantly to provide that intangible element of university life that can not be found in the classroom or on the athletic field.

REMINISCING about the seniors, their returning brothers will wonder how . . . Erv ever moved his files home . . . Reese mixed Phi Bete and football . . . "Huddy" and Ann had four years of West Campus eight o'clocks . . . "The Garmo" got Polly to take over the washing of the "smoothest riding car on West" . . . "Two-Gun" got by with his show at Bailey's . . . "Editor" Loomis found enough copy to fill two hundred pages of the Archive . . . "The Ham" managed to remain silent through that one meeting . . . The National Guard ever got along without Private Smith . . . Brice escaped Kingery and Fanjoy long enough to commute to Sweetbriar . . . All-American "Whitey" failed to make All-Southern . . . Felker mixed ODK, Who's Who, The Chronicle, and Pinehurst . . . "Pop" Groff predicted Truman . . . "Gramps" could leave after all these years . . . Groome sold any vacuum cleaners . . . Norm Stark's kid beat Daddy on the M.E. final . . . Chambers could think of playing football with Angel around . . . "Choo-Choo" Yorke repaired his house after that party . . . Williams could be an attendant in the psycho ward . . . Zahner's wife's cooking compared to the Union's food . . . "Deferment" Gibson never got caught in the draft . . . "Knobby" managed to get a cadaver nominated for Chanticleer Beauty Queen . . . "Slick" pulled through the day all his T-shirts were in the laundry . . . Hanlon found his way out from under the table after being "Johned" by Miss New Jersey . . . Hodgkins almost beat the wheelbarrows . . . Phil mixed summer school and Moorehead . . . Phi Kappa Psi holds as its ideals the advancement of scholarship, the furtherance of social activities and the development of cooperation among its brothers. Following such principles the fraternity establishes a brotherhood that will last after college days are over.

HOUSE F quakes and trembles, for the Gruts are back in force . . . Crash sports a reconditioned jalopy, Schmooth Music Corp. managed now by Creed and Burley. Hazel makes hit at Engineer pep rallies, Banks off for Baker House again, Putt opens laundry business, breaks all shirt-ruining records. Graham pays numerous fees to Med Schools to beat the draft. Matrimony rears its ugly head in front of Big Bob, Don, Dunnf, and Jerry, while Trainer and The Brow turn to the North. Hooper plans "stoopendous" play from football bench . . . Holbrook leads engineers. The Yankee kids, Hump and Farrell, prefer Duke to Pre-flight. Sheriff, Bat Man, and Dungan set up "still" in Club 301 . . . "Hillbilly Bill" Fleming beats all comers at Hearts . . . Frey, Yourison, and Lowe trudge to "Engine House" and wonder what will befall them next . . . Ballou takes blame for Union food . . . Campbell deserts Chapel Hill for Phi Grut House . . . Fick and house committee rent chairs for pin money . . . "Silent Ed" and Cope complain about Junior English exam . . . Wilkin and Evans have trouble with landlord . . . Phi Bete Jackson keeps scholarship ball rolling . . . "Mop-Top" Bergstrom, Baumberger, and Bo Jiggers do the town together . . . Treleaven now admires Chronicle twice a week . . . "Dog" Young conforms to married life . . . Alexander holds newsletter record, while "Nature Boy" Irwin prefers trees to 101 . . . Al Smith, President

Phi Kappa Sigma offers to all of her members the right of individuality. She believes firmly in unity—But not in unity gained by the leadership of a few members. Every man belonging to her is encouraged to develop his talents in any way that he may wish.

REMEMBER when . . . Dave was the only forestry student ever to be lost in the woods? He won a compass and a Van Fossen tie, that was presented to him by Tissot, the only one who could talk him into taking it. Then there was Murray who could get everything but q. p.'s wholesale. That must have been the reason Fred kept taking Spanish courses.

Rix was the only Stanford student attending Duke. Figure that out. He and Charlie Lucas could also play guitars with their shoes on. And then Dick Null, the martinet of the chapter room, got ahead of us all. We made it, though; and that includes Hank Marlow. Thinking it over, I guess no one really told John Wise that everyone's name isn't Bob. That, however, may not be true in Winston-Salem. Rich could put us straight on this point.

Is Al Smith still rebuilding his house? Don't ask Gorrell, because he doesn't know.

Who turned out the lights, anyway? . . . Or maybe the roof did fall in. Way was cast out by the Housing Bureau but not by East. Carl got back in, but he really never left Southgate.

Only Wade Clifton, who seemed to belong to every business firm in Durham, could give pointers to the Knabes; Atwood, however, could run him a close race. Didn't he and Rusty ever sleep? Mendenhall and Hester were as lucky as they come. So is Bingham, for that matter. Tronolone lived on the third floor, and Boughman just made it. More new pledges were initiated, and the old members hope that they will carry on the traditions which we have helped to establish in this chapter.

The brothers of Phi Theta Sigma believe that fraternity should broaden the scope of one's views. In turn the fraternity acts in the best interests of every member. Fraternity should seek understanding among brothers, thus creating a secure fraternal bond.

NEOPHYTES no longer! Founders, alumni, and brothers see with confidence the product of their labor, PTS firmly entrenched in Duke soil.

The fall starts with the pledging and associating of Herb Ray, Lee Baldwin, Monroe Mitchell, Irving Hathaway, P. J. Miller, and Fred Tybout, a fine gang. Does it ever rain at Carolina Beach? "Alarm clock" Long was back in form all too soon with reveille and Jo . . . Cinema U becomes the hot spot of campus, holding each customer in his seat stiff from the performance. Changeover to sweet (?) cider in place of Hezzie's mixture. Harriss goes East for a change, and Lasley returns for air and dues . . . Ayerst dangles his Phi Bete key . . . Neely comes through on homecoming display—movies, no less. Lau and Wong dream of Trinidad beaches and parties. Everyone becomes "uncle" as Webster becomes a proud pop. Does the sea change anyone?—ask seaman Fry. Alumni return: doctor, lawyer, no Indian chief, ex-psychologist reader. Question of the year—What did Lonergan do with the half keg of beer? Kearns keeps Kiser in suspense. News has it that Frankie Webster is about to become a great baseball star—at least with the local gals. Kelley (ey that is) Aristotlizes . . . The urban population is on the increase according to the latest statistics. Strutter Calaway has "the sweetest, most lovable, prettiest, most intellectual pin-up in the world." Does Branham always steal pill boxes from the co-eds?—one way of getting her to come see him. "You name it, we'll paint it red" Gaylord moves to Buchanan Blvd.

Spence, Underwood, Benfer, "Smitty" Simidian, and" Haywire" Drummond, always busy with the "Y," BOS and Southgate. That's Chaplain Lawson Crowe, International Relations Club president, over there in the corner psychoanalyzing "Smiley" Dean Rhodes, Advertising Manager of the Archive . . . Jack McConnell is shouting for attention with reassuring news from the Intramural Office, of which he is Senior Manager, about the Pi Kapp division standing. Charley Earley, sports director of the fraternity, says he can pay up his account with the $400.00 he won in the laundry contest. Historian Tom Driver, Y.M.C.A. Secretary and Duke Players standby, is just about to cut loose with that "sarmon" again; but Bill "Brasswell" Bell, for "the Retonga people," stops him just in time with some guitar music. That's enough for Warden Bill Massey, who goes off to plan another social event for the "Y," followed by ex-Y.M.C.A. President Ed Gatling now fraternity Rush Chairman. Sigma Chi emphasizes a three-phase program at Duke: To attain a high academic record, to be represented in and faithfully serve the approved student groups on the campus, and to cultivate in its members a sense of fraternity interest, cooperation, and responsibility.

THE BROTHERS were discussing Dizzy Gillespie, the Leahy System, and plans for our Sweetheart Dance in the two corners of the room with lightbulbs when in walked S.G.A. President Welch, Sigma Chi President Boggs, and Verner, their roommate. Politicians, reporters, and psychology professors followed them.

The co-captains of the basketball squad, "Curly" and Ben, dribbled in with team-mates Youmans and Godfrey. They began enjoying the proceedings when a knock sounded at the door, and in pranced "Be-bop" Stewart to complete the evening program.

Polier of Chronicle fame interrupts his pub row chat with Houck, business manager of the Chronicle, long enough to suggest to Barber, CHANTICLEER business manager, that the boys get together for a little How High the Moon, with "Diz" Henkel, trumpet, "Wild Don" Hermance, trombone, our prexy "Bird" Boggs on the saxophone, Stewart on the vocal choruses, and Barber on the drums. Karl, gridiron guard, rounds out the rhythm section. Just when the house is jumping, Marshall calms down the party by announcing his inability to sleep. Then Jones, Sterling, and Dayton, cheerleaders, rejuvenate the spirit.

Coach Chillingworth, leaving the conversation comparing him to Frank Leahy, announces that Sigma Chi is tops in intramurals with the Byrd brothers leading the way and Futtrill, Mac Batchelor, Lyle, Turner, Emmons, and Palumbo, standouts.

Palumbo, taking his cue, leads us in A Sig I AM; and the evening is ended.

No man is fully educated, no matter how much history, medicine, physics, art, or music he has become proficient in, until he has learned to live in harmony with his fellow men. Then, and only then, has he crossed the barrier between barbarity and civilization.

IN THE YEAR 1949 there were two score birds who blocked together, although they were not, as the saying goes, of a feather.

Protocol demands that those weary, work-worn executives come first in the Sig Ep profile: President Dwight Isenhour . . . of the ear-splitting laugh, part time paterfamilia to little Ike, Jr. back home; Vice-President Joe Daniel . . . savior of backward German students; Secretary Bob DeVore . . . sage of Ninety-Six, S. C.; Treasurer Bev McKeowen . . . soft-hearted moneygrabber; Historian Malcolm Magaw . . . "unique" is the only word.

Welcomed back were two gentlemen, "sobered" and ready to face the world again: Bill "Fish" Elrod and Bill "Elocution" Ramsay.

There are those who will soon be labeled "our dear, departed" brothers: Ed Best who fell in love during his senior year . . . Quay Grigg . . . the cynical, budding young author . . . Stu Hoppin . . . back to Boston where his dialect is spoken . . . Ken James . . . F.P.A. (Frustrated Public Accountant) . . . Colbert Smith . . . a very, very vague future is outlined . . . Harry Wright . . . to raise a family with a new wife, nee K. Lee Scott . . . Ned Potter, wife and child to some wooded glade to live.

Mel Satloff, President

Zeta Beta Tau fraternity strives to inculcate high ideals, cooperation, good citizenship, honesty and true humanity and fosters a respect for the heritage which is based on an understanding of the Jewish culture. Zeta Beta Tau emphasizes a lifetime of brotherhood.

AFTER THE first meeting where everything was discussed from the budget to Bob Yudell's latest girl friend, the Z.B.T.'s settled down to another year of study, parties, open houses, Hearts, and general madness.

Ex-president Wechsler came back to school with a Constitution and a Z.B.T. manual determined to hold President Mel Satloff's power to a minimum. Levin is looking over the budget to find why the dues were increased. He became suspicious when the Kirsch brothers traded their Ford for a Cadillac convertible. Then in room 104 there is "The Z.B.T. Breakfast Club": "Slide Rule" Newman, "Lover Boy" Novick, and "Just Plain Joe" Shulsinger. Gerstein is the sharp dresser with Herb Shapiro running a close second. Landau was the first brother in the fraternity's history to try swimming at an evening cabin party. Barry Siskind and Jim Solomon served as lifeguards during Ed's aquatics.

The shaking of the fraternity section every evening is not an earthquake. It's Ed Berne doing his daily sit-ups. The high scholarship boys headed by Robert Rauch and assisted by Bob Fischell, Liam Haim, Carroll Weinberg, Friedman, Stan Nabow, and Jack Rosenberg are struggling to build up the fraternity's average; while Leon Dworsky is taking care of the spiritual matters and Don Silver, "The Poor Man's Wallace Wade," is ably running the athletic affairs. Howy Goodman is looking for the person who left a coke bottle in the chapter room. Burn Friedman and Hank Harris are the only half-way normal boys in the fraternity; no one knows how they got in.

alpha delta pi

Alpha Delta Pi is the oldest secret society of women in the United States. Ours is a group bound by friendship, by mutual interests, and we are mindful of high ideals of the sorority. Here you will find gaiety, as well as seriousness, and love that will last throughout the years. Our ideals are found in the motto: We live for one another.

TIME TO SAY aloha again. The dock is crowded with many A D Pis as they bid the sighing seniors good-bye.

Now Anne Carol takes our roaming microphone over to hear our favorite calypso singers; Lib Murray, Jean Savage, and Julia Carr giving out with our theme song "Friendship."

Seen beneath the ship, gracefully diving for pennies are Rossie, Nancy R., and Witt. And there are the pledges . . . hanging over the side . . . not missing a trick, of course.

Captain Rose Marie signs the last page of her log book, which is filled with exciting adventures which befell us on our journey this year.

Harriet G., Allison, and Beppie are rushing up and down the dock selling their "Flowers."

What is this we see? Why, it is none other than Shirley Field leading Nancy Mc. and Alda by the hand, trying to show them how to get on board without the gangplank.

There's Jan taking up a collection to clothe the shmoos from Skunk Hollow. "No more books," scream Gene Harris and Sigie as they toss their last bundle of history notes into the deep blue sea.

Here comes the farewell chorus cuties composed of Lib B., Rose Ann, Anna Lee, Jean Hull, Erd, and Roland. V. A. is now seen descending the gangplank calling, "All ashore that's going ashore."

And here come Mitzi and Diane waving fond goodbyes as they slide down the anchor rope.

And as our ship sinks slowly in the west, we hear the lilting strains of "I Hate to Lose You, I'm so Use to You Now." This lovely song is sung by our famous double-quartet . . . Harriet Q., Kitty, Bunny, Cattie, Ann B., Rosalie, Pat C., and Jane S.

alpha epsilon phi

"Multa corda, una causa"—"Many hearts, one purpose" reads the motto of Alpha Epsilon Phi. With an active interest in national, campus and sorority affairs, AE Phi is able to successfully achieve its goal—betterment of the individual and consequently the group as a whole.

"FROM THE dreams come smoke rings," and as we light up our Chesterfields, each smoke ring brings back to the girls with the pins of pearls a hovering memory of another terrific AE Phi year.

Roz leads the parade of sparklers, lays down the gavel, puts away the Phi Bete key, and picks up the mop. Enta "You Call Everybody Darlin' " Cove leaves with top billing, as she looks toward the great White Way. "Mother" Penny, with many a grey hair, finally relieved of her little wards. Ida no longer to keep the money for Brown and the Campus Chest Fund. She's off for bigger stakes. Nancy'll keep knocking 'em dead with the new look. Guess Abby likes short hair. It's good-bye seniors, guess it won't be quite the same.

Eisenberg finally gets in with the Zebes, in between long distance calls. La Belle now only keeps 'em waiting half an hour; but she still beats out a mean boogie. Dot, our former Sandals prexy, now just an old boot. But as Sherman took over Georgia, she hopes to follow Grant. Jack-of-all-trades Rees all in favor of reinstating the volunteer system.

Ole Money Bags Wechsler miserly protects the sinking fund, while Golde frantically tries to sink it in to just one more dance. Joanie, our Maryland transfer, arrives with big ideas . . . the men like them too. Brady brings the pledges up right. And there's Judy to disprove the theory of the sophomore slump.

Our pledge dance at the Wash-Duke. The spring cabin party, the coffees, our suppers in the room, the open houses that turned into rat races, they were all fun. And now the pledges, Laney, Sugar, Simmel, Barbara, Marilee and Bev keep the cups brightly polished in anticipation of another shining year.

alpha phi

As sisters in Alpha Phi we believe that our sorority experience should aid our college life to be successful and happy; that it should become a thing of real and lasting value; that it should aid us in becoming well rounded citizens.

THIS HAS BEEN another one of those years to look back upon with smiles and happy memories. First, our pledges—each one different, and all wonderful. "Beeps," the three Pat's, pint-sized Phoebe and Jan, and Carline, Jan, Betts, the two Ellie's, Ann, Helen, Lucy, Phylis, Prue, Laura, and Lita. Thank you rush chairmen Connie and Wilks.

Let's not forget the rest of the chapter, though . . . but could we forget president Pat? . . . or, several feet lower, Pedie, ever true to Sigma Chi, "Butch?" No, of course not, any more than Fran's friendly smile that disproved once and for all the partnership of red hair and temper, or Betty, clacking her collection of keys as roommate Helen and "Gee, I'm sorry I'm late" Elly sent us in to gales of laughter.

Then there are those with sparkling eyes and fourth fingers . . . blond Mickey, Ginny, Ann, and pledge mistress Lou.

In the corner Glenn mumbles and tries to stretch the money a little bit farther as Pat helps count chips, the harmony girls, Beach, Nixon, B. J., and Ella Ann, make sweet music, and Mary Dan and Ruth explain their status to the confused pledges. Bobbie, brush in hand, heads for the mirrors as Fay descends with camera handy. Busy with their freshmen and transfers are Myers, Marty, and Linnie, and over yonder pre-meds Dot and Connie, think of Dunc and Stan rather than Med School . . . and "Fun," frowning over plans for the next social function confers with artist Schmid. Jean still knits sweaters by the dozen as Huyler dreams of bigger and better parties, and Fleming thinks of changing her major as another chemistry quiz becomes history . . . McGrael still looks beautiful.

Yes, it's a year to remember . . . one that makes all "believe in my fraternity . . . its friendships . . . its high ideals . . . in Alpha Phi."

delta delta delta

The purpose of Delta Delta Delta is to foster a feeling of close friendship and understanding among its members that they may be better equipped to serve the sorority and themselves successfully, both here and in the future—when Delta Delta Delta will remain in our hearts.

STRODE INTO our Delta monkey chamber the other day to find Jan Ross and Skippy Prosser shaking the foundations with some new somersault cheer while June Farrington does a softshoe dance to the accompaniment of tunester Ainslie Palmer on a one tooth mouth organ. Marilyn Bailey and Ginger Haynes fight valiantly to up hold the glory and prestige of the Florida contingent. Cleveland fan Denny Cool nods sagely, "So, that my dear children, is how we won the series," the mere mention of sports sending Faye Reifsnyder into a paroxym of "What we need are more athletes" with Jane Wilkins standing by clutching last year's Delta Phi Rho Alpha Cup. Merle Rainey adds cheerfully to the current styles as she knits rapidly at her chartreuse muffler and Berry Lipscomb decides to wear flats tonight: "He's only six two." Barbara Armstrong gives us the word from Pan-Hel. while our rock and strength Bernie Wadlington raps for order in her own pensive manner: "Shut UP!" Betty Habenicht and Lois Hobbs try out a little fast harmony on "The Little Brown Church in the Vale" and Joan Oliver hands roomie Betsy Olsen a letter opener so she can dispose of her daily shipment quickly and quietly while Phyllis White interrupts periodically: "Now at Macon we. . . ." Lelia Shore and Pat Carter are stirred to conquer new horizons for dear old Tri Delta, Carolyn Reed sounding the war cry: "Aycock is dying!" Bev Gerber and Shirley Snell uphold the loyal order of ATO and look snide at Anne Harris fingering her Kappa Sig pin . . . "But I'm not really pinned" . . . Betsy Johnson and Becca Woolen cluck significantly while Martha Nichols coos, "He's just the sweetest boy" . . . Scottie Taylor leaping about . . . "Debate anyone?" All-American Girls, Shocky Wade and Holly Hartung explain the intricacies of tiddly-winks to "T" Stevens. So 'til another year we bid dear old Tri Delta a fond adieu.

Founded for the perpetuation of friendship: The realization of the strongest bonds of understanding and sympathy between one another. The inculcation of the highest mental aims: and the greatest service to the university . . . these are the purposes of Delta Gamma.

MRS. ST. PETER dusted off her little golden anchor, welcomed the chapter and spoke of many things . . . mid-Victorian color schemes and night caps, politics and mountain dew. Cherry, chief cherub in charge of affairs offered a toast and the meal began. Seated at the president's table were Mary Robinson, whose judicial efforts had earned her a place in Heaven; Peggy Penfield, who mothered us all; Donna Gleason, keeping things "coördinated"; and Nancy Nesmith who had served as Pan-Hel. vice-president at Duke. Doris and Georgie, sitting together, discussed wedding bells . . . Judy, Joyce, Kitty, Linthicum, and Dejon voted "no" . . . Tracy had to leave . . . a violet deity party in five minutes. Entertainment was provided by a choir among whom were Nancy Bloom, Mary Stormont, Muriel Neal, and Jan Cooper; and Jean was embarrassed because she shouted "hogfat" after each Hallelujea . . . A lull followed so Pat called the role and Grace distributed favors. F.A.C. Muriel forgot herself and announced that it was 11:30 while Dede was reading a palm. —Burnsie—couldn't find Mick and there was general confusion. Mary Jo shouted "Quiet Puhleez" . . . and things returned to normal as Pat Walker rose to speak on "the merits and values of the state of New Jersey." Jane Waltz, who wasn't left behind the door when the beauty was passed around came in late bringing with her Joey, "our outdoor girl," and little Clem. Pepper, Bobbie, Nancy, and Babs sat in the corner studying instructions for new angels while Marie . . . Provost number two, prompter, and the two Carols looked sympathetic. Mary stopped remembering cabin parties to talk to Gini and Sara, and Betty announced that she was sleepy. The evening ended with "Dear D. G." Mrs. St. Pete's party was a success, and the reunion brought with it many memories—some good, some a little bad—of a very wonderful year.

kappa alpha theta

It brings back memories of a crowded room, hilarious laughter, friendly chatter under the love and loyalty of a Theta kite and twin stars ever so bright. A light of hope for the future with a sense of purpose and a belief in the worth of true friendship will bring to the black and gold eternal meaning.

JOURNAL of Buela: After rush, "Pure Lil" in the driver's seat, all we could remember was Fergy and the famous last words—"In the long run, kids." We couldn't forget either Wink Boone's role of Dorothy, Dottie's roaring Leo and the brand-new trio, lilting Lil Grainger, Claude and Nan.

Made a round of the dorms yesterday and burst in on Imler planning a sophomore meeting. Caught Patsy dashing to meet her latest admirer; Shylock Voegelin counting money, Hanks out as always—tending affairs of state. Do Sally M. and Laurie ever have time to study after they've tucked the kiddies in? I saw Schreiner and "Please excuse me while I write a letter" Camphausen. Crashed a red-rug party at Bassett in the Beeker-White suite. Left with Sis and saw Martha's caller still waiting. What a house is this Pegram. Sallie presiding over the house meetings, Caroline knitting socks for Bill, Alison under the sun lamp. The strains of Jodie's violin hastened me on to West to Pub Row. Saw the usual crowd, Kay busy on the CHANTICLEER, Brad Archive typing, Hendricks gabbing in the Chronicle office. Impressed with the pictures of the Beauty Court, Hanser, Mims, Chapman, Beck and Rushing.

Recreating at the Saddle Club, I saw Madge with Earle naturally, Aldrich, Tyler and Fulcher. Leaving I ran into the old Miller bunch—Noble, Betty-Poo, Jean Ann, Fergy, and Happy.

Vivid pictures in the past: Queenie's trip West to view Venus, and Carolyn's face the night of the Navy Ball. What would happen to Edie's grade if she didn't wear blue to exams? They say all Morse has to do is sign her name to a paper, and she gets an "A."

On that joyous note I close the old journal with one more observation—just off the record, those two people we thought we'd never see pinned—Hendricks and Rushing.

There's tiny president Sumner, with more ability in one finger than several giants have . . . Woodard using psychology on the pledges . . . Rankin, who keeps the minutes but loses pins . . . Sponge, the embezzler extraordinary paying her bills with our dues . . . and Ish, who was in a true KD Hades til rushing was over.

And we can boast of wheels . . . our presidents: Liz of Bassett House (and a sweetheart of Sigma Chi); Celia of the Glee Club; Robinson of the Senior Class . . . not to mention Brim, the F.A.C.'s Doll . . . and Marian and Mince, without whom Duke Players could not play.

In fact, everywhere you look, you'll see a KD. Wimberley's back again . . . Betty Sue and Betsy, inseparable as Siamese twins . . . Phi Bete Betsy John with her heart in Chapel Hill . . . Rosemary, who carries an anchor instead of a torch . . . K. and Ann: we've never had such food before! . . . Nina, a honey suckle rose . . . Bibi, Joy and Hillsley, our favorite Southern Yankees . . . Penny of the flowing tresses . . . Nobles with round eyes, bringing Pan-Hel. news . . . and then, there's Hutch and Forte, for every group must have its heart breakers.

Carrying on for two more years we have Hotsey—in love with a Younger man . . . the two Becky's and frolicsome Margaret Ann . . . "Nasty" Hunt . . . Florida's Barbara . . . Peet (it rhymes with sweet!) . . . Sully, Bronxville's loss, Durham's gain . . . Marie, who hopes to follow in sister Dot's footsteps . . . Church and Winslow, already pinned . . . and Tuttle . . . busy polishing her diamond.

And finally, our twelve imps, handpicked to carry on the fun and loyal sisterhood that are K D's.

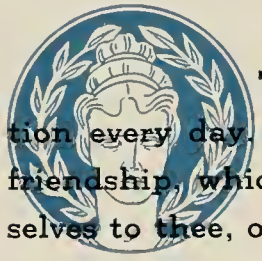
kappa kappa gamma



To the blue and blue; to Kappa Kappa Gamma, we look for inspiration every day. The golden key shall always be the symbol of true and lasting friendship, which we have found within our sisterhood. We humbly pledge ourselves to thee, our aim shall be to raise thy honor high.

I UNLOCKED A door with a golden key, stepped inside to a room blue and blue, there waited the girls of the fleur-de-lis, whom I now present to you. Yes, these are the Kappa Kappa Gamma girls, ably lead by 'Cile McLean who finds time to draw cartoons and enter every possible contest. Clark and Lecompt uphold the blue and gold of ATO. Williams busy cleaning the room prior to her weekend trip to Raleigh. Social Standards President Dibble, announces the uniform of the day. Richards shows us how to be a wheel and still have fun. Bockmiller, "But, we haven't got enough money to do that." "Monster" Manley and her ape act. Mickey playing cupbearer for the Sigma Chi's. Jones loses door and finds Beta pin, both soon returned. Norcross backs into the cover of Mademoiselle. Joanny wishes that there were four more years of Duke and SAE's. Zipplie's true to Sigma Nu. "Watts" Dede doing this year?" Red and Helen, Barbie and Freeman in constant company. Sommer's summer in France . . . Scotty returns to Duke for Pat and law school. Terri "of causit" Stewart being smooth and bringing in a fine pledge class. Kern being stern on Judicial. F.A.C.'s Crooke, Neumeister, and Ingwerson keeping freshmen on the straight and narrow. Ibel showing us good food "Louisiana style." Noey setting her sails toward Yale and Princeton. Schrider taking roll in assembly. Rushees cringing as Byrne topples arch in the Garden Party. Wendy and Bill pinned still. Tedstrom our bill collector. Webb and Martin our merry members. Marge, "Kids I've got a problem." Cookie Beck keeping that Northwestern gleam in her eyes. Ruth groaning over the long haul from S'gate. Sherman's monotone voice and polka-dot pajamas. Early fall initiation for Miriam and Marty. And now we close the door guarded by our tradition old owl.

"Les Soeurs Fideles"—Ninety-seven years of philanthropy and leadership make Phi Mu an organization of loyal and true sisters. And, suh, we're just as proud of our local members as we are of our illustrious honorary members Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, and Jefferson Davis.

LOOKED UP AT the old bulletin board with its withered corsages, fluttering ribbons, beat up football tickets, and other memories of week-ends, dances, rushing, and all the other things that make up a year at Duke. Will we ever forget? Freshman week with Baker and Harwood dragging the Frosh around. Rushing, with Bronson wanting geographic distribution. Moser, Woodward and Quinn, "We just can't have Ritz crackers again." Prestwich and Reske daubed from head to toe with paints. Forrest providing atmosphere with souvenirs from summer trip to Mexico. Alberts getting tons of letters in her box every day-"recs," that is. And what a terrific feeling when we got such a wonderful pledge class. Football games—Outlaw cheering for the Freshman team. Doo hiking to State games. B. J., Mona and Hinson yelling their lungs out for deah old Dook. The Navy week-end-Slo and her Middie football player. Thursday night meetings . . . Simpson trying to call the roll above the shouts of "three spades, four clubs." Vahey screaming for money and beer. Mary Jane begging for a cabin party. Sunday night sings—Tennent writing the script for Bassett sing; Gay's solo tap for Giles sing. Blue clutching her Phi Bete key. Davis headed for New York. "Heflin, we need your car!" pi beta phi

Pi Beta Phi believes in the capacity of the college girl to attain womanhood through four years of unparalleled opportunity; opportunity for intellectual development, for attainment of social maturity, for the achievement of nobility of character, for these are the principles beneath true womanhood.

'TWAS ON Venus' day happed this oft told tale—A glittering arrow from out the wine-blue skies, sped straight to the chapter room of all Pi Phis—Prexy Brinkie saw it first, "A toast to our symbol" cried she, and they all stood up the better to see—Beauty Queens Atkins and Barnett, born to please men's souls, for them men would skinny thirty foot poles—Keeper of the millions, Botkins softly but firmly, "Sisters the money," Gans, Reade and Cruthers of the disposition sunny—Beth Derr her eye on a legal career. Methinks with that sultry look she need never fear—Chivers, Buck, Hendricks, and Sawyer, FAC's all, and Student Forum head, Bunny Mall—Dependable Boyer and member of Ivy, Les Bell and individualistic Pam Bedell, whose "Ladies, don't be one of the mob" makes the independent give out with a sob—Seaburg and Bratton without whose melody filled hearts, Bishop Barnes choir might as well depart—Lill George's "I just want to say" and then there's gypsy-like Taye who held us at bay with "The ice cream mold will be a lion," and lets not forget "My Maryland" transfer Jo Ryan—"Come on down south" Stebbins, nimble fingered Buchanan, and Pat McAlister, Sandal, the unbeatable trio to which no one can hold a candle—There stood two Beta pinned Trudy and Pat Willard Kennedy who already made off with her booty—Corpening and Clements and MacKenzie, hill-billies famoso, and Kay Thomas with that man back home muy engrosso—Feaster all hepped up on her latest campaign, Higgins and Henchie, their men they can tame—Alberts whose bubbling personality would cure any malady, her Alice Marble accomplishments one day did put her on WAA. Yes, the arrow looked down, blinked forth "year well done" then back to through the wine-blue skies it flew to the old king sun.

Sigma Kappa visualizes a society based on intellectual, social, and spiritual development. Loyal service and devotion to the college and the sorority, based on the fellowship so necessary to college women, are the bywords of Sigmas, who strive to live by "One heart, one way."

WHEN WE WENT to the Sigma Kappa room Friday, we found Jean Kilmer planning to buy a bigger gavel to use at meetings and Jo thinking of new tasks for eager pledges, June, Phyllis, Wilma, Juanita, Frances, Helene, Iola, Ann, Sue, and Katherine. Mac Nelson was admiring the scholarship improvement trophy and Mary McLeod, always true to the PiKA's, was cleaning out the files. Madeline was looking over the newly decorated chapter room, pulling the drapes open and closed to see whether they really worked, while Alice and Peggy sat in one corner comparing engagement rings.

On campus we saw Georgia headed for the hospital and Dickie and Chamison on their way to the high school. Mimi was down on her knees praying for good flying weather and we saw Starry go by, carrying a copy of Richard III and a South Carolina tourist poster. Becky Burrum was there with her pin-up, Jack, and Mickey was hurrying from one lab to another. Wilma and Thalia walked down campus, Wilma talking about wedding plans and Thalia, queen of the Giles House revels, laughing, Mac was at home trying to balance the books; Shasta was trying to learn to go off the diving board without getting her hair wet. Jayne was practicing for the Music Study Club concert and Letty Lois was doing her part as the freshman's Dorothy Dix. Jane and Charlotte, the Sigma Sailorettes, danced by.

In the Union we saw Dot, the most angelic kid we know, and Bev, the best dancer of all, talking to the two earnest knitters, Jean Brown, whose socks with the Beta crest amaze every one, and Ann Barnett with her mysterious argyles. Shep, our future novelist, came in and so did Monie, who had just gotten off the desk. Anne Smith, our Phi Bete, and Celia, who had just been to get a Chronicle story, dropped by too.

zeta tau alpha

The purpose of Zeta Tau Alpha shall be "To intensify friendship, to promote happiness among its members and in every way create such sentiments, to perform such deeds and to mold such opinions as will conduce to the building up of a nobler and purer womanhood in the world."

ANOTHER YEAR rolls by and finds the Zetas gossiping again over their Thursday night coffees.

Prexy Lindy Stivers returns Hartley's pin for one last fling at Dook while Louise Register smiles to the KA pin at the "You All Boy's" serenade. Vice-prexy Marcia Crane sniffs her two dozen roses from sunny California ATO chapter. Pledge Billie Bryant is also a loyal ATO and Emory supporter. Shirley Shapleigh flashes ATO Chuck's diamond and dreams of an Apple Blossom wedding along with Betty Rumble and Renie Lynch.

Pan-Hel. treasurer Peg McFarland and SGA treasurer Nancy Bracken join the crowd mumbling about balances and budgets, while our Phi Bete Bee Bop Walters ponders over her Student-Coördinate troubles . . . Miss New Jersey, Beauty Queen Barbara Anderson and Southern PiKA Queen Love Lindsey discuss the trials and tribulations of getting pins—not straight ones either.

Pledge Jo Dawes exclaims over the "Kappa Alphas," while big sister McNamee remains true to her PiKA at Kansas, and Trish makes those flying visits home . . . love that Boston? Some jokester wants to know what "gang" those wedding bells have broken up, but sisters Lindsey and Skaale snuff her out in short order . . . Doc Leeper thinks of trying South America for a few years and not to visit M. K. Jordan—adios. Shirley Zitt runs off to Delta Phi Rho meeting as R. Clark and S. Smith come from the P. O. discussing their mail-male worries. K. Wharton tells again her favorite lecture by Talbert on Lily . . . She likes Tigress perfume also. And M. J. still talks of the wonderful Forest in Georgia.

Your coffee is cold now, so we'll move into Ye Old Shoppe, and wait for another year at Dearoldduke.

GINA MIMS, Kappa Alpha Theta junior from Memphis, Tennessee, reigned as the 1949 CHANTICLEER Beauty Queen. She was crowned at the Annual Co-ed Ball in the Woman's College Gym on Friday, November 26, 1948.

Because of the complaints of men on West who have been clamoring to have a part in choosing the beauty queen, the method of selection was altered this year to suit their wishes. Following the plan recently put into effect by the Student Coördinate Board, the eight dormitories on East and the Town Girls' Club each nominated seven girls for the Beauty Court. The names of these sixty-three candidates were then presented to the student body of East Campus at their October WSGA meeting who, in this secondary voting, narrowed the candidates to thirty-five girls. These were subsequently photographed by CHANTICLEER staff photographers. Their pictures were placed in the West Campus Union Lobby where every male had an opportunity to cast his ballot for twenty of the thirty-five girls.

The twenty finalists were photographed by the official CHANTICLEER photographer, James

MILTON CANIFF

MILTON CANIFF, CREATOR OF STEVE CANYON, SELECTS GINA MIMS AS 1949 CHANTICLEER BEAUTY QUEEN AND COURT OF TEN OTHERS

Social Standards members, charming in light blue formals, and their escorts eagerly await the entrance of the 1949 beauty court. The theme of the dance was the Cinderella Ball. The queen, who stepped from a coach, was crowned by Business Manager, Johnny Barber.

Johnny Barber, Business Manager of the CHANTICLEER, places the crown on Queen Gina as Benny Swazey, crown-bearer, stands by.

Colonna. Their pictures were sent to that cartoonist noted for his skill in drawing beautiful women, Milton Caniff, who was to select the queen and her court.

In addition to the queen, Mr. Caniff selected the following girls as members of her court: Marjorie Arthur, Mary Ann Atkins, Mary Louise Bixby, Laura Duncan, Shirley Field, Jane Ann Goode, Jan Jansen, Betty Rushing, Lindy Stivers, and Marian Chapman.

The theme of the ball was along the lines of a "Cinderella Ball," and this was carried through to the ceremonies at the intermission. Bob Welch, president of the Men's Student Government Association, introduced the members of the Social Standards Committee and their dates as they formed along the aisle from the door of the gymnasium to the raised dais on which the queen was to be crowned. He also introduced, in the order of their pictures on the following pages, the members of the Beauty Court and their dates who formed a semicircle in front of the dais. Dewey Huffines, acting as a page in search of someone who could wear the magic slipper, tried to fit it on several members of the Court. At this moment, Gina Mims stepped from a mock carriage at the rear of the dais and wore the slipper successfully, after which Johnny Barber, as Business Manager of the CHANTICLEER, crowned her.

Laura Duncan, Molly Bixby, Margie Arthur, and Marion Chapman, members of the beauty court, watch with Queen Gina Mims as the members of the Social Standards Committee form their figure immediately following the crowning of the forty-nine Beauty Queen.

SAILORS AND SIGS CHOOSE A SWEETHEART AND A QUEEN FOR 1949

Shirley Field, Sweetheart of Sigma Chi

FROM AMONG six candidates for the title, Shirley Field was chosen "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" for 1948-49. Her coronation was part of an annual banquet and dance held December 3, 1948, at Hope Valley Country Club. John Boggs presented the queen with a cross of white carnations, a small personal trophy, and a silver trophy to be retained by her sorority, Alpha Delta Pi.

The six candidates for the crown, chosen by members of the local chapter from thirty-six contenders, were as follows: Nina Arnold, Jan Ross, Jane Caldwell, Laura Duncan, Lena Harris and Shirley Field.

In preparation for making the final selection of sweetheart, an open house was held in the Sigma Chi chapter room, at which the various candidates were entertained. Afterwards, the fraternity entertained the candidates at an informal dance in the Ark at which the six finalists were chosen.

THE NAVY BALL, traditionally held every year immediately following Christmas vacation, was on Friday, January 7. The dance committee made all the arrangements for the closed dance which was held in the Women's Gymnasium, Tommy Farr and the Duke Ambassadors providing the music.

The N.R.O.T.C. queen was crowned during the intermission by Lieutenant Commander Don Withers, student battalion commander. The students in the Corps selected Miss Carolyn Callihan, Kappa Alpha Theta junior from Ashland, Ky., over nine other contestants who were sponsored by different members of the Unit. She was conducted by Ray Roberts, Commodore Club president, through an arch of raised swords to a flag-bedecked signal bridge where Withers crowned her and presented her with a bouquet of roses.

Carolyn Callihan, Navy Queen, with Don Withers, Student Commander.

Pat McAlister, Giles House sophomore, was crowned as Duke's first homecoming queen by Mr. Herbert Smith, president of the Alumni Association, during the half-time activities at the Duke-Tech game. As she received her crown the Duke band played "Sweet and Lovely."

FANFARE, FOOTBALL AND A HOMECOMING QUEEN FOR ALUMNI

HOMECOMING QUEEN was a new role this year for an East Campus co-ed to fill.

Ten girls were chosen on the basis of popularity, personality, and attractiveness from each of the eight dormitories and the Town Girls' Club. The queen was then chosen by a board consisting of ten men, two representing each class, one representing publications, and one representing Men's Student Government.

Nominees for the queen were Liz Hoff, Bassett House; Marcia Crane, Brown House; Ann Zipplies, Aycock House; Pat McAlister, Giles House; Nancy Hanks, Jarvis House; Betty Bob Walters, Southgate Hall; Sally Brown, Pegram House; Jane Suggs, Town Girls; and Nan Hedden, Alspaugh House.

Pat McAlister was chosen as the queen and was crowned by Herbert Smith, the president of the Alumni Association in pre-game ceremonies that introduced all the girls to the spectators.

WEST'S BEST DISPLAY CHARMS FOR ARABIAN KNIGHT TITLE

THE MOST original scene to appear on Duke campus recently was the tableau of "Arabian Knights" at the second annual spring dance of the Pan-Hellenic Council. For many years the men of West campus have chosen the girls whom they have admired for their beauty and personality, but women had no chance to pick their favorite male. The women hit upon the original idea of choosing an "Arabian Knight" or, as he was called the previous year, a Greek king.

Each sorority picked a candidate, his measurements, —eyes, hair, height, weight, chest, shoulders, waist,—were taken and a publicity campaign begun. Riding in convertibles full of beautiful co-eds and newspaper pictures of domestic bliss preceded the voting by the entire campus. Even a beauty-parade before the assembly of the Woman's College was featured.

The crowning moment came as the knight, supported by two sorority sponsors, was crowned with a large, red velvet turban at the Pan-Hellenic dance. Jean Savage, president of Pan-Hel. was on hand to crown the choice.

For those students not fortunate enough to return to school in the fall with a car, the Duke Power Co. provides the main link between East and West. Running at 10 minute intervals, the quick bus service assures the students of making that 9:20 class or that 7:30 date on time.

RELUCTANTLY WE RETURN IN THE FALL TO OLD FRIENDS, STRANGE FACES, AND A NEW SCHEDULE OF QUIZZES AND TERM PAPERS

DUKE TRADITION returned for a brief moment with the arrival of green freshmen at an early date in September. Broad brimmed "dinks" were jammed on the heads of West's rebellious freshmen with strict orders from upperclassmen to keep off the Senior Walk. East's new supply of co-eds were cuddled and pampered through the tense period of indoctrination. The neophytes collapsed in an exhausted state after one week of placement tests, parties, and tours around the campus with little idea of what was really ahead. After many envious looks at the fall fashions imported by the fledglings, the oldsters as well as the newcomers felt a certain amount of anticipation at standing in line at the book exchange, trying out a new schedule; soon the excitement wore off and everyone settled back into a state of lethargy.

East Campus wore a perpetual smile and mouthed an affected friendly greeting through the two weeks of sorority rushing. The trek out to the Duke Stadium to support the Blue Devil eleven brought college spirit and social life to its peak. In its biggest year since the end of the war, school spirit bounded back with the revival of the pajama parade to downtown Durham and the traditional bonfire and pep rally preceding the Duke-Carolina game.

WINTER—WE'RE SHOCKED BY AN OCCASIONAL SNOWFALL, PLEASED BY THE ABUNDANCE OF PARTIES AND ANNOYED BY A LACK OF QP'S

Marilyn Bailey and Kay Richardson enter wholeheartedly into the Yuletide spirit as they decorate the Christmas tree in Jarvis House.

OPENING with the last football game and introduced by the Co-ed Ball, the winter season brought about a more dignified and stately air to the Duke scene. After the Beauty Queen was properly placed on her throne amid pomp and discussion, East and West settled down to thoughts of preparation for Christmas, which was only a month away.

Even though Miller's and the Saddle Club enjoyed their usual week-end prosperity, the Student Forum and Concert Series lent a scholarly atmosphere; Cornelia Otis Skinner and Lily Pons were the most popular artists of the year, attracting even those students who fall into the classification, "it's not for knowledge that we came to college."

After the two weeks of home and perfect freedom, the Dukesters returned in high spirits, only to be dashed by impending exams. The dorms were like tombs, and breakfast in the Union suddenly became the fad.

The freshmen wondered how they would ever live through another exam period, while the worldly seniors shrugged their shoulders and sighed.

That terrifying reckoning day arrives, and Richard Montague yearns for some inspiration as he prepares to fight the well-known Battle of the Blue Book.

Among the more worthwhile functions of the holiday season were the Christmas parties given by campus groups for underprivileged children of Durham. At left, Edgemont children enjoy refreshments at ATO party. Right, at Kappa party, Santa Claus Maas was the main attraction.

An early morning view in the Dope Shop at the breakfast hour finds Happa and Janet making small talk while Butz listens interestedly. Sandra; Sherman and Boots look grim about life in general as another day of classes begins, while conscientious Betsy busily finishes her homework

The Sarah P. Duke Memorial Gardens provide a pleasant atmosphere for students desiring a leisurely Sunday afternoon stroll away from the rush of campus activities. The gardens are a scene of perpetual beauty, especially in the springtime.

SPRING WEATHER, WITH ITS WELL-KNOWN AFFLICTION, FINDS US LOAFING AND LAUGHING, ANTICIPATING THE END OF ANOTHER YEAR

"IN the spring a young man's fancy," and we all know the rest of that well known phrase. The atmosphere at Duke seems to be most conducive to the suggested pastime in this quote. The more aesthetic minded indulge in walks through the garden while botany students can be seen tracking down a rare specimen. Others choose to vacate usual habitats and migrate to the approved sun bathing area behind the gym, much to the delight of wandering boys.

Cabin parties, book reports, picnics, tests, and graduation climax a full season. Goodbye, Au Revoir, Adios. Spring is sprung.

While classmates applaud, Liz Hoff receives the traditional white carnation, as she is tapped for White Duchy, secret organization for senior women.

A familiar campus scene is the one pictured above. Students lounge on the library steps during the warm days of spring taking a brief respite from term papers and studying. Big discussions go on about studies, politics, spring fever, and that big date for Saturday night.

FRESHMEN HIT CAMPUS SEVEN DAYS EARLY FOR A HECTIC ORIENTATION WEEK OF TESTS, INTERVIEWS AND INFORMAL PARTIES

Joan Mader points an accusing pencil at a smiling frosh at the Bassett open house during Freshman Week, while Alice Youmans looks dubious. Right, At last a real use has been found for the Duke Chronicle as three frosh look and feel silly modeling the latest thing in mens' wear.

At the W.A.A. open house during Freshman Week cheerleaders led the frosh in Duke cheers. Jarvis girls strain their vocal chords trying to win the honor of being the loudest women on East. The co-eds were duly rewarded for their attempts with a buffet supper on the gym lawn.

ARRIVING from all sections, freshmen poured in to this thriving metropolis, laden with a million articles they would never use, and the wisdom-filled advice from mama and papa. The boys were greeted upon arrival by news of the reinstatement of the old tradition; wearing dinks, that is. Their other jobs included guarding the Carolina game bonfire and reciting school yells and cheers, and they were prohibited from sitting on the Chapel steps.

Before the frosh could say, "nov schmov ka pop," the grueling week began. Tests, interviews, physical examinations, and receptions helped them become oriented to their new life. Saturday night an open house was arranged by "Y" workers where freshman girls and boys could become acquainted. Attired in their Sunday best, boys shyly asked directions to the dormitories, and the girls huddled together in a corner, discussing the age, height and financial status of their guests.

Just about the time they've learned the names of a few people the upperclassmen return; an event which shakes the freshman's equilibrium.

Freshmen girls assemble in the Woman's College Auditorium every Tuesday and Thursday for class meetings or to hear a talk on some phase of the activities and curricula at Duke. During these interesting and instructive assemblies the girls read, talk, knit and sometimes sleep.

Gene Edmonds decides he likes this picture-taking business after all, if they're all as cute as Marjorie Arthur.

SUPERIOR SOPHOMORES WREAK HAVOC AMONG FRESHMAN GOONS

"WHENEVER a wondrous, warmhearted, winsome sophomore would wish to woo such wanton, woeful waifs as we," . . . and so it went. Goon Day, created by early believers of freshman unimportance, is a time of de-glamorization. Cavorting in traditional manner, freshmen girls, attired in inside out blue jeans, a pajama top worn backwards and large signs naming the owner, swept out busses, comforted Washington Duke and pushed cigarettes around the quadrangle with their noses. For these ridiculous antics, the ladies were rewarded by a pigtail from the beneficent sophomores.

The correct evening wear for a well-dressed goon was a tail three-feet long, whiskers, and a pair of ears attached to the jaw, and boys from West eagerly watched as they crawled up the aisles. As the night wore on, the tired freshmen trudged wearily home. The end of another Goon Day. Thank God!

"Which goon has the 'Ioni?" Nine freshman girls cheer as West invades East to witness Goon Day activities. Anne Schettler and Ann Lundberg lead off for Pegram in the wheelbarrow race. Competition is high in the interdormitory games held in the East Campus Quadrangle.

Left, A goon earns another pigtail proposing to a boy from West in the midst of a cheering crowd. Top, At Rat Court four freshman lovelies tell why they should be elected beauty queen. Bottom, Upon demand goons sing the sophomore song and recite the confusing tongue twister.

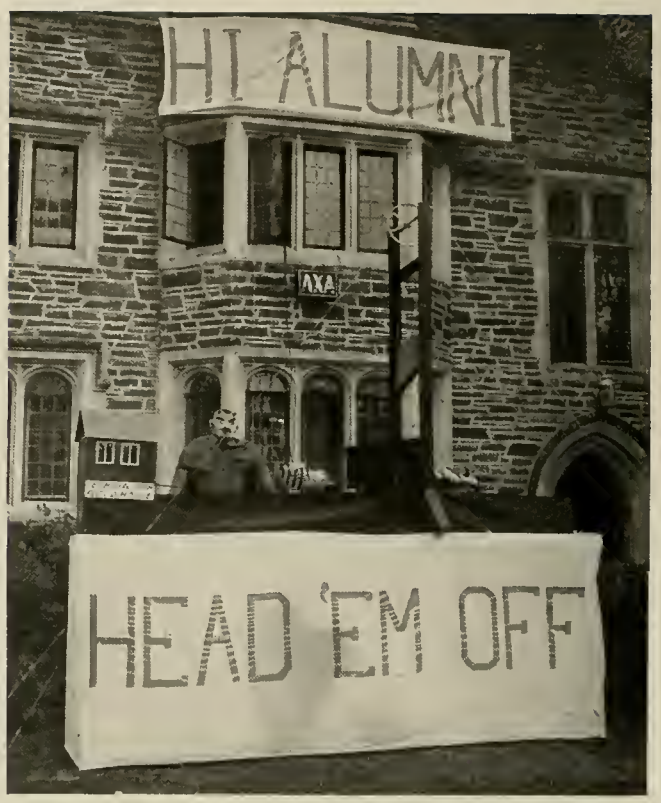
At the finale of Goon Day, last year's queen of Goons, Becky Moser; proudly places the crown on her delighted successor; "T" Stevens.

Marilyn Stokes attempts to create an impression, but Wash Duke, who has suffered through many Goon Days, stares stonily ahead.

HOMECOMING DISPLAYS, FOOTBALL GAME, AND HALF-TIME PAGEANTRY BY UNIVERSITY BAND WELCOME OLD GRADS BACK TO DUKE CAMPUS

ONCE A YEAR the old grads come back to campus and try to relive their college days, and the undergraduates take it as a good opportunity to meet their forerunners and have a whale of a good time for themselves. The climax of the Homecoming weekend is the football game on Saturday, this year with Georgia Tech. Even though we lost the game, spirits were not depressed for long. The fortunate few were able to get into the various night spots around Durham, while the rest stood outside and looked in wistfully.

The fraternities outdid themselves this year in decorations on houses as well as the freshman dormitories and the East Campus houses. Originality was rampant, the exhibits ranging all the way from clever "still-life" displays on East and among the freshmen to animated contraptions that taxed the ingenuity of the fraternity men to create them and the judges to figure out just what they were.



The Lambda Chi guillotine heads off the Tech yellow jackets. The displays were judged on originality and appropriateness.

Sigma Chis put the finishing touches on their winking sixteen foot mechanical chicken which laid eggs as well as cackled. The originality of this colorful display won the Sig's first prize. The engineers in the fraternity deserve the credit for creating this complicated apparatus.

CHEERING AND SINGING AT FIVE POINTS WITH PAJAMA PARADES AND SPECIAL STUNTS ARE PREREQUISITES FOR EVERY GAME

ON THE NIGHT before a football game there is nothing like a good pep rally to get the student body in a frame of mind likely to produce lusty yelling the next day. The pep rallies this year were the same way; yell Friday night, yell Saturday afternoon, that is, if you have any voice left.

The freshmen got hot once this year; thinking that they were being unjustly accused of being unspirited, they promptly roused themselves and the rest of West campus in an unrehearsed demonstration in front of the clock tower. With firecrackers and cries of "We want Sharpe," they convinced us all that they really had spirit.

Above, Loring Jones and Norman Sper, Duke and U. N. C. head cheerleaders, make a friendly challenge over the new victory bell.

As a climax to the first all downtown pep rally led by 150 torches on the night before the Homecoming game with Georgia Tech, a large yellow jacket was burned in a parking lot by some of the eager participants. Bob Hazel looks grimly sad—maybe he had a premonition.

Left, The Betas tune up their vocal chords while a brother beats it out on the piano during one of the open houses for the freshmen. Right, The Sigma Nus gather outside on their section's patio, at one of the first semester rushing functions, to practice the big talk and sip punch.

FRESHMEN ARE EXPOSED TO LONG HOURS OF HAND SHAKING AND GLIB CHATTER AS WEST CAMPUS GREEKS START THE ETERNAL CYCLE

Kappa Sigs play hosts to prospective pledges at an open house in their chapter room during what is well-named as the rushing season.

RUSHING ON East Campus started in the fall, as usual, and lasted for two hectic weeks, during which the ladies visited and were visited, invited and got invited, and finally, after making their choices, fell weeping and laughing into each other's arms with the abandon and joy of real Greeks, convinced that they had made the perfect choice and college life was really wonderful. It wasn't until the next few days when they discovered two weeks of homework and those nasty old quizzes hanging over them that the wailing wall got overworked.

The IFC instituted a new system of rushing with normal relations with freshmen this year, thus making it possible to know more freshmen better by the time spring rushing started in earnest. Beginning the first weekend after the second semester opened, one could see such things as freshmen being addressed familiarly by some fraternity man whom they were unable to place, and the continuous streams of men going in and out of the fraternity houses on West Campus. But here, too, all things must come to an end, and by the first of March, every lodge was convinced that it had the best pledge class on campus.

Two Thetas and two Alpha Chis practice their best smiles and good manners visiting Marie Brown and Nancy Flickinger during rushing.

HECTIC RUSHING AND ANTICIPATION END WITH HAPPINESS AND TEARS

STUDENTS SEE EVIDENCES OF THE ACTIVITIES OF NEW CAMPUS ORGANIZATION AT PREMIERE BALL WITH SPIVAK AND COMPANY

The club officers and sponsors were presented during intermission. Aside from dances, Mr. Spivak also entertained at a swing concert.

CONTRARY to Duke Tradition, the week-end of the Spivak dances dawned clear. Duke men and women set out anticipating Irene, free cigarettes, and a few laughs.

The big occasion began with a concert Friday afternoon, and informal dance that night, and a formal Saturday night ended the festivities.

The Spring weekend heightened the precedent so newly set by hailing Claude Thornhill as the special attraction.

Roger Kirchofer was elected to succeed Chuck White, the first president. The club, a brain child of Larry Lee, proved with much work that big dances were successful in spite of the failure anticipated by a large number of skeptics.

Smiling Dukesters show hearty approval of the return of big name bands as they crowd around the bandstand at the Shoe and Slipper sponsored Spivak dance. The club was founded last year under the supervision of IFC, for the purpose of securing the nation's top dance bands.

PULCHRITUDE ON PARADE AS NEW BEAUTY QUEEN IS CROWNED AND SOCIAL STANDARDS COMMITTEE PRESENTS ITS TRADITIONAL DANCE

"Hey, buddy, give another guy a chance." Russ Coble cuts in on Ed Hillman for a dance with Barbara Armstrong at the Co-ed Ball.

After the crowning of Gina Mims as beauty queen, the crowd stepped back to watch Social Standards members execute a figure.

"After the ball is over." Bob Price, Sally Patterson, Bill Watson, Janet Nixon, Manley Stockton, and Barbara Kerr, weary from a night of dancing, enjoy hot chocolate and sandwiches as they forsake the formality of chairs to relax in a corner of one of Southgate's spacious parlors.

Top, Sally, Johnny, and Marty share a chair while having their early morning coffee in Aycock parlor after the Co-ed Ball. Left, In Aycock, tired but happy dancers find a refreshing conclusion to their evening. Right, Southgate served an early breakfast too, as did the other dorms

Darrell Williams and Nancy McLeod keep in step with a fast number played by Tommy Farr's Duke Ambassadors at the KA-SAE dance.

TRADITIONAL HOPS BY VARIOUS CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS AND "GET-ACQUAINTED" DANCES BY DORMS PROVIDE SOCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

Filled with brotherly spirit KA's and SAE's form a circle together and sing Christmas carols and fraternity songs at their annual Christmas dance held in the East Campus gymnasium. During intermission the girls were presented with white carnation corsages by Santa Claus.

WITH LITTLE or no excuse, a dance is held, and all variations of combinations are attempted in order to provide originality. There are house dances, fraternity dances, class dances, organization dances, sorority dances, and inter-sorority or—fraternity dances. There are even dances when the women plan, present and pay for the affair. Fraternity men and their dates form in cirlees to sing their favorite fraternity songs at intermission time rather than leave the floor for a breath of fresh air. The Ambassadors are generally on call for organized dances, providing "big name" music without the big name. Dances, no matter what the occasion, will remain an integral part of the social rounding that is part of education.

The entertainment at the Southgate house dance turns to the unusual. Our elderly friend displays the latest Social Standards rules.

GROUP SINGING AND SKILLFULLY EXECUTED SKITS ARE PRESENTED BY DORMS AND GROUPS FOR ENJOYABLE SUNDAY EVENING

Although you can't tell by the stonefaces in the background, these Alspaugh Apaches are rendering a peppy war dance at the sing.

To the delight of the audience the chorus line from Alspaugh House performs a lively can-can in one of the weekly sings on East.

The long and short of it are displayed by Jean Outlaw and Scottie Taylor as Marion Spies attempts to keep them at a safe distance.

THE CAMPUS SINGS, with a variety of entertainment, gave the students many pleasant and amusing Sunday evenings this year. The Nursing School, for the first time, came over to East Campus and presented a series of hilarious skits from the operating room, the wards, and the maternity ward of the hospital in an illustration of what a nurse goes through.

Almost anyone with a yen for theatricals finds his way into the production side of a sing. The Modern Dance Club was represented in several dance routines, and quite often more laughs came from the mix-ups with the curtains and the projection slides than from the program. But everyone had fun, and there was always the mad dash down to the eateries of Main Street, although, if you didn't care to exert yourself, there were many open houses after sings, given by the organizations producing the program. Oh yes, and we sang, too.

PIN-UPS, FRATERNITY LOVE SONGS, OPEN HOUSES, FREE CIGARS

THE CHORUS of husky voices heard across the campus marks the fraternity serenade, calling to mind the random distribution of cigars by the lucky man as he receives the congratulations of his friends. It is a very solemn occasion, broken only by the gentle roar of a freight highballing past, or the muffled chuckle of a front row bass as a wayward raindrop trickles under his collar and down his back. A photographer is always present to record the ceremony but finds many more interesting subjects in pigtails and pajamas peering through darkened windows.

These are the nostalgic by-products of what the grad remembers when he hears the magic word, "serenade."

In Ann Flintom's room, Phi Mu's sing sorority songs at her Kappa Sig serenade following her acceptance of the crescent and star.

In front of Brown House, KA's serenade ADPi Rose Marie Wilson, who is pinned to Zeno Edwards. KA serenades feature a specialty number by their string quarter. In the spring when a young man's fancy turns to love, fraternity serenades are weekly occurrences on East Campus.

Al D'Alonzo and unidentified companion entertain fellow Kappa Sigs and their dates at their fall cabin party at Crabtree Park.

THE SHORT winter leaves on either end of it an expanded fall and spring—both of them being cabin-party season. Cabin party—that's a clambake with a Southern exposure. But, in spite of the jokes about dark cabins and cool evenings, to the girl, this is a chance to get out from under the decorum that is socially pressing her and cavort in her blue jeans. To the guy, this is his chance to see his favorite date at her most primitive, sans books and beaux. To the would-be comedian, this is his chance to corner an audience that is helpless until the trucks come for them. To the chaperon this is a chance to play several hours of bridge. To the self-acclaimed touch football player, this is a chance to get out of the catacombs of study for an afternoon. To the bridge fanatic, this is a chance to revel in the surplus of opponents. To each of these, the cabin party means something individual. But, to all of these, it is an opportunity to relax and run away from the formalities of the term paper, the book report, the hour exam.

If you're immune to poison ivy, like snakes, bugs, burned hot dogs, and a rugged two-hour hike through the underbrush, you're the cabin party type!

OUTDOOR ENTHUSIASTS REVEL IN FRATERNITY AND SORORITY CABIN PARTY ENTERTAINMENT . . . RUGGED SPORTS AND BURNED HOT DOGS

Cabin parties are weekly occurrences in the fall and spring. Around the fireplaces boys and their dates chat, and sing fraternity songs.

In typical cabin party attire, Frank Siler and Hod Shankle present a skit in dialect for those at the ATO cabin party.

Equipped with blankets and portable radios, boys and girls in blue jeans and plaid shirts pile on the truck that will take them to the ATO cabin party. Trucks are regularly provided to transport students without cars to Bailey's or Crabtree where the parties are usually held.

After an afternoon filled with football, baseball, and bridge, hungry ATOs and their dates line up in the cabin for a hearty dinner of fried chicken, hush puppies, cole slaw, french fries, and chocolate milk, served by the conscientious Social Committee for the pleasure of all.

Top, Jo Ann Beachley applies the finishing touches. Middle, Nancy Smith and pet Panda study together. Bottom, Betty Funk finds time for a short snooze.

ENVELOPED in the seclusion of dormitory walls, East Campus occupants spend their time studying, playing bridge, busy with such menial household tasks as washing and making beds and beauty preparation. The latter can consist of a variety of nondescriptive objects such as socks, curlers, hormone cream or eyelash curlers, which have been known to remove as well as curl the eyelash.

Trips to the Dope Shop are not infrequent, but the decision is announced in hushed tones lest the girl down the hall asks you to get her a couple of quarts of ginger ale.

LES FEMMES IN EVERYDAY LIFE . . . BRIDGE PARTIES, SUNBATHING AND LAUNDRY!

Top, Jean White admires Betty Becker's new evening dress. Bottom, Just to prove Duke co-eds can be domestic when necessity demands.

Sally Butz, trying indoor photography, snaps Jo Fulcher as she is washing her hair in a Pegram shower.

"Please call at window for ordinary parcel." This is a wonderful sight to bleary East Campus eyes, signifying the arrival of a package from home. Especially between classes, the Post Office is a scene of continual activity, as impatient students wait in line for stamps and packages.

Dottie Lenning, Marion Chapman, Anne Sherman, Jo Hendricks, and Adele Woodall sun-bathe in back of the Women's Gym. When spring breezes blow, gals spend many a grueling hour in the hot sun, equipped with books, cards and portables, trying to get a "fine, brown frame."

MOST OF US find a home here for four years; some of us are asked to go home before the end of four years; and some of us have to be sent to a home after four years. Each quadrangle or section has its own characters that make our stay more pleasant. There is the eccentric, probably typed in some psychological handbook, who delights in shooting off fire crackers in the corridors. He is irritating to all except those who are practicing to live inside a bass drum. There is the homo-hollerus who rehearses his mating call at the top of his lungs from his tower window at midnight. The answer to his call seems to be "Aah Shaddup," or "Knock it off." There is the homo-ventilatus who comes indoors only because that is where his bed is. He tries to maintain the environment of his native habitat by opening wide all windows and making lesser souls wish they had electrically-heated underwear. Then there is the common, unheralded individual—the student—who asks merely to be let alone to pursue his course of study. He is learning to be a college graduate.

Three students stop for the refreshing pause at the Coke machine under the "Y" office, one of the many placed on West this year.

. . . AND WHO CAN FORGET THE PARTIES IN THE HOUSES, TRYING TO WAKE UP SHAVING, AND THE BANK BOTTLENECK ON THE FIRST?

Left, Lines at the West Campus bank are long and slow when the first of the month rolls around and the long-awaited allowance checks come pouring in. Right, Crusty Rosemond, Nancy Robinson, and Sigie Courtney take time out for a quick coke between classes in the Dope Shop.

Wilson Boshamer looks dubious and mumbles a few unmentionables as Mr. Erwin chops off his curly locks in the Duke barber shop.

On week-end evenings the heads on West Campus are always scenes of busy activity in feverish preparation for the big night.

Charlie Edwards finds himself rooming in the main quadrangle as a result of the playful antics of his brother KA's. While Charlie was dutifully attending a fraternity meeting the "fellows" decided to take matters into their own hands and alleviate crowded rooming conditions.

Donna Perkins, Fred McGranahan, Nancy Glass, Ann Goode, and Russ Coble watch as Crusty Rosemond, with obvious delight, finishes a steak at the Saddle Club, popular night-spot for Dukesters.

DURHAM'S GREAT WHITE WAY IS A WEEKEND AND EVENING MECCA FOR THE PARTY MINDED WHERE EAST AND WEST DO MEET AT LAST

Ralph Brown, Joanne Wharton, Pershing Smith, and a Covered Wagon cigar enjoy a big evening at the Saddle Club, target for many overworked, pleasure-seeking students.

When the week-end arrives Dukesters head for the exciting night spots in Durham to get away from it all. Ed, Cy, George, Bruggie, and Jim find their fun at the Saddle.

PARTY, PARTY, PARTY . . . this term does not infer that our studies are left behind, for it is here that we find a practical application for what we assimilate between the bookends. Upon entering a party-place, our knowledge of physics reminds us that two things cannot occupy the same place at the same time. But, in spite of the mob, we apply our book psychology to the proprietor hoping that he will conjure up some room for a "special friend." Statistics are wrong again when he does the impossible by finding us seating space, and some of us proceed to change our blood chemistry. When the waitress brings the check upon our departure, we are glad that we took a course in auditing in order to avoid the complications of erroneous addition. Truly, we appreciate the academic value of our party life.

Top, Many Duke students eat dinner at the Palms Restaurant. Bottom, Ending the evening with a snack at the Donut Dinette.

The sign says STOP, and they did. Lib, Joanne and Marcia spend a December afternoon relaxing on the benches under the big green umbrella at Bailey's, just off East Campus, with Geene, George, and Steele. Pepper and Bob Price find beer cases more casual resting places.

Church Night meetings, once a year, are held for Duke groups to meet with their respective churches in town. Left, The Westminster Fellowship is entertained at the First Presbyterian Church. Right, The Episcopal group having a social period at St. Joseph's Church.

DENOMINATIONAL GROUPS PROVIDE RELIGIOUS DISCUSSION PANELS, FELLOWSHIP AND SOCIAL LIFE FOR MEMBERS OF CAMPUS COMMUNITY

Some members of the Lutheran Church group enjoy themselves at a spring-time wiener roast at the Bird Sanctuary. Many groups have such functions every year.

As "Perk" watches, Fred Folger autographs a football for an orphan sponsored by the Baptist Union.

This scene at the Methodist Student Fellowship features a solo by one of the members. This group meets in the Music Room in the East Duke building on the Woman's College Campus for its Sunday services. This room is used at other times for concerts and lectures.

In the President's Club Room on East Campus, the Aquinas Club, the Catholic study group, gathers around the piano to sing a few songs at one of its regular meetings. Mass is held every Sunday morning at eight o'clock.

Hillel Society groups from Duke, Carolina and W.C.U.N.C. enjoy a dance after a Silver Anniversity meeting at U.N.C.

As part of the religious activities, an International Tea is held in the Ark for foreign students.

alpha sigma sigma

Alpha Sigma Sigma was organized so that proper recognition might be given to those who have, in their various ways, distinguished themselves from the ordinary, run-of-the-mill student. For, it is felt, in any university worthy of the name, there will be those whose outstanding traits call for more than mere mention.

To this organization it has been possible to nominate only the most illustrious members of the student body, leaving, as was done last year, classification to the discretion and imagination of the reader.

...keep our place in the world?

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—first among nations in national income! First in production of wheat, corn, cotton, petroleum, coal, and iron! First in communications, in motor vehicles per capita—first in many essentials to good living and prosperity.

And directly related to that position of leadership is our standard of education—for it has been shown that a country's wealth and welfare rise along with its educational standards. And countries rich in natural resources can be poor and backward without the benefits of education.

Yes, the United States is a leader in the field of education too—but for how long? Appalling conditions prevail today in many of our schools. Many of our most brilliant teachers are working against odds—crowded classrooms, shortages of equipment and textbooks, long hours. . . . Thousands have left the profession for other work.

You, and every United States citizen, will suffer from this situation, because it cannot help affecting our national prosperity before long.

WHAT TO DO?

Today—make it your business to take these two steps: 1. Check up on educational conditions in your local schools; 2. Back up and work with organizations seeking to improve teachers' working and living conditions. For only by keeping our educational standards high can we hold our place in the world—and assure a prosperous future for our children.
